The Library Corner

by Flora Allison

Swingin' into summer (or so the calendar says) means a slight change in schedule as far as the library is concerned. we are staying open until 8 p.m. for the convenience of those who work and want to get maximum use of the library. We do, however, close for Saturday while school is recessed. So it's weekdays only, until fall, closed Saturdays and Sundays.

We also are about to inaugurate the summer reading program for children under fifth grade. It's a swingin', rootin', tootin' affair this year, with the name of "Reading Roundup" to catch the kids' eye. We want all of you in here on June 9 to register. Your name then goes on your own reading chart, and for each two books you read and report on in the one line provided on the report sheet, you get to paste a stamp of a bucking bronc or other wild horse critter on your sheet. When you have read 20 books, within the six weeks of the program, you will be entitled to a treat, much like the one you had so much fun with last year, remember?

Books for Adults

In answer to the demand by parents and their budding offspring on the straight sex facts and all their ramifications, told from the Judeo-Christian standpoint, "Love and the Facts of Life" by Evelyn Duvall comes as close to filling this need as any book we've come across. Young people are clued in on the do's and dont's, the whys and why-nots, and what to expect when the why nots are disregarded.

"Sex and love (are) placed in the total life context and in the tradition which gives durable significance to these elemental factors in life and society," sums up the book. Home and church libraries which encourage young people to get their information from correct sources without evasiveness, "telling it like it is", can do no better, probably, than to add this to their collection.

"The Natural Method of Dog Training" by a veterinarian, Leon Whitney, also comes to our attention as tops in its field. It's new and so simple you'll say, "Now, why didn't I think of that?" for methods of getting that pooch to know who's master of the house. That long-haired creature who'll dare you to dispute him for possession of his favorite chair, who'll go on chewing your slippers, who'll chase ears, who'll bark incessantly from the time you drive out of the yard until you return, who'll run off instead of coming when he's called, will soon learn by the simple procedures outlined in this book, that he's your dog; you are not his man.

This is a ready reference you'll like so well that you'll surely want a copy for yourself where you'll have it when it's needed. Check it out first here and see if you don't agree with our estimate of it, prove that it will make your neighbors appreciate both you and your dog even more.

If John Gunther had written only one "Inside" book and it had been "Inside South America," (one we've had awhile but haven't checked out nearly often enough), his would still be a name to remember. For sheer doggedness in research he would still stand alone, covering something like 30,000 miles for facts for his book, visiting every important country he writes about, interviewing around 1,500 people of all strata of life, perhaps few can equal him.

Add to that his undisputed organizational genius and a flawless and commanding feel for the king's English, and for what is novel, beautiful, offbeat, tragic, humorous or just plain interesting, combine them in one colossal effort between two books covers and you have the formula for instant success. Readers are accustomed to expect the best from the tireless and voluminous typewriter of one of the greatest chroniclers of the human scene and "Inside South America" lives up to the highest expectations. Check out this marvelously interesting book and see if you don't agree.

Books for Teenagers

"The Vanished Jet" by James Blish is a story of intrigue involving the tragedy of a 15-year-old boy who learns that the new sub-orbital jet on which his parents were traveling had disappeared enroute to the Paris air show. It would seem like the end of the kid's world, but Ston Dorman, whose father was air attache to the U.S. state department, had learned self-reliance at an early age and he wasn't about to buy a story he knew little more than the title of.

The inquiring nature of his mind led him on a search that promises a suspenseful period which has its humor and imagination as well as its chills. The time is 1975, and when the story was written, this date was far into the future. The plane, with a payload of 250 passengers whom it could zip N.Y. to London in one hour, staying just under outer space at her apogee, is not so far-fetched today as at that time, and this gives an immediacy of "now" to the book, something that will make it even more groovy in kids' minds than it already was when first thought up.

There's a section next to the shelves of teenage fiction on which non-fiction just geared to your interests is beginning to build up. In history, have you ever heard of the Great Fire of London? In 1666, London and Greater London held concentrations of over one tenth of the population of England, with crooked streets, with rivers of garbage running down their centers, the great Cathedral dominating the scene, and much of this was swept off the face of the earth by one of the most devastating fires in history.

Demolition squads blew up whole sections of town in an effort to give the flames nothing more to feed on, but the fire leaped across these sections and fanned the glowing coals of its devastated areas to sparks that bourned out still more of the city. It's all in "The Great Fire of London" which you'll find in the new teenage non-fiction section.

Books for Juniors

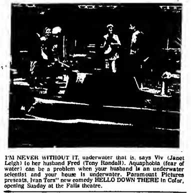
"Better Swimming and Diving For Boys and Girls" is a tell-and-show book that contains in words and pictures all you'll need to know to make you dive and swim like a pro; if you practice long and hard like they do, that is. It looks like a perfect way to have fun while you're learning, though, and with both the ol' swimmin' hole and the pool, every kid (and his parents) now have the best opportunity of their lives for becoming experts in the water.

Young readers receive an appealing introduction to the world of ballet in the new book, "Stories of the Ballets: Nutcracker and Swan Lake." In the former, little Clara is taken on a fanciful journey into the Land of Sweets by the nutcracker carved in the shape of a soldier. In Swan Lake, a beautiful princess is freed from the spell which made her into a swan until the love of a handsome prince would free her. Children or adults having seen either of these ballets will want to read the story behind each of them.

Third and fourth graders, check out the picture story book about Pizarro by Robert Vavra. "Pizarro" takes you to beautiful Mexico with the color camera and lets you in on all the contrasts of life lived by your little Mexican cousin and his little Burro. There women cook over an open fire, have no running water and wash clothes in the pond. The nicest part of the book is its lovely color photos that lend it a realism so great you'll almost feel that you're out there with little Pizarro in the sizzling sunshine.

Books for the little guys include "Cotproof, Windproof, Rainproof," by Marcelle Bowman. In tune with spring, it tells the story of a family of sparrows and their nest, which the people living in the apartment where they built it want to destroy. But the children plead the cause of the sparrow family and save the nest and its little dwellers.

Martha and Charles Shapp have collaborated on a colorful little book to delight beginning readers. "Let's Find out About Summer," is its title. It's a "now book, the pictures telling even more of the story about "when is summer."



I'M NEVER WITHOUT IT, underwater that is, says Viv (Janet Leigh) to her husband Fred (Tony Randall). Aquaphobia (fear of water) can be a problem when your husband is an underwater scientist and your house is underwater. Paramount Pictures presents, Ivan Tors'' new comedy HELLO DOWN THERE in Color, opening Sunday at the Falls theatre.

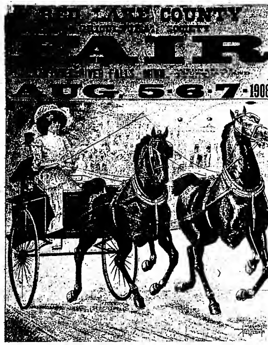
THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Vol. No. 88 Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Wednesday, June 11, 1969 Number 47



THIS COLOR POSTER was used more than 60 years ago to advertise the Red Lake county fair when Thief River Falls was a part of Red Lake county. Albin Lafquist of Strandquist found the poster between the walls of a house which he was tearing down and which was formerly owned by Levine Rokke. The poster was in exceptionally fine condition for its age, with the colors still quite bright, but had become brittle and was slightly torn in handling. This year the Pennington county fair will be held July 30-31 and August 1-2-3, and next year will be housed in the new city arena for which bids were let last week.

Vavoulis Calls for Revision of Federal Child Labor Laws

Federal standards which regulate the employment of young people under 18 in so-called "hazardous occupations" are impeding efforts to place 16 and 17-year-olds in summer jobs and should be modified, states George J. Vavoulis, Minnesota commissioner of employment security.

Vavoulis said he has written a letter to Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz, recommending that the child labor regulations be modified, and that his position is being supported by members of Minnesota's Congressional delegation.

In his letter to Secretary Shultz, Vavoulis said:

"In implementing the National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB) program in the St. Paul-Minneapolis area, we have encountered an employment situation which is seriously impeding our efforts to place 16 and 17-year-old students in jobs. The problems stem from the reluctance of some employers to hire 16 and 17-year-olds. . .We believe that (these) employment policies. . are based either on a misinterpretation of the child labor provisions of the federal fair labor standards act or a fear that employees in this age group might inadvertently be placed in hazardous occupations in violation of the law."

Noting that the present law was enacted at a time when machinery and working conditions presented a much greater hazard to workers than now exists because of the emphasis on building safety features into machinery and improved working conditions, Vavoulis said: "I am convinced that modification of the child labor laws is necessary to provide more jobs for 16 and 17-year-olds. . .As a step in stimulating the employment of youth, I recommend that the fair labor standards act be overhauled."

He asked Secretary Shultz to "give every consideration to modifying existing regulations to remove any nonessential barrier to the employment of youths 16 years of age or older."

"For my part," he wrote, "I shall continue to emphasize the urgency of the job situation to employers and encourage them to hire 16 and 17-year-olds within the restrictions of existing standards and regulations."

So far his proposal has received support from Congressmen Albert H. Quie, John M. Zwach, Odin Langen, Joseph E. Karth and Ancher Nelson. Rep. Donald Fraser also indicated interest.

Rep. Quie wrote: "You make a good point that safety requirements are more stringent now and it is very possible that 15-year-olds could be employed. . ."

Rep. Zwach said: "I share your concern in this regard and I believe many circumstances warrant a re-evaluation of the laws in order to employ those under eighteen in hazardous occupations."

Rep. Langen indicated he also is contacting Secretary Shultz on the matter and Rep. Nelsen said he hoped the secretary would give "every consideration" to the commissioner's request.

Rep. Karth said: "The points you raise do merit consideration and have long concerned me. Times have changed and often our youth are restless because of a lack of job opportunities particularly in the 16-17 age bracket. Therefore, I will be happy to communicate with the secretary in support of your proposal."

In his letter to Shultz, Vavoulis pointed out he feels an overhaul of the fair labor standards act would be a step toward stimulating employment of youth.

He wrote: "Broadening the scope of occupations open to 16 and 17-year-olds would help the labor market by relieving the labor shortage. More importantly, the 'human market' would be affected by taking idle youth off the streets and helping to make them responsible, self-respecting citizens. Additional positive effects would be assisting youngsters to continue their education, fostering in them a sense of achievement, perhaps for the first time in their lives; and facilitating their adjustment to adult society and customs."

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—My son received his college degree under the War Orphans Educational Assistance Act. He used his full 30 months entitlement. I am now eligible for up to 36 months of Veterans Administration educational assistance as the widow of a veteran killed during the Korean Conflict. If I don't use my entitlement, may my son use part of it to obtain a graduate degree when he gets out of the Army after two years of service?

A—No, your entitlement is not transferrable. The purpose of this education and assistance program for widows of veterans who died as the result of military service and the wives of permanently and totally service-disabled veterans is to enable them to advance their own skills and improve their own education so that they can re-enter or remain in the mainstream of American academic, social and economic life. However, as a veteran himself, your son will be entitled to an additional 12 months of VA educational assistance as the result of a recent law permitting an aggregate of 48 months of educational assistance under two or more VA programs.

Q—My son will soon be discharged from the army after two years of service. He received his college education under the war orphans education assistance program. Will he be entitled to any additional education assistance under the GI bill?

A—Yes. A recent law increases the aggregate amount of Veterans administration educational assistance which a veteran may receive under two or more programs from 36 to 48 months. Assuming your son received 38 months of VA benefits under the war orphans program, he will be entitled to 12 months of additional aid under the GI bill. He should make application for a certificate of eligibility from the VA regional office where his veteran records will be on file.

Q—I am a World War II veteran who financed my home with a GI loan. I am being transferred to another city by my employer. May I have my GI loan entitlement restored?

A—Yes, the sale of your GI home due to such transfer entitles you to restoration of entitlement provided the loan is paid off. However, as a World War II veteran, you have only until July 25, 1970, to use your restored entitlement. Check with your VA regional office where your records are now on file for further information and assistance in this matter.

Q—I pay premiums on my GI insurance quarterly and am concerned because I have not received my premium due notice. Should I wait until I receive this notice before paying my premium? I certainly don't want to take a chance on my policy lapsing.

A—By all means pay your premium when it becomes due even though you may not have received a premium due notice. Be certain to include your policy number with your payment.

Q—I enrolled in college this spring under the GI bill and intend to re-enter the same school and take the same course of study this fall. Must I tell the Veterans administration about my fall enrollment plans?

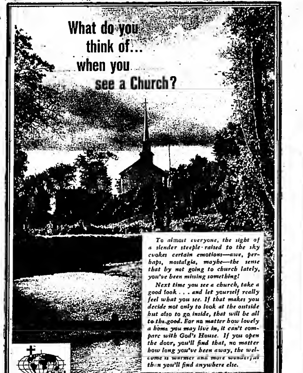
A—Before the end of your present enrollment period you will receive a certification of attendance from the VA. The primary purpose of this card is to confirm the training for which you have been paid an educational assistance allowance. However, the card also has a section relating to re-enrollment plans. By completing this section you will help VA anticipate your future educational assistance allowance needs.

Q—May a veteran receive Social security retirement credit for military service during World War II?

A—Generally, yes—a veteran may receive $160 wage credit for each month of World War II duty if he was released from service under other than dishonorable conditions and had at least 90 days of active service. However, there are exceptions. The government will not give the veteran double credit. For example, if a veteran's World War II time is counted for military or civil service retirement, he cannot also receive Social security wage credit for the time. Your nearest Social security office will be glad to answer any questions you may have.

Q—My pension was discontinued because my estate was determined by the Veterans administration to be excessive. I own E bonds jointly with my wife and reported the total maturity value of the bonds as my assets. Is it possible to obtain a different decision on my pension claim?

A—You should write to the VA and point out that your E bonds are owned jointly by yourself and your wife. Joint ownership means that your wife's share of the bonds—half their value—will not be considered in determining the value of your estate. Reconsideration of your pension entitlement will be based on your wife's share of the bonds as joint owner.



What do you think of... when you see a Church?

To almost everyone, the sight of a slender steeple raised to the sky evokes certain emotions—awe, perhaps, nostalgia, maybe—the sense that by not going to church lately, you've been missing something!

Next time you see a church, take a good look . . . and let yourself really feel what you see. If that makes you decide not only to look at the outside but also to go inside, that will be all to the good. For no matter how lovely a home you may live in, it can't compare with God's House. If you open the door, you'll find that, no matter how long you've been away, the welcome is warmer and more wonderful than you'll find anywhere else.

BUYER BEWARE BE WISE
DOUGLAS M. HEAD
Attorney General
State of Minnesota

Our Consumer Division continues to receive numerous inquiries about three Philadelphia based "clubs" that are mailing postcards to many Minnesota women informing them that they have won expensive, human hair wigs.

Our office recently warned Minnesotans that all three clubs are operated by the same man, Elliot N. Scott, who was convicted last year on 10 counts of mail fraud in connection with the "free wig" scheme.

Despite our warnings, many persons continue to be taken by the scheme.

Scott, who is free on bond pending an appeal of his conviction, is using the same fraudulent device that has already grossed him more than $300,000 from the mail order sale of his wigs.

"Dear Madam", announces postcards that are being sent to women throughout the United States. "You have just won an expensive 100 per cent Human Hair Wig."

The card explains that the winners name was entered in a drawing by one of the club's members. It asks only that the winner send $2.94 to cover postage and handling.

"You pay nothing at all for your prize," according to the postcard. "You pay for styling only." That's the trap.

Styling costs are often as high as $21. Not a bad price if the wigs were any good. But they're not. The wigs are made of an inexpensive synthetic material; cost the promoter only about $1 each, and are often not delivered.

The wigs have been described as closely resembling, among other things, a floor mop. They reportedly are good for masquerade parties.

Scott has used more than 35 trade styles and more than half a dozen addresses in peddling his wigs by mail. The cards being circulated at the present time are mailed from the Phillips Social Club of Pa.; Charles Wig Styling Club, and Ravonda's Wig Styling Club.

The great bulk of charitable agencies are soundly operated and vitally needed. They need and deserve your contributions.

However, there are some agencies that spend too much of your dollar for fund-raising or for ineffective or wasteful programs. Or, in the case of the "charity gyp", for no worthwhile services at all.

The growing number of agencies conducting health, welfare and educational programs make it virtually impossible for the average contributor to keep informed of the character and operation of the charities seeking his contributions.

There are now some 300 charities registered with the state of Minnesota. They received in 1968 contributions totaling $60 million, proving that our citizens are generous indeed with their dollars.

There are state laws administered by our office that help provide assurance that your contributions are devoted to the worthy purposes intended.

Working with these laws, we had found that they needed tightening. We appointed a nine-member charities advisory council last summer, and, with the assistance of its members, prepared a bill to provide improved state control over charities.

The legislature enacted the bill, and it was signed into law April 9 by Governor Harold LeVander.

The new law provides, among other things, that:

1. Willful violation is a crime punishable by up to 90 days in jail and a $100 fine.

2. A charity may not pay to a professional fund raiser as compensation or reimbursement for expenses more than 30 per cent of the amount raised by him on behalf of the charity. The old law allowed a charity to pay to a fund raiser an amount as high as 40 per cent for the charity's total income.

3. Charities soliciting in excess of $2,000 a year must register with the secretary of state. The old law exempted most charities soliciting less than $10,000.

4. Charities subject to the law must file copies of their registration statements and annual reports with our office. The duplicate filing will help immeasurably in our enforcement program.

Despite the strengthened state laws and local ordinances in effect in some municipalities, the individual contributor must exercise care in selecting charities to which he contributes. You might follow these guides:

1. Do not contribute when solicited by phone. Ask the solicitor to call on you in person or to send a letter with full details.

2. Think twice about sending contributions to an unknown charity. Check with your local chamber of commerce or the Minnesota community research council, which is located in the Northwestern bank building in Minneapolis. You may also contact our office to determine whether a charity is registered.

3. Do not feel obligated to pay for unordered trinkets or other merchandise sent with a request for a donation. Remember that plain mail solicitations are very expensive and that a portion of the money you contribute is used to cover the costs. If unordered merchandise is sent, then the expenses are much higher.

In sum, give, but give wisely.

How's Your Health

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Association.)

The existence of superstitions and myths concerning foods eaten during pregnancy and lactation are understandable when it is remembered that for countless ages, care given women during these nine months was improvised in the home and administered by midwives. Though well-intentioned and skillful in their calling, midwives were unenlightened until modern times and myths were passed from generation to generation, the aura of mystery surrounding them making them fearful yet more appealing.

But, the fallacies and fantasies of the past have faded and been supplanted by sound principles of nutrition. The sciences of medicine and nutrition have proved that if a woman has long-established eating habits which provide adequate nutrition, she merely needs to increase her allowance of protein foods, particularly milk; minerals and vitamins during pregnancy, says the Minnesota State Medical Association.

The body requires proteins for growth and to replace its own protein which is continually being depleted. The protein drain is more acute during pregnancy when the fetus also needs protein for its growth.

Minerals and vitamins are essential to supply energy to the mother and aid in the healthy growth of the baby by maintaining bone and muscle cells. The pregnant woman can get too much of one mineral—salt. Salt tends to retain excess water in the body. Tissues of pregnant women are more absorbent than normal so an excess of salt can cause face and fingers to become puffy.

The pregnant woman needn't fear such early day myths as certain foods taken during pregnancy "mark" the child. It is also untrue that raw foods in the diet of a nursing mother are harmful to the infant.

And, cravings for certain foods do not necessarily mean the body needs them, rather they reflect the associations people have for certain foods.

It is untrue that the pregnant woman must eat for two. Assuming that a pregnant woman has been eating an adequate diet, says the Minnesota State Medical Association, no additional food is needed, at least not during the first six months of pregnancy. During the last three months, however, some of the protective foods may be increased.

Plan New Bathroom With Care

If your summer remodeling plans call for updating an old bathroom or adding a new one, visit a plumbing contractor's showroom before you begin. Ask him to show you the latest products and to explain the differences in product quality to you. Better quality fixtures are more efficient and stain and acid-resistant.

You can get ideas for arranging fixtures from a booklet titled "Modern Bathroom Plans" that includes 34 layouts. It's available for 25 cents and a 6-cent stamp from the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 35 E. Wacker, Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

A sump pump in your basement will prevent flooding and protect your valuables, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out. For more information, consult your qualified plumbing contractor.

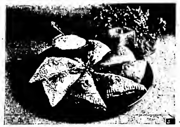
If you're planning to remodel your bathroom, don't skimp on the size of the lavatory bowl, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau advises. A roomy one doesn't cost much more than the smaller sizes and will repay you many times in terms of convenience, whether you're washing your face or doing hand laundry.

Many water heaters that are 10 years old, or older, are still functioning perfectly. Nevertheless, they're obsolete, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau says. That's because the use of water-connected appliances has increased 60 per cent in the last decade and the heater is no longer big enough to keep the family in hot water.



Turn over a new leaf in cooking—venture into novel combinations and uses for old favorites. That's what the Borden Kitchen did with these quickstep mince meat pastries created with the busy mother in mind. Pop out the flaky crescent rolls, cover four dough triangles with piquant mince meat ready-to-use right from the jar. Serve hot with Neufchatel cheese.

Mince Meat Turnovers

(Makes 8 turnovers)

- 2 (9-oz.) packages Borden Crescent flaky rolls
- 1 to 1-1/3 cups (about 1/2 or 28-oz. jar) None Such ready-to-use mince meat
- 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1 tablespoon orange juice
- 1 tablespoon brandy, optional

Open 1 package of rolls according to package directions. Unroll dough and separate into triangles. Place 4 triangles on ungreased baking sheet; spoon about 1-1/2 tablespoons mince meat onto center of each. Cover with 4 remaining triangles of dough. Press edges together firmly with fork to seal. Bake in a moderate (375°F.) oven about 12 minutes or until turnovers are a rich golden brown. Open second package of rolls; prepare and bake turnovers in same manner. In a small bowl, combine confectioners' sugar, orange juice and brandy; mix well. Place baked turnovers on a cooling rack. With a pastry brush, coat turnovers with confectioners' sugar mixture while hot. Serve warm with Cheese Topping.

Cheese Topping

- 1 (8-oz.) package Eagle Brand Neufchatel Cheese, softened
- 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
- 3 tablespoons orange juice

In a medium-size bowl, blend cheese until smooth. Stir in confectioners' sugar and orange juice; mix until smooth.

How's Your Health

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Association.)

Eye infections have become less common in recent years because other infections, which they often accompany, are less common. But, with the advent of such diseases as measles, influenza, streptococcal diseases of the throat and acute upper respiratory infections, often comes catarrhal conjunctivitis (inflammation of a mucous membrane of the outer surface of the eye or under the eyelid) says the Minnesota State Medical association.

Conjunctivitis can be easily detected because of redness and swelling of the lids around the lashes. The lashes tend to fall out and little scales form on the margins of the lids. The eyes become scratchy and occasionally there is a very severe pain as if a cinder has suddenly fallen into the eye. One eye is commonly affected 24 to 36 hours before the other. Often there is burning with constant watering, the tears containing flakes of white discharge.

The underlying cause may be general weakness, eyestrain or defective sight. Or, the disease may be caused by a germ. When the discharge is copious, thick and accompanied by great swelling of the lids and pain on exposure to light, the cause is usually a germ and there is great danger that the eyesight may be lost unless an eye specialist is consulted. Until professional treatment can be obtained, the following measures should be followed carefully:

1) Apply ice compresses for 15 minutes four times daily.

2) Irrigate the eye with boric solution.

Perhaps the most commonly talked about form of conjunctivitis is "pink eye". It is an acute contagious variety of conjunctivitis caused by a germ, occurring as a rule, in the spring and autumn.

To treat "pink eye", avoid strong light and use dark glasses for the duration of the disease. Apply ice compresses and irrigate the eye as for all conjunctivitis. See a physician.

All forms of severe inflammation of the lids are contagious, warns the association, especially catarrhal inflammations. Avoid use of linens, handkerchiefs, soaps and wash basins, etc., which have been used by patients with conjunctivitis.

Many children have their tonsils removed in early life, sometimes repeatedly and without benefit as the tissue often grows back. But many physicians today feel that the operation should not be done before a child is at least in the four-to-six-year-old range. Occasionally, however, a doctor is forced to remove them after repeated tonsil infections or middle-ear troubles which resist medical treatment.

Tonsillitis can have serious results. For example, the disease may lead to rheumatic fever, pneumonia, arthritis or ear infection. If the disease is chronic, and prescribed medication is inconsequential, the tonsils should probably be removed.

Tonsils, particulary enlarged tonsils, often bother parents more than they do the child. But "parental tonsillitis" is not a good justification for surgery. Quite frequently parents become concerned over the appearance of enlarged tonsils which have undergone a very rapid growth at puberty reaching full adult size in a relatively short period of time.

Generally, treatment for a child with tonsillitis includes plenty of bed rest, a light diet and ample liquids. Sometimes ice bags may be applied to the throat. Gargling with a mild warm salt water or baking soda solution is often helpful, says the association.

The Minnesota State Medical association suggests some general guidelines to help you decide whether to call for emergency medical attention by a physician. You may regard the condition as an "emergency" if:

1. Symptoms are so severe that they have become unbearable. For example, it may be an abdominal pain from disease in the gallbladder, appendix or kidney; or chest pain caused by a heart attack or pneumonia.

2. Apparently unexplained minor symptoms persist for more than a few days, such as a bleeding nose.

3. Symptoms return repeatedly for no recognizable reasons. Constant digestive distress is one example.

4. If you are in serious doubt, do not take chances.

Note the key words: "severe," "persist," "repeatedly," and "doubt". While any of these four indications should require immediate medical attention, a combination of two or more adds to the urgency.

Other circumstances also may constitute an emergency. These include:

Accidents in which the victim is unconscious, in shock, bleeding severely, breathless, vomiting profusely or has been poisoned or seriously burned.

When blackouts, convulsions, continuous diarrhea, difficulty in breathing, discharges of blood, frequent attacks of dizziness, fever for more than 24 hours, acute headaches accompanied by nausea or other symptoms are present.

In these situations, call your doctor without delay, says the association.

Food Waste Disposers Enjoy Homemaker's Favor

At least 600,000 food waste disposers will be sold this year, according to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. It's one of the top five most wanted appliances, a survey revealed.

A booklet containing dozens of tips on how to take care of your plumbing, how to make some repairs yourself and what jobs should be left to experienced plumbing contractors, is available for 25 cents plus a 6-cent stamp from the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 35 E. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

The perfect cover-up for these early summer evenings — a sweater with all the romance of this season and its fashions. The crochet-look knit cardigan of Creslan acrylic fiber is gently ruffled down the front and around neck and sleeves with elegant lace that has a hand-made look. The lightweight sweater is a joy to pop on over dresses and separates; and it's warm enough to ward off those stray evening breezes. For all its appearance of delicate fragility, the sweater resists soil, and can actually be machine-washed and dried.

ASCS Activities

by Wallace Sparby, Manager

The past few days have brought about several changes in the farm storage facility loan program. If you plan to build a granary, quonset or steel bin this summer, certain information will have to be considered if you plan to apply for a ASCS loan.

Eligibility will now be figured on a one year estimated production on your farm. We will use this figure minus the existing granary capacity you have on the farm. The number of bushels you have after subtracting capacity of your existing facility will be the number of bushels of grain storage for which you will be eligible to receive a CCC loan.

The new interest rate on granary loans is six per cent. The repayment schedule remains the same as in the past—four equal payments over a five-year period.

No loans will be available for remodeling existing facilities. Loans were available for remodeling previously if you increased the capacity.

There are a few more changes also, but if you are interested in receiving more information, please contact the ASCS office.

If you have not mailed in your card on resealing grain, please do so as soon as possible. We cannot complete our inspection of the grain which is to be resealed until we have a response from everyone. Your reseal payments cannot be paid until we have completed inspection of your grain.

Well, What Do You Know? fun, games and knowledge

by MARTHA GLAUBER SHAPP, Editor The New Book of Knowledge

Why does the United States flag have stars?

Everyone knows why the United States flag has stripes, but even historians are not sure why it has stars. They have three possible answers, however. The stars may have come from a Dutch flag. Or the idea may have been borrowed from Rhode Island's flag. Also, it could have come from the stars on George Washington's coat of arms.

John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States, wrote in his diary that the stars stood for the new American Union. He also said that the stars meant that Americans hoped to be at peace with the world. People at the time used the word "constellation" to mean the 13 stars. To some it may have represented a new country being born, the way a new constellation of stars suddenly appears in the sky.

Can changes in temperature break up rocks?

To find out, try this demonstration at a cookout. After the food has been cooked but while the coals are still glowing, place several kinds of rocks in the coals. You may see some of the rocks crack almost immediately.

In about 10 minutes, when the rocks have become very hot, rake them out of the coals, using a long-handled tool. Examine the rocks for cracks. Some of the rocks will be broken.

Heat makes a solid, such as a rock, expand. The outside of the rock may expand so much that it breaks away from the cooler inside.

How are hurricanes named?

Meteorologists of the United States Weather Bureau give girls' names to hurricanes that start in the Caribbean Sea. This idea started during World War II and has been continued ever since. It is a way of identifying each hurricane. The first hurricane of the season is given a girl's name that starts with A, such as Audrey. The next one becomes Brenda or Barbara or any other name that begins with B. The next one is called by a name that begins with C, and so on. Each season the names are changed, so that hurricanes will not be confused with storms of previous years.

Mental Health Staff Grant Is Explained

Congressman Odin Langen's office announced in Washington, D.C., last Monday that the comprehensive community mental health and mental retardation programs for northwestern Minnesota would receive a grant of $274,733 to assist in providing salaries for professional and technical personnel for the staff of this combined program.

This grant would provide funds to hire approximately 37 new, additional professional staff members who would be located at the Crookston office for this program and the new day-night unit to be located at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls. Present plans call for 12 new positions to be added to the present five positions now filled at the Crookston office and 25 new positions for the day-night unit in Thief River Falls.

This comprehensive community mental health and mental retardation program provides services currently through the Crookston office for approximately 95,000 people in the seven northwestern Minnesota counties of Kittson, Marshall, Mahnomen, Norman, Pennington, Polk and Red Lake.

G. A. Belto, president of the Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls, and Judge Phillip A. Anderson, chairman of the Northwestern mental health center at Crookston, confirmed that this expanded comprehensive mental health program had been in the planning stage for approximately four years.

Construction of the day-night unit at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls will be completed by approximately July 1. It is estimated that this unit will start to provide services during the late summer and should be operating at near capacity staff level by this fall. Availability of complete plan programs for this unit will be contingent upon the success of the recruitment program to fill these new positions.

Recruitment effort has started and is under the direction of Dr. Ronald C. Young, medical director of the day-night unit, and Dr. Robert Williams, area program director at the Northwestern mental health center in Crookston. New positions that are open and to be covered under this grant will include social workers, registered nurses, occupational therapists, psychologists, volunteer coordinators, mental health educators, group workers, mental health aides, psychiatrists, recreational therapists and others.

NANCY NEIBAUER, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Neibauer of Mentor, will be one of 10 candidates seeking the Miss Thief River Falls title July 12 at the annual Jaycee Aquacade. A student at Northland state junior college, she was queen of the college sno-festival last winter.

Nancy Neibauer In Queen Event

(This is the third in a series of personal interview features with candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the 15th annual Jaycee Aquacade. Other candidates will be featured in future issues.)

One could hardly be considered wrong by stating that Nancy Neibauer has had an educational influence. Her father is superintendent of schools at Mentor, her mother acts as his secretary, an older brother teaches at Middle River and two other brothers are attending college. Would you wonder that she plans to major in elementary education?

Eighteen-year-old Nancy will be 19 by the time the Miss Thief River Falls pageant arrives on July 12. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Neibauer, she is a diminutive five feet tall, weighs 105 pounds, has dark brown hair, blue eyes and a 35½-23-35½ figure. Her sponsor in the contest will be Hanson's Hartz store in Mentor.

"I guess you could say that I am quite active," she responded to a question on interests and activities. The list of activities makes that "quite active" statement seem to be quite an understatement.

Interested in sports, she has been a cheerleader in high school and college for seven years. In high school she was also a member and an officer of Girls Athletic association, Future Homemakers of America, band and choir. She was a class of-

Happy Acres Act Will Advance To District Contest

Selected from Pennington county to represent the county in 4-H district share-the-fun competition on July 30 at Crookston was the Happy Acres song and dance number, "Me and My Shadow".

The act will compete for a chance to play for the annual state share-the-fun program, held during the Minnesota state fair. The Happy Acres group was one of three winning numbers selected at the final county competition in May.

4-H members in the skit are Thomas Snyder, Pam and Don Park, Nancy Hogan, Lynette Swenson, Chris Johnson, Mike Noreen, Brad and Kevin Swanson, Christina Snyder, Theresa Schindler, Lori and Gigi Lundin, dancers; Mary Ellen Grundhaus, vocalist; Lynn and Nancy Finsaid, cello and viola; and June Snyder, pianist. The production is directed by Mrs. Lowell Snyder.

TRF Youths To Receive Trips To Legionville

Attending the center from Thief River Falls are Craig Lerud, Jeffery Dagg and Bobby Forberg, Mark Twain school; Daniel Cork, Knox; Michael Burstad, Brian Hagstad, Bradley Johnson and Pete Carlson, Washington; and Loren Swenson and Dennis Knutson, Northrop.

The Minnesota Legion has $290,000 invested in the training center, which is located on North Long Lake, near Brainerd, and is recognized as one of the finest camps in the state. Annual operating expenses of over $50,000 are paid by sponsoring organizations which pay the entrants' $25. registration fee, and by donations from individuals.

The youngsters gather from all parts of Minnesota for the primary purpose of training to provide a uniform school patrol crossing program. These students will return to their schools, and be patrol captains for the coming year. Instructors at the center are highway patrolmen, safety officers, conservation officers and high school teachers. Director of the camp is Robert Miller, Brainerd high school teacher.

City May Share In Settlement Of Major Suit

Attorney General Douglas Head reported today that the city of Thief River Falls would be eligible to share in $500,000 offered to Minnesota by 13 copper piping companies to settle an antitrust suit.

If the offer is accepted, Head said, some $350,000 would be distributed to the 35 municipalities and school districts which asked his antitrust division to represent them in the action. The $150,000 balance would go to the state.

Recovered funds would compensate the state and participating municipalities and school districts for illegal overcharges made by the 13 companies during a price-fixing conspiracy from 1956 to 1962.

The attorney general said the state and the local governments involved in the action purchased about $3 million worth of copper piping from the companies during that period.

Head said they paid higher prices for the piping than they would have if the companies hadn't conspired to set prices at artificially high levels.

Most of the purchases involved were of water piping for use in public buildings.

Head said his antitrust division is studying the offer. He said it is too early to determine how much each school district and municipality would receive out of the settlement. The settlement is also subject to the approval of the court.

Minnesota is one of about 30 states and cities that joined together in the anti-trust suit against the 13 companies. The suit was brought in U.S. district court in Philadelphia. The total settlement offer to all of the plaintiffs is about $22 million.

The defendant companies in the copper piping case are United States Smelting; Refining and Mining company; Anaconda American Brass company; Lighting Corporation of America; Reading Tube corporation; National Distillers and Chemical corporation; Phelps Dodge Copper Products corporation; Chase Brass and Copper company, Inc.; Revere Copper and Brass Incorporated; Cerro corporation; Scovill Manufacturing company; Calumet and Hecla, Inc.; Mueller Brass company; and Triangle Conduit and Cable company, Inc.

Council Accepts Resignations and Hires Employees

Resignation acceptance and hiring of new city employees was the main business conducted by the Thief River Falls city council on Tuesday night at the regular meeting.

The council hired a new police patrolman and bartender at the municipal liquor store, and accepted the resignations of a police patrolman and an employee in the water department.

Hired to the position of police patrolman was Lawrence Pedersen, city. The new bartender at the liquor store is Al Klenk, city, for a salary of $436 a month.

Accepted were resignations of Terrance Sylvester from the police department effective June 15 and John Thorstad from the water department effective July 5.

They also promoted Donald Laidley from meter reader to apprentice lineman effective on June 1.

In other action the council reappointed J. J. Womack, Clarence Stromberg and Don Barron to the City's planning commission.

Miss Kittson Co. To Be Selected

Eight girls from Kittson county will compete in the second annual "Miss Kittson County" contest at the Hallock school auditorium on Thursday at 8 p.m.

Competing in evening gown, swimsuit and talent competition are Dianne Larson of Lancaster, Del Ann Laude of Kennedy, Jane Johnson of Humboldt, Dianne Carlson of Hallock, Eileen Rae Bostad of Kennedy, Betty Moore of Hallock, Dianne Anderson of Hallock and Pat Swanson of Lake Bronson.

Penny Engstrom, Miss Kittson County and Miss Thief River Falls of 1968, will introduce the visiting royalty. Winner of the contest will advance to competition at the Miss America preliminary pageant in Thief River Falls July 12.

Miss America To Be Feature of Aquacade

GUEST OF HONOR at the Thief River Falls Jaycee Aquacade this year will be Judith Anne Ford, Miss America, who was crowned late last fall at the Miss America pageant in Atlantic City, N.J. She will ride in the Aquacade parade Saturday morning, July 12, and appear at the Miss America preliminary pageant the same evening in the Lincoln senior high school gymnasium. It will be the second appearance for a Miss America in Thief River Falls.

Special attraction for the 15th annual Jaycee Aquacade will be the appearance of Miss America 1969, Judith Anne Ford, in the morning parade and evening pageant on Saturday, July 12. Arrangements for the appearance—the second by a Miss America to Thief River Falls—are made by the local Jaycees in cooperation with Kiewel Products company, Pepsi-Cola bottlers.

Miss America last appeared in Thief River Falls in 1961. Nancy Ann Fleming participated in the Miss Aquacade pageant the first year it was conducted as an official Miss America preliminary pageant. That year the evening program drew a capacity crowd at the Lincoln high school gymnasium, and this year's program is expected to do the same.

Normally held during the first week of August, the Aquacade was moved ahead this year to make the Miss America appearance possible and to avoid conflict with the Pennington county fair. A full week of events, starting with the local community theatre's production of "Night of the Iguana", will be provided for area entertainment.

Several new events have been added to the list of activities this year, with Art Heinze and Don Grabanski serving as cochairmen. One of these will be snowmobile polo, Saturday afternoon, July 12. Teams from Arctic Enterprises and Polaris Industries will compete in the novel event.

On Sunday, July 13, canoe races and wars and an inner-tube race will be added to the program at Tindolph park. Other water events, street water fight, demolition derby, beef barbecue, fireworks and other events will be continued. Aquacade booster buttons, now on sale from Jaycees and in several downtown stores, will provide admission to all events of the Aquacade except the community theatre play, teenage dance and Miss Aquacade pageant.

In winning the Miss America title, Judith Ford won the preliminary award in the talent division with a trampoline act and also won a preliminary swimsuit division award. The 19-year-old blonde is the 1968 junior national women's trampoline champion, but has discontinued her trampoline work during her reign due to lack of time to practice. She is a graduate of Belvidere high school in Illinois and won the Miss Illinois title to enter Miss America competition at Atlantic City.

All candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the pageant have been selected except the winner of the Miss Kittson County pageant to be selected this week. Other contestants include Barbara Hamerlinck, Darlene Finstad, LauAnn Johnson and Wendy Jensen, Thief River Falls; Shelly Gaekstetter, Red Lake Falls; Becky McDaniels, Roseau; Patricia Ovsak, Warren; Nancy Neibauer, Mentor; and Barbara Morinville, Brooks.

THESE TWO CARS were involved in a collision Sunday about 8 p.m., in which Elmer Johnson, 77, St. Hilaire, was fatally injured. Johnson was driving the Chevrolet in the top photo and crossing highway 59 when struck by the Ford (bottom photo) driven by Paul Olson, 31, Willmar. Johnson died later Sunday evening at Northwestern hospital. Three passengers in the Johnson car were also hospitalized.

St. Hilaire Man Killed in Crash

A two-car crash on highway 59 about 8 p.m. Sunday took the life of an elderly St. Hilaire man, according to the Minnesota highway patrol which is investigating the mishap. Dead as a result of the crash is Elmer Johnson, 77, whose car was struck as it crossed highway 59 about four and one-half miles south of Thief River Falls.

Three passengers in the Johnson car were also injured and hospitalized at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls, but none are in serious condition. They include Mrs. Elmer Johnson, 77, St. Hilaire; Mrs. Erick Haglund, 81, rt. 5, Thief River Falls, and Mrs. Cora Haglund, 59, Harwood, N.D.

Driver of the second car was Paul Olson, 31, Willmar, who was treated for minor injuries but not hospitalized. A passenger in the Olson car, Wayne Thompson of Spicer, was not injured. Both cars were extensively damaged.

According to the state highway patrol, the Johnson car, a 1957 Chevrolet, was traveling west on county road 59 and crossing state highway 59 at the time of the accident. The Olson car, a 1963 Ford, was traveling north on state highway 59 and struck the Johnson vehicle almost broadside. The Johnson car stayed on the road while the Olson car continued north and went into the ditch on the west side of highway 59. Johnson was reportedly thrown from the car.

Funeral arrangements for Elmer Johnson are pending at the Green Funeral home.

Nelson-Mortenson Vows Are Exchanged at Grygla

Miss Adella Nelson and Dale Mortenson, both of Minneapolis, exchanged marriage vows at Grace Lutheran church in Grygla on Saturday, May 3, at 3 p.m.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arne Nelson of Goodridge. Parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Mortenson who lived in Minneapolis, are deceased.

Rev. Gary Olson officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar graced with bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums and carnations.

Mrs. Walter Jelle presided at the organ. She played the traditional nuptial selections and also accompanied Miss Barbara Magnuson, a friend of the bride, as she sang, "The Song of Ruth" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor-length, sheath gown of organza and Chantilly lace, styled in empire fashion with scooped neckline and long fitted sleeves of see-through lace. Matching lace motifs enhanced the chapel length veil. A princess crown of seed pearls and crystals held her bouffant shoulder length veil and she carried a bouquet of yellow and white roses, in cascade style.

Attending the bride were her sisters Mrs. Don Hanson of Coon Rapids, as matron of honor, and Mrs. Russ Culkins of this city, as bridesmatron. They were attired in empire fashioned, sheath gowns of yellow and white crepe each trimmed with a yellow satin bow. Matching satin bows held their veiled headpieces and each carried three long-stemmed yellow roses.

Larry Boulka attended the groom as best man and Jim Granger served as groomsman. Both are friends of the groom and both reside in Minneapolis. Seating the guests were Don Hanson of Coon Rapids, a brother-in-law of the bride, and Ronald Japs of Minneapolis, a friend of the groom. The men of the wedding party wore black tuxedos with white carnation boutonnieres. The groom's boutonniere was a yellow rose from the bride's bouquet.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Nelson chose an aqua knit dress complemented by beige accessories and a corsage of yellow roses accented with purple and white carnations.

Attending as special guests were Mrs. Josephine Peters of Los Angeles, Calif., grandmother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Les Mortenson of Minneapolis, brother and sister-in-law of the groom.

Approximately 125 relatives and friends attended the ceremony and reception that followed in the church parlors. They were from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Thief River Falls, Middle River, Goodridge, and Warren. Registering the guests was Miss Caralyn Erickson, a friend of the bride.

Serving as host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Peters, uncle and aunt of the bride. Miss Loythe Peters and Miss Karen Peters, cousins of the bride, ladled the punch.

The four-tiered wedding cake, graced with yellow roses and topped by a miniature bride and groom, was cut and served by Mrs. Oscar Erickson and Mrs. Ida Sund, friends of the bride. Mrs. William Mathieu, a cousin of the bride, poured.

Waitresses were Mrs. Larry Vigen and Mrs. Bruce Sandahl. Misses Barbara Johnson, Patty Schuster and Ardith Hovet presided at the gift table. All are friends of the bride.

For the wedding trip to Duluth and Superior, Wis., the bride was attired in a pastel pink dress.

Governor Signs Bill on Taxes For Farm Land

Governor Harold LeVander signed into law on June 9 a bill permitting certain farmers to be taxed on the value of their land as agricultural land rather than any increased value resulting from commercial or residential development.

This law may be applicable to taxes payable in 1969, provided that applications are filed prior to July 1, 1969. In order to qualify, the property must be agricultural property of more than 10 acres. The property must be the homestead of the owner, surviving spouse or child or must have been in possession of the owner, his spouse or child for a period of at least seven years prior to the application.

In order to qualify as agricultural property, income from the land must have constituted at least 33 and one-third per cent of the family income, or the total income including rental is $300 plus $10 per tillable acre. The property must also have been devoted to the production for sale of livestock, poultry, nursery stock, fruit or certain other farm products by the owner.

Applications for consideration under this act should be filed with the assessor of the taxing district in which the property is located. Forms for making such application may be obtained by contacting the county assessor of any of the counties or from the commissioner of taxation.

Lakeshore land is not eligible for consideration under this law since it excludes any acreage within 20 rods of a shoreline. The law also permits deferment of payment of any special assessments imposed upon lands which qualify under this law and on which deferment has been timely requested.

Guardsmen Are Entitled To Time Off For Training

Employers were reminded today that reservists and national guardsmen are entitled to time off from their jobs to perform active duty for training.

The reminder came from Wilbur T. Lindholm, regional director of the office of veterans' reemployment rights, U.S. department of labor, Chicago.

Upon their return from training, reservists and national guardsmen have a legal right to be restored to their positions with the same seniority, status, pay and vacation rights as they previously held.

A recent amendment to the law also prohibits any kind of employment discrimination against a reservist or guardsman because of his participation in the program.

Lindholm pointed out that military training duty for guardsmen and reservists normally occurs during the summer months, and it can be expected that most of them will be absent from employment for two or three weeks' training during this period.

The reservists and guardsmen were cautioned by Lindholm to notify their employers before leaving for training and to report back to their jobs immediately upon completion of their tours, or they may forfeit their statutory reemployment protection.

Mental Health Staff Grant Is Explained

program to be centered at Crookston will include and emphasize consultation, education and coordination of services and some outpatient services. The day-night unit at Northwestern hospital has been planned as a middle range facility to treat those patients too disturbed to be handled in a local general hospital but probably accruing additional benefits by being treated close to home.

The other element of services in this comprehensive area program for mental health and mental retardation include the traditional care-givers in every community such as physicians, school personnel, welfare workers, general hospitals, police and judges, and all who already assume primary responsibility for point-of-entry treatment, referring only those cases which they cannot manage effectively without consultative help and additional services.

Another segment of the total care program for this northwestern area will include the state hospital at Fergus Falls whose programs will augment local area psychiatric services and whose programs emphasize treatment rather than custody.

Development of the staffing grant application was handled by members of the staff of the Northwestern mental health center at Crookston and Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls with consultation services provided by Dr. Ronald C. Young. Announcement of this grant allocation is for the first 12 months of the operation of the new programs. It is possible that the grant can be renewed and extended for an additional three years on an annual basis, with the amount of the grant being reduced each of the succeeding years to a final participating percentage by the federal government of 15 per cent in the final year.

Information and educational programs regarding the operation of the new programs and the day-night unit will be carried out by members of the program staff during the next several months.

26,230 Veterans Take Advantage Of Education

More than 26,230 veterans and servicemen in Minnesota have taken advantage of the post-Korean GI bill education and training program, which marks its third anniversary this month.

John R. Murphy, manager of the Veterans Administration center, St. Paul, said that of the total, 13,216, or more than one-half, enrolled in college-level training. Another 11,000 entered schools below college level, and almost 2,100 went into on-the-job training.

Since its start three years ago, more than 1,148,000 veterans and 83,000 servicemen nationwide have entered training under the program. He said the breakdown for Minnesota is 25,854 veterans and 376 servicemen.

The manager said that men and women presently in military service are not eligible for on-the-job training, so that all such trainees since October of 1967, when this benefit became effective, were veterans.

This spring more than 12,796 veterans and 196 servicemen in Minnesota were enrolled in training under the program. Murphy called this an all-time high for the three-year-old post-Korean GI bill. More than 6,558 veterans and servicemen were enrolled in institutions of higher learning, 4,747 in below college-level training, and another 1,687 in on-the-job training.

To be eligible for post-Korean GI bill education and training assistance from the VA, a veteran must have at least 181 days of service, part of which was after Jan. 31, 1955, and received other than a dishonorable discharge.

Murphy emphasized that a recent change in the bill gives a veteran one-and-one-half months of educational assistance entitlement for each month of service. However, he said there is a maximum of 30 months' entitlement except for veterans eligible for VA educational aid under two or more VA programs. These veterans have a collective entitlement of 48 months.

The VA educational assistance under the post-Korean GI bill ranges from a monthly allowance of $30 or more, depending on number of dependents, for full-time institutional training, to payment of only the actual cost of correspondence courses.

The manager said veterans who have not completed high school may receive full VA educational assistance while earning their high school diploma without having any of this time charged to their maximum entitlement for college training.

He urged Minnesota veterans interested in education and training under the GI bill to contact the VA center, which is now located in the new federal building at Fort Snelling, or their nearest veterans county service officer.

He also reminded post-Korean and Vietnam era veterans in the state that they must complete their training by May 31, 1974, or eight years after separation from service, whichever is later.

Certification of Grain Programs Set for July 15

"An important date for every producer who is taking part in the wheat and feed grain programs in Marshall county is the final certification date on wheat and feed grains (corn, sorghum and barley) which is also known as the disposition date," chairman Marcel Dahl of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee said today.

"July 15 is the final date on which producers must certify the acreages," the chairman continued. "This date applies just to this area, since different states have varying dates for certification. The department of agriculture tries to suit the dates to the normal growing season in the state or area."

Farmers should report their acreages to the county ASCS office promptly after seeding as it is important that the acreages be accurate. Your county office can give you better service now than if you wait until near the July 15 final date.

"At this time, I might remind farmers that measurement service is available right up to final certification or disposition date. Those who are not sure about acreages, or who want to be certain they plant the exact acreage they have, should contact their county ASCS office and see if they can arrange for this low-cost service," Dahl continued.

Waldor Reviews Use Of Highway Funding

Following is a public statement by N. T. Waldor, Minnesota Commissioner of Highways:

As most of us fully realize, there is a great deal more to this business of highways than just keeping them clear of snow. One facet is the by-play between differing lobbies and the pressures they exert through the different media of public information.

Recently there has appeared an article in the Reader's Digest claiming that the federal government spent 30 times more on roads than on all types of mass transit. Not mentioned in the article was the fact that these taxes were collected exclusively from sales of gasoline, oil, excise taxes on new trucks and buses and taxes on parts and accessories, and all had been earmarked and dedicated in the federal trust fund for highways.

Several of these articles, of which the Reader's Digest's is typical, have as an underlying premise that too much federal money is being spent for highways, that the money should be spent for other things, and that the highway lobby is to blame for most, if not all, of the nation's problems.

One thing many people do not know is that every dime of federal and state money spent on the national road system has been collected as special user charges for gas, licenses, and indirectly the excise taxes, from the owners of cars, trucks and buses, and these charges are over and above the general taxes paid by motor vehicle owners along with everyone else. The total amount spent for construction and maintenance of the state trunk highway and the interstate defense system is derived solely from user taxes and this is only approximately 10 per cent of the total cost of operating an automobile.

The total cost of operation of the average automobile in the United States, driven between 10,000 and 20,000 miles per year, and including depreciation, insurance, storage, repairs, gas, and user taxes such as gas tax and license and excise fees, is 11 cents per mile. Of this amount the total cost of the user taxes is only 1.2 cents per mile, which by simple arithmetic, proves to be approximately 10 per cent of the total average cost.

Not mentioned in the aforementioned article is the fact that bus transportation is one form of public transportation which has been greatly enhanced by the building of our great cross-country highway system. It should be pointed out that bus transportation is the principal form of mass transit in the United States and in most areas of the country it is the only form of mass transit for both now and the foreseeable future.

Many people receive the impression that highway funds are derived from a large general tax fund in the United States treasury. This is not true. The federal funds for highway construction come solely from tax monies from a special highway trust fund which is financed entirely from federal highway user taxes levied for the express purpose of building new highways.

It is true that rail passenger transportation, especially when used for mass transit, has not kept pace with the times. However, it is felt by highway users that it is not their responsibility to rescue the rail or mass transit passengers from their plight. It has been suggested that perhaps rail and mass transit interests should begin to develop a trust fund of their own for an improved rail or mass transit system.

Actually the federal government has spent and is spending millions to subsidize faster rail service in the Washington, New York, and the Boston corridor where the traffic volume seems to warrant this expenditure. It is also financing millions to various railroads to buy new commuter cars. No such subsidy has been paid for construction or maintenance of highways.

The air transportation industry has already begun talk of establishing an air facilities trust fund to be financed, at least in part, by special user charges on air transportation.

User charges by both railroads and airlines to compensate for federal assistance they receive would seem entirely in order and consistent with the philosophy which has been adopted for other forms of transportation.

It is no idle threat that mass transit interests are out to invade the bastions of highway users. These are the savings accounts of the millions who have entrusted the care of their funds to the federal and state governments in the several highway trust funds throughout the nation. Even here in Minnesota we note that during the recent legislature two bills were introduced that are direct invasions of these bastions. A real threat to a public trust.....

One bill would have changed the state constitution which limits the use of these trust funds to "highway purposes" to read "and other transportation" added to the present provision "for highway purposes". In analyzing the meaning here we can at once see that the hand is already in the pocket for mass transit to grab highway users funds........a definite circumvention of the public trust.

The other bill which was introduced would enact a wheelage tax equal to one-half of the present license fees on automobiles and trucks for mass transit generally and the funds derived would not be restricted to "highway purposes" as now required by the constitution. In analyzing the meaning of this we can again see a very sly invasion by the same agents intending to thwart the highway users.

It is a very clever proposal, this we can all agree on, but it is unethical in that it forces support by only one segment of our transportation system by levying a tax on them alone to finance the mass transit program which we genuinely endorse, but which we also suggest is a service to the general public, like the police, fire protection, garbage removal, as well as education and social welfare and therefore the burden should be, in our judgment, spread equitably for all citizens to assume. This segment which this legislation proposes to take advantage of - is the highway user.

We need both good highways and good railroads for effective surface transit. However, to accept the premise that we must take funds from the highway users to finance any mass transit, rail or otherwise, is to accept a false picture of what must really be done. Highway funds, raised by highway users, must be kept for continuous improvement of our highway system including the new total concept plan for development (in which socio-economic considerations are paid for out of these funds).

At the moment it appears that the only logical solution is for mass transit interests to develop their own source of revenue. If there is more than enough money for development and improvement of highways then we should reduce the gas tax and license fees accordingly so highway users who furnish the funds can benefit from any economies that might be forthcoming.

Navy To Cachet Apollo 11 Covers

Manned spacecraft recovery forces of the U.S. Navy will provide commemorative cachet and cancellation services for the upcoming Apollo 11 manned space flight to the moon.

Philatelic coordinators designated for Atlantic and Pacific fleet recovery forces (Task Forces 140 and 130) will receive all such covers and make the distribution to assigned ships.

To permit adequate time for required handling of covers, collectors should send pre-stamped, self-addressed envelopes to the appropriate coordinator prior to July 4, 1969. In accordance with U.S. post office department regulations, only U.S. postage may be used on covers submitted. Stamps (postage) of other countries or the United Nations cannot be used, and cash or checks in lieu of postage cannot be accepted. It is further requested that collectors furnish standard size covers, 3⅝ inches by 6½ inches, with a filler inserted to simplify handling.

Due to the popularity of the cancellation service and the limited postal facilities on recovery ships, the coordinators for Task Force 140 and 130 will accept a maximum of six covers from individual collectors (two covers per recovery ship) for the Apollo 11 mission.

Addresses for the Atlantic and Pacific area coordinators are:

TASK FORCE 140, Public Affairs Office (Apollo 11), Manned Spacecraft Recovery Force, Atlantic, Building SP-71, Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Virginia 23511;

TASK FORCE 130, Chief-in-Charge (Apollo 11), Navy Terminal Post Office, FPO San Francisco, Calif. 96610.

At approximately the same time of the holdup, a fire was started at the old Clearwater Lumber company building south of Bagley, and it is believed to have been set by persons involved in the oil company holdup.

Two people have been taken into custody, waived preliminary hearing and will be sent to the district court, according to Sheriff Almer Olson.

They were apprehended in Elk Point, Union county, South Dakota.

"When I was a boy of fourteen, my father was so ignorant I could hardly stand to have the old man around. But when I got to be twenty-one, I was astonished at how much he had learned in seven years." —Mark Twain

Arena Work Begins

After a somewhat harried history of planning, promotion and indecision, a new city arena for Thief River Falls appears to be a reality. Bids were finally accepted and contracts awarded by the city council and work is now underway on the new facility at the Pennington county fairgrounds.

It would seem that the citizens of this community will get about the kind of arena they expected when they voted a $475,000 bond issue some time ago. The only difference is that it will cost $561,215—or about $86,000 more than the bond issue. That $86,000 will come from some place else in the city budget in some manner or another—part of it having been set aside several years ago to use for matching federal funds in land acquistion.

As we recall, mention was made at one time that about $35,000 could be diverted from the fund-matching kitty to the arena project. If you want to get an explanation of how the additional $50,000 or so will be paid, ask your councilman. He should be able to explain it to you.

If the city is able to carry through the general plan for fairgrounds area development, it should be a particularly valuable asset to the community. With the new arena as a main facility, the area has the potential for future development as a recreational complex which would be the envy of many communities.

We are glad that the arena is finally to be built, and we are sure that it can have a great amount of use once it is completed. There is no doubt that hockey interest in Thief River Falls "sold" the arena issue, and there is evidently hope that availability of artificial ice will improve the winning percentage of local hockey teams.

Time will tell if a longer skating season makes for a more successful hockey season. We think of last year when Bemidji high school, using artificial ice to get a jump on the season, won a pile of games early in the year. As natural ice became available, however, and area teams were able to get in some ice time, Bemidji's hockey fortunes changed. When tournament time came around, the Lumberjacks were no longer superior in skating to the other teams and were soon knocked out of the running.

In spite of the interest, enthusiasm and following which hockey provides here, mainly by the school district's various teams, it would be folly for the city to spend more than half a million dollars to build a new arena for hockey alone. The new facility will have to be used extensively for all types of skating purposes, long days and long seasons, to warrant the community's investment in it.

In the off-season—and surely there must be an off-season even for hockey in Thief River Falls—the arena will have to be used for many other activities. Because it is here, however, organizations will have the opportunity to conduct a number of activities that the community could not handle previously. This will certainly add to its value.

With the passage of time and the extension of extra effort, things usually have a way of working themselves out. This seems to be the situation with the new arena. Perhaps the problems encountered in design, planning, cost and other items will provide lessons in experience that will not soon be forgotten.

We will be anxious to see the arena completed by December and the use which it is given by a sports-minded, active and enthusiastic community.

Nixon Raps Riots

Speaking at the dedication of the Karl E. Mundt library at General Beadle state college in Madison, South Dakota, President Nixon assailed those officials of the university who give in to "unreasonable demands" and faculty members who "simply follow the loudest voices, parrot the latest slogans."

"Freedom is a condition," he said. "It is also a process. And the process is essential to the freedom itself. . . Lately, however, a great many people have become impatient with the democratic process. Some of the more extreme even argue, with curious logic, that there is no majority, because the majority has no right to hold opinions that they disagree with. Scorning persuasion, they prefer coercion. Awarding themselves what they call a higher morality, they try to bully authorities into yielding to their 'demands.' On college campuses, they draw support from faculty members who should know better; in the larger community, they find the usual apologists ready to excuse any tactic in the name of 'progress'."

Scoring the "self-righteous moral arrogance" of such individuals, the President emphasized that this type of activity not only tramples on the rights of others but, in the end, constricts the rights of those who initiate violence.

"The student who invades an administration building, roughs up the dean, rifles the files and issues 'non-negotiable demands' may have some of his demands met by a permissive university administration," Nixon noted. "But the greater his 'victory,' the more he will have undermined the security of his own rights."

Summing up, the President admitted that "to those intoxicated with the romance of violent revolution, the continuing revolution of democracy may seem unexciting." But, he added, "no system has ever liberated the spirits of so many so fully."

Silence IS Golden

Editorial comment on the volume of noise includes the following from the Grand Rapids Herald-Review:

Ralph Nader has earned considerable fame as a pioneer in automotive safety, but he is far behind the average parent in discovering that today's popular music can be hard on the ear-drums.

It won't take any congressional investigation to verify Nader's contention—ask any father or mother whose head goes thump-thump to the beat of the drums. It isn't fair to level all of the criticism at teen-age music, however, for a tremendous variety of noise is bombarding us daily.

Power lawnmowers, chain saws, heavy construction equipment, jet planes cracking the sound barrier, radio, television, record players, all contribute to that "noiseated" feeling. Even in a relatively quiet community such as Grand Rapids, there are far more noises than residents endured years ago.

A U.S. Public Health Service survey suggests that noise may adversely affect 16 million workers. It may come as no surprise to long-suffering mothers to learn that the kitchen has been identified as the "loudest room in the home" by a University of Texas scientist. The kitchen's combination of blender, automatic dishwasher, disposal, refrigerator, radio, air conditioner and washing machine can generate noise equivalent to that of a cheering crowd at a sports arena or traffic at a downtown street corner in a big city.

Noise as defined as "an unwanted sound that irritates." Measured in decimels to describe levels of acoustic pressure, power and intensity, scientists say that 35 decibels is acceptable for a classroom, 60 for a sports arena, 90 can be tolerated for short periods and 100 decibels can cause physical discomfort.

U.S. Surgeon General W. H. Stewart reports that "aside from hearing loss, it has been demonstrated that noise can cause physiological changes. These include cardiovascular, glandular and respiratory effects." Other physicians have reported a direct link between noise and such stress diseases as peptic ulcer, heart disease, colitis and hypertension.

All of this highlights again how fortunate residents of this area should consider themselves. Complete silence is seldom more than a few miles away. Any fisherman can find a quiet corner of a lake where he may meditate with no more noise than the minnow bucket bumping gently against the side of the boat.

Silence is one of the area's most valuable commodities and should be listed on tourist brochures with clear water, fresh air, green forests and other scenic attractions. It's a priceless asset—but let's applaud it silently.

Interesting Opinions

"It is my certain conviction that no man loses his freedom except through his own weakness." —Gandhi

"We do not quite forgive a giver. The hand that feeds us is in some danger of being bitten." —Ralph Waldo Emerson

"If ever you have a lump of money large enough to be of any use, and can spare it, don't give it away: find some needed job that nobody is doing and get it done." —George Bernard Shaw

Borrowed Nonsense

Filling out a job application, the young gal from the hill country came to a space for "remarks". She chewed her pencil thoughtfully for a few minutes, then wrote: "Mighty purty day out."

A local businessman was one of the first in the area to buy an air conditioned automobile. One day when he was going down the road enjoying a respite from the heat, he stopped to pick up an elderly farmer, who said he was going down the road a few miles to work in a field.

They had traveled only half a mile when the farmer asked to be let out.

"Why," asked the puzzled car owner. "I thought you were going to work in your field."

"I was, but it's turned so much cooler I think I'll go and butcher a hog."

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

The Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) in their 22nd convention in Washington, D.C. came up with the bright idea that handguns should be outlawed in the U.S.A. Also, all rifles and shot guns should be kept in public warehouses as a step to fighting crime.

I can see it now. A distraught farmer, Hank, is out trying to shoot a fox who is raiding his chicken coop. He is using his trusty sling shot. Maggie, his wife, is shouting encouragement but the fox always jumps out of range. "I guess I am going to have to try to get my 22 rifle out of the warehouse," Hank laments.

Sadly he gets into his car and goes to the warehouse. Inside the gate he is met by two guards armed with machine guns. They direct him to an office where a little fat man is perched behind a desk. "What may I do for you," he squeaks. Hank quakes a little but manages to make his request. "What do you want it for," demanded the official.

"I want it to shoot a fox that has been killing my chickens," says Hank more frightened than ever.

"Oh, how inhuman of you," squaks the man, "but I guess I'll have to send your request to the judge."

"You come with me," ordered another guard. Hank followed him and produced his identity card. They checked his fingerprints and matched them with the card attached to his stored gun. "They match so, now you can go the judge's chamber," the fingerprinter said.

When Hank arrived at the room where the judge was, the judge read his request. He was questioned for about forty-five minutes. Finally the judge granted his request and he was given his 22 rifle.

Hank was so happy, now he could save the few chickens he had left. Whistling cheerfully he drove into the driveway. Ah, life wasn't so bad. Maggie came running out to meet him. "Take the gun back," she exclaimed, "the fox just ate the last chicken!"

The Library Corner

by Flora Allison

By the time you read this, public transit will be well on its way to delivering this columnist to San Antonio, Texas, where await a son and daughter-in-law, and one Cindy Kay, the grandchild I haven't seen as yet, although she's over a year-and-a-half old. The trip will include a visit to as many libraries as I can cover in a short time, for understandably that is one of my major interests. Miss Lost will be doing the column in my absence, but after returning home, I'll be back to tell you what's new and good, useful or informative in the world of books.

Any time of year is a good time for going over your freezer and assessing the use you're making of it, with an eye to increased efficiency and economy in the future. And the economy-minded housewife continually reminds that handy appliance, "Don't just stand there: Freeze!" Summer, from the first succulent rhubarb to tomato time, is the season when freezers really come into their own, cutting hours off the old home canning chore. But, as with everything else, there's a skill to master before perfect results are achieved.

To make best use of your freeze-box year 'round and enjoy its amazing versatility and convenience, Charlotte Ericksan's "Freezer Cookbook" is a results-guaranteed blueprint. What can be frozen and what can't: how to buy and prepare the product, how to take care of the freezer, how to utilize it when you go on vacation, defrosting, maximum storage periods for various foods, what to do in emergencies such as power outages, and the best freezing wraps and methods, together with numerous do's and don't do's, make this a godsend for all freezer owners. Many out-of-this-world recipes that are wonderful for "Into-the-freezer" recipes are also included. Don't pass up this one.

"In the House of the Lord," by Robert Flynn, is a rare insight into the heart of a man of God. Torn by doubts, uncertain whether he is carrying out the full measure of his commitment to his people, he tells with revealing frankness and torment which his vocation sometimes causes. He tells of various encounters with the griefs, problems, needs, complaints, and anguish of his flock, coming to the painful realization that he himself is among the most vulnerable of men, very, very human, subject to failure at times, a sinner at times, wanting in patience, in love, compassion. "To him," he says of the minister in the story, "it was given to put his faith on the line every day and each time to find God there, in the place of death, in the face of evil, in the sickness of life, in the midst of his days to find God. Even when he failed." It's that kind of book, you'll be richer for having read it.

Another Agatha Christie mystery, not new, but new here. "A Murder is Announced" is one of her fifty famous novels, waiting for every mystery fan, especially everyone who digs Christie, and that includes everyone who is hung up on this kind of story, right?

We now have for you also the late Robert Kennedy's "Thirteen Days", which sheds a clearer light, perhaps, on the Cuban missile crisis. From his position as his brother's attorney general, Bobby assesses the situation existing in Cuba when the pressure of the missiles' presence was confirmed and Andrei Gromyko, unaware that we knew of their presence, revealed not a hint of this in his talks with the president. Whether wise or unwise, the course of action and the reasons for carrying it out in the manner in which it was handled, are clearly set forth by the second Kennedy in this book which has been receiving so much attention and requests.

Junior Books

"Mustang on the Prairie" by Irmengarde Eberle is a story of a beautiful stallion who roams the prairies during the time when Texas was winning her independence from Mexico. The Dennon family is split up by the war, and the stallion-to-be is found by Indians shortly after he is born, but after going their separate ways, the man and the stallion cross paths. The story of the pioneer family building a home in the wilderness during the stormy years of the war for independence in Texas, is one that is rich in history and depth of plot.

Each day the news is full of names and events of strange and distant places. Haven't you often wondered what they were like, where they are, what kind of people live there, and are they really so unlike you just because their skin is darker, their language different, and way of life also different? We're adding to the Portraits of the Nations series and now you too will be interested because it contains the Panama Canal which allows ships to pass through the middle of America instead of going 'way around South America. Read all the books in the series: Portraits of Peru, Chile, Central America, Mexico, Argentina, and be 'way ahead of your classmates in your knowledge of these parts of the world.

"High Adventure" is a collection of some of the best literature in the adult world—"the poets and explorers of many centuries, Robert Louis Stevenson, for example, on deep-sea diving and Antoine de Saint-Exupery on flying, experience the dangers of new frontiers and new personal sensations. The thrilling world of high adventure literature collected in this superb volume."

Kids from fifth grade and down are involved in the summer reading program which this year has a western theme, called the "Reading Roundup." They select three books for entering, get a report blank for each at the desk, and write a one-sentence report on each one. When handed in at the desk, this entitles them to a roundup pin, a reading chart for the bulletin board, and they're off on a galloping good start. For each book read and reported on thereafter, they receive a sticker showing a wild bronc, and when there are 15 on the card, the young reader is entitled to a free movie and treat like that at the end of last summer's program. Come on, kids, there are thousands of books for you to choose, and the round-up is the most fun you'll have all summer. Let's see you here!

For small ones, there's a cute little book by Charlotte Steiner entitled "Ten in a Family," about a family of mice babies that follows the mouse wedding. How the young Mouse couple cope with the growing family is the subject matter of this little book; the story has lovely pictures to make the book irresistible.

Joan Phipson's "Good Luck to the Rider" is not new, but we haven't had it very long, and it's such an engaging little story for juniors that we feel they will all want to read it. It's about the little Australian girl who finds the tiny black colt with the crooked white blaze and immediately loses her heart to it. This proved to be the turning point of her life, the making of a new girl with courage and new interests in life in place of the timid child who wouldn't think of getting on the back of a horse. If you ever loved a pony or a horse, you are bound to make this story one of your favorites for summer reading.

See you around, after vacation. Meanwhile, resolve to use the library if you haven't already done so, and if your are already a user, why not check out an extra book or two every week during the leisurely summer season. There's no nicer diversion than getting out in the hammock or the chaise with that book you've always meant to read but never quite got around to checking out for one reason or another! You've never had a better opportunity than now, nor a more comfortable place than this air-conditioned library in which to make your selection.

1040 U.S.I Taxpayers Ask IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q—I teach and plan to go to summer school. Can I deduct the cost of my courses?

A—Generally, educational expenses are deductible if they are expressly required by your employer or if they are necessary to maintain or improve your skills in your present position. No deduction can be taken for courses needed to meet the minimum standards of employment or to obtain a new job.

Q—I inherited some stock from my grandfather's estate and later sold it. Do I have to report anything on my tax return?

A—Yes. You will have a capital gain or loss measured by the difference between the sale proceeds and the fair market value of the stock at the date of your grandfather's death. The transaction should be reported on Schedule D and attached to your Form 1040.

Q—We are having a teenager stay with us this summer. Can we claim him as a dependent?

A—If he will be with you for just the summer no dependency exemption may be taken. To qualify as a dependent, a person not related to you must be a member of your household and live with you the entire year, in addition to meeting the other tests.

Q—Are dividends from a savings and loan account considered dividends or interest?

A—This income should be reported as interest on Page 2 of Form 1040.

Q—When is a student taxed on what he makes working summers?

A—When earnings for the year reach $600, a return must be filed. However, with the taxpayer's personal exemption and the minimum standard deduction, there will be no tax to pay until income reaches $900.

Don't forget that if tax is withheld from your earnings, a return must be filed to obtain any refund that may be due.

Q—It's been 3 months since I filed and my refund still hasn't come. What should I do?

A—Write or telephone your local IRS office. Be sure to give your Social Security number, name, address, and when your return was filed. This information is needed to trace your return.

Most refund claims have already been processed and the checks mailed out.

Tips for Buying Appliances Given By Specialist

"Whether you're planning to buy a new portable appliance for yourself or for a wedding gift, be sure to check the newest models for recent improvements," states Glenda Humphries, extension specialist in household equipment at the University of Minnesota.

Miss Humphries says some of the latest developments to look for in portable electrical appliances are non-stick finishes, removable or sealed-in controls so the unit can be immersed in water, solid-state controls for greater versatility in use of the appliance and variety of colors to match other equipment.

Cordless appliances have been growing in popularity because of convenience in using them at various locations and without bother of cords. They completely eliminate the danger of electrical shock or fire hazards. However, increased cost is one of the major disadvantages. The unit may have less power than the cord-type appliance and could be larger, since batteries are built in.

Miss Humphries gives these suggestions to keep in mind if you expect to buy a portable appliance:

Purchase a product made by a reputable manufacturer and from a reliable dealer.

Check on warranties for service and replacement of parts.

Look for the Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) seal for assurance that the equipment has been checked for electrical safety.

Check to see that controls are clearly marked and conveniently located.

Look for heat-resistant materials on handles, controls, legs and knobs.

Consider the purpose of the appliance, how well it will fulfill the purpose for which you are buying it and how often you will use it.

Check for good design, durable materials, finishes and construction.

Decide before buying if you have a place to store the item.

Be sure you know whether it will be fairly easy to care for.

The capacity of air-conditioning equipment is rated in terms of the ability to remove heat from a given space. The measure of such capacity is the British thermal unit (Btu), which is the amount of heat needed to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree Fahrenheit at sea level—about the amount of heat given off by a kitchen match. Btuh refers to the number of Btu's handled in an hour.

Seek to Eradicate Bovine Brucellosis

Target date for a bovine brucellosis free U.S.A. is 1975. Minnesota is using several methods of detecting infected animals and herds to be able to meet or beat the national eradication goal, reports Dr. L. T. Christensen of the Minnesota Livestock sanitary board.

Dairy herds are checked by the brucellosis ring test (BRT), a screening test which is conducted several times each year on milk samples from dairy herds. Many beef herds are checked by the market cattle test (MCT), a screening test which involves collection of a blood sample at the time of slaughter, for testing by standard methods.

The MCT program is dependent upon the application of a back tag on breeding cattle over two years of age as they leave the herd. These tags enable the board to trace infected or suspect cattle back to their herd of origin. Other tests which may detect infection are those conducted by veterinarians for sale, lease or loan of animals, for exhibitions, for diagnostic purposes, at livestock auction markets and under the on-the-farm herd sampling program.

The on-the-farm herd sampling program is a new screening test recently introduced by the board to increase knowledge of the brucellosis disease status of beef herds. This program allows veterinarians, who are under contract with the board, to collect blood samples from specified numbers of beef breeding cattle over two years of age when the cattle are restrained for examination or treatment. The veterinarian is compensated by the board for collecting and submitting the samples.

Owners of beef breeding herds are urged to have their veterinarian collect these blood samples while on their premises. Records of test of five per cent of the breeding animals each fiscal year (July 1—June 30) will exempt herds from a complete herd test during area tests of the country. It will also provide yearly information on the brucellosis status of the herd.

Herds in which brucellosis screening tests indicate possible infection are scheduled for a complete herd test. If reactors are disclosed the entire herd is quarantined, reactors are shipped for slaughter under permit and the herd is retested at approximately 30-day intervals. Two retests without reactors or suspects are necessary for release of the infected herd quarantine. If suspects only are disclosed they are quarantined until shipped for slaughter under permit, or until tested for brucellosis and found to be negative to the test.

Dr. Christensen said cattle owners can do much to assist in the eradication of bovine brucellosis and in protecting their herds from becoming infected by: (1) Cooperation with the Minnesota state livestock sanitary board and the animal health division, ARS, USDA in conducting area tests and screening tests to disclose infected animals; (2) Insist on receiving a certificate of a negative brucellosis test, conducted within 30 days, with all cattle purchased, borrowed or leased as required by the regulations of the livestock sanitary board and as protection against introducing infection into the herd; (3) vaccinate heifer calves at three through seven months of age.

Recommendation is that calves be vaccinated at the youngest age possible to permit rapid loss of the blood reaction which accompanies brucellosis vaccination. Protection is as effective in these young vaccinates as it is in older ones.

Dr. Flint, executive secretary of the livestock sanitary board, states that "the reduced incidence of brucellosis in cattle would indicate that eradication of the disease in Minnesota can be achieved by 1975. The continued interest and cooperation of the cattle owners of the state will be needed to achieve eradication of bovine brucellosis."

Ruth is Mrs. Clyde Ralston. Her husband Clyde came too.

Edna is Mrs. Robert Nelson of Long Beach, Calif. Bob came too.

The get together was for the ordination of John Keith Olson, a nephew of Bob and Edna's. It took place in the little country church "Melo" in Helgeland TWP. East of Warren. John will serve the Lord at Hinsdale and Saco, Montanta.

Bob and Edna have a son, Pastor K. F. Nelson who is pastor at Bashaw, Alberta, Canada. Bob is also the jogger you have seen lately in Thief River Falls early in the morning. A member of the Mile-A-Thon club of Long Beach, Calif., Bob jogs 5 miles each day.

Hi, and happy Summertime! When you're traveling about this Summer, keep an eye out for the fine "British pub" type restaurants that keep springing up throughout America. Usually picturesque, they're also usually friendly spots for the traveler, with refreshing cold beer and good food. According to columnist Betty Beale, even President Nixon has a favorite English-style Pub at Key Biscayne, Fla., where they cook a steak exclusively for him — when he doesn't ask for his favorite, the good old American hamburger!

Ordering Beverages Abroad

In case you plan to visit exotic lands, heed the advice of Dr. Kevin M. Cahill, Director of Tropical Diseases at St. Clare's Hospital, New York City. In the May issue of This Week Magazine, Dr. Cahill directs travelers to take special care in ordering beverages. Pointing up hazards possible, he states: "Tea and coffee are fine. Alcoholic beverages are wonderful. Beer is good any place in the world, and serves another function of giving you a lot of liquid." He concludes, "Staying with beer would be a good suggestion."

Foiled Chicken with Beer

Suggests columnist-cooking authority Frank Kohler: Dust 6 chicken breasts with salt and pepper. Place each on a large square of double-strength aluminum foil, and fold all sides up to contain liquid. In saucepan heat one can condensed cream of mushroom soup thinned with just [illegible] cup of beer. Stir until smooth, then stir in 2 tbsp. minced onion, 2 tbsp. minced parsley, 1 pressed clove of garlic, [illegible] tsp. each dried thyme and dried tarragon. Divide over chicken breasts, and seal each packet. Cook over hot coals, turning packets after 20 minutes [illegible] and send your name and address to "Minnesota Hostess," 1705 Soo Line Building, Minneapolis, Minn. 55402, for my free recipe book.

IT'S A FACT: AS YOU DRIVE THIS SUMMER, REFLECT THAT MANY OF THE GOOD GROWING THINGS YOU SEE IN FARM FIELDS WILL BECOME PART OF NEXT YEAR'S GOOD, SATISFYING BEER! THE BREWING INDUSTRY IN AMERICA USES SOME $277,000,000 WORTH OF FARM CROPS ANNUALLY. BESIDES SOME 96,000,000 BUSHELS OF CHOICE MALTING BARLEY, US BREWERS BUY SELECT CORN & RICE, WHEAT, SORGHUM GRAIN, HOPS, SOY BEANS AND SUGAR FOR A GRAND TOTAL OF OVER 5 BILLION LBS. Gives Suggestions On Working in City

(Editor's Note: The following information and suggestions were given by Mrs. Norma Hanson at a session sponsored locally by the Business and Professional Women's club. The meeting was arranged for the benefit of graduating high school girls and students in the area vocational technical and junior college. The talk is being published due to its general interest.)

Living and working in the city is a little like playing the game of Monopoly. You may not get the chance to buy a "Boardwalk" or a "B & O Railroad" but the "moves" you make in real life are just as much fun and as exciting—and a whole lot more serious and satisfying personally.

The great majority of people who have moved to our Minnesota cities as young adults have been "winners". They're glad they came. A few have been losers because they never really learned the ropes. But even the winners have many problems when they first arrive—just as everybody picks up a few penalty cards in Monopoly.

You can get a headstart—"get in the know" before you leave for the big city. Get as many facts as you can from your parents, counselor at school, your clergyman and other experienced people. Let's face it—two or more heads are better than one.

One thing you undoubtedly have thought most about is the matter of money. It's great to have, and you'll have it—after you get that job. But in the meanwhile you'll need some of that most desired stuff—MONEY. Plan ahead before you get to the city, so you can afford to look and wait for the "right" job to come along. Although it may not be so important to wait but take any job available to "tide" you over. We'll talk about that a little later.

It's a good idea to get a checking account at the bank right away. Why? For one thing, it is a sure way of keeping track of your spending, and you don't need to carry so much cash around. Also, as an example, if a prospective landlord wants to be sure you can handle the rent, he can always check with the bank. And later on, when you may want to buy something on credit, you have an officer of the bank that you may call on.

What do you need money for? Meals, transportation, rent, recreation, clothes, light and phone bill, personals, laundry and cleaning—and how much does this come to? Altogether, a survival figure of around $40 a week. Seems like that first pay check never comes.

Where do you plan to stay? Some of you may have friends or relatives that you will be boarding and rooming with. Whatever the case may be, you must find a place for you and your suitcase. You have the YWCA, which most of you have heard of. Rooms in private homes are usually furnished and have many advantages for single persons who are new in the city. Rooming houses—there are many of them in the cities. You may find these listings in the yellow pages of the phone directory. There is also residence clubs for women but here you usually find a long waiting list unless you write ahead.

How about a place of your own, like an apartment? It takes time to find the kind of apartment you want, the kind of roommates you like, and the best location. You're a lot better off to wait with apartment-hunting until after you have landed a job and know your way around in the city. If you happen to find a lovely apartment out of town a ways, don't worry, because you can get to almost anywhere by bus.

How much can you expect to pay for an apartment? A small apartment without many "extras" may run as little as $75 a month. If you want something a little roomier and better furnished you might go up to $100 or $150 per month. Remember that a larger, fancier apartment shared by three people costs each person a very little more than a smaller apartment shared by two people. One thing to look for in apartment hunting is whether it is furnished, unfurnished or partly furnished. You will find a listing of apartments in the want-ad section of the daily paper.

Get a map of the city when you set out job-hunting. Look it over carefully until you have a good overall picture of the city and the important buildings in it. If the map doesn't have all the locations of the larger business and public buildings, you can look in the yellow pages of the phone book.

Become familiar with the bus routes. There is usually a map of routes in the phone book. When you're looking for a job you'll probably need transportation to business places for job interviews. The bus is the cheapest way to get around. If you get mixed up in directions, ask a bus driver or policeman. You can also call the bus company about directions.

Where do I start looking for work? Large companies have their own employment offices where you can apply directly for work. These include banks, department stores, telephone company, insurance companies and many others. The state of Minnesota and the federal government have civil service offices where you can apply for many different kinds of government jobs. As you know, tests are taken to determine your qualifications.

The newspaper is also a good source through the want-ad section. There are also private employment agencies. These are profit-making companies whose business it is to help you find work and, of course, you will have to pay for these services. You pay a specified percentage of your wages for a definite period of time. Be sure you check these places out with the Better Business Bureau.

Ever heard of the YOC? That's a Youth Opportunity Center—where you talk with people who know about all kinds of job opportunities for young adults. There is one in St. Paul and another in Minneapolis. This office is a branch of the Minnesota state employment service, specializing in employment for young adults. They offer free help in getting work and special job training if you want it.

You can't beat a city for variety. If night-life is your pleasure, then the city after dark is the most exciting place in the world. If you'd rather have sunlight than night-lights, there are literally thousands of ways to have fun in the sun. Your cities have many parks with recreation facilities, both summer and winter. "Y's" offer much in the line of good, clean recreation. They even offer lessons. Many big companies have women's clubs and this is an opening for outside activities.

If you plan to live in an apartment and have your own phone, don't list your first name, just the initial and last name. By doing so, you'll save yourself the embarrassment of getting unwanted phone calls from "nuts" who enjoy going through the phone book and calling numbers listed to women. The word "nut" is sometimes pretty mild to describe these mentally-sick men. Another reason to list your number as I mentioned is that many salesmen get prospective customers via the phone book.

Make sure there's a lock and a night chain on your door to protect you from strangers and, also important, from these so-called "survey" takers, "free offer" peddlers and high pressure salesmen. What do they try and sell you? You name it—anything and everything from silverware to cars. And it's so easy to buy their wares—or so they say. Don't let their "painless, easy-payment" lines fool you, because they might "painlessly" lead you into deep debt.

Keep your shades pulled at night, for obvious reasons. Be sure to lock all doors when you leave—even if you only go to the basement. Don't give your keys to anyone—duplicates are easily made in a hurry. And don't let any strangers into your apartment, even if they say that they know your roommate, unless she has already told you that she was expecting a friend and gives you the name.

Don't go out on the streets alone at night or take any short cuts through alleys or driveways. If you own a car, keep the doors locked while driving and when you park. Never give a stranger a ride. Most of us know better than to take a ride offered to us by a stranger, you might find that the stranger has no intentions of taking you where you want to go.

Really, there aren't menacing characters lurking around every corner in the city. It's just that they thrive on opportunities—so don't give them a chance. As a matter of fact, most city people never have any trouble with criminal types because they take few and simple but important precautions.

When you are "in the know" you don't have to leave things to chance. And that's the big difference between Monopoly and the real thing. Make a go of it—you ought to be a winner.

Local Resident Tells of Storm At Denver, Colo.

In a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurits Scholin, Wayne Pound tells of his experience during a heavy rain storm at Denver, Colo. Pound, a graduate of Lincoln high school here, will be a senior at the University of North Dakota next fall and is spending the summer working for the Dennison Mining company at Buena Vista, Colo.

A portion of his letter follows: "Yesterday, shortly after I phoned you, I drove down towards K-Mart in south-central Denver. It had been dripping some, but all of a sudden I couldn't see the car in front of me! Then it started to hail, so I drove to an A & W nearby, and got in under their covering. After sipping a root beer for half an hour, with not much let-up, I decided to drive to K-Mart, as the hail wasn't bigger than half a marble.

"After getting my oil, I began driving toward the east, only to notice that the water, which had been filling the sides of the street, was beginning to cover the entire road, including the 10 foot ditches in the area that I had reached by this time.

"What really made me decide to turn back was when I noticed that not only were boards and gravel being washed by in front of me, but so were boulders as big as basketballs. And if that wasn't enough, up in front of me, at the base of the depression in the center of town, was a car floating by. Cars were lined up all over the place, but luckily, all were pointed towards the low area, so all I had to do was turn around in the middle of the avenue, and get out of there. Luckily, the man behind me let me turn around.

"According to the news, about 14 cars were washed out of control right there in front of me. One, a Press car from a local radio-T V station, was buried in the ditch under eight feet of mud and gravel and 15 feet of water."

Englund Family Escapes Death As Home Burns

Three members of the Louis Englund family of Karlstad were hospitalized at Karlstad for cuts, burns and smoke inhalation when their home was burned early Thursday morning.

Hospitalized were grandfather Nimrod Englund, Mrs. Louis Englund, and her five-year-old son Leif. Cries from the Englund home were heard by neighbors, who sounded the alarm for the ambulance and the fire department.

The fire started in the kitchen and spread to other parts of the house, with the exception of the garage addition, received heavy smoke, fire and water damage. The house is still standing, but the interior is badly damaged. The fire was fought for an hour before it was brought under control. None of the hospitalized were injured critically.

Sullivan Hurls No Hitter; Blanks Newfolden 7-0

by Bob Wielinski
Times Sports Writer

Thief River Falls Junior American Legion team opened defense of its Northwest crown on Wednesday night as it toppled league foe Newfolden 7-0 at the fairgrounds in Thief River Falls.

Dan Sullivan took the spotlight as the lefthanded curve ball thrower threw the season's first no-hitter in Legion play as he halted the bats of the Newfolden club, blanking them 7-0. Gordy Peterson was another of the heroes for the Legion team on Wednesday as he socked an opposite field inside-the-park home run in the first inning when Thief River Falls scored four of its seven runs.

Coach Bob Wielinski revised his line up from the first game which Thief River Falls also won 2-1 over the same Newfolden club. Only five members of the squad that started Friday's night's contest were in the starting nine of Wednesday night. They included Steve Daley, Sullivan, Sheldon Joppru, Tom Duke and Don Balmer. Others starting on Wednesday night included Tony Johnson, Dana Stromberg, Gordy Peterson and Brian Peterson. All were regulars with the Thief River Falls Prowlers this past spring with the exception of Joppru and Duke.

The Thief River Falls club started things out on Wednesday night as they were the visiting team on the scoreboard as the game was originally scheduled for Newfolden and then Viking, where the Newfolden club will be playing all its home games.

The local club scored four times in the first with only one base hit, two errors and some heads-up base running.

Steve Daley started the inning by reaching first on an error by the pitcher, stole second and third as Sullivan struck out, and came home as Dave Sethre, third baseman for Newfolden, couldn't come up with Tony Johnson's grounder. Johnson stole second, Dana Stromberg walked, and they advanced to third and second on a double steal. Both scored when Gordy Peterson hit an opposite field home run down the right field foul line.

In the second Thief River Falls scored once more as Daley singled, moved to second on a fielder's choice, stole third and came home on the third baseman's error, making it 5-0 in favor of the Thief River Falls club.

In the fourth Thief River Falls added another run as Brian Peterson doubled, moved to third on Daley's sacrifice and came home on a suicide squeeze bunt by Sullivan.

The final run came in the seventh inning as Sullivan reached on an error, stole second and came home on Larry Lee's single giving the Thief River club a 7-0 lead going into the final inning of play.

Sullivan was in trouble in the first, third and sixth innings as the Newfolden club had two runners on each inning but were only able to advance to third. Walks and errors were the only way that Newfolden runners reached base throughout the contest. Left-hander Sullivan struck out 12 and walked five, while the Thief River Falls club committed two errors.

Next action for the locals will be on Tuesday as they travel to Middle River for a Northwest conference game beginning at 7 p.m. On Wednesday they will travel to Moorhead to meet the Moorhead club at Concordia college field before returning home on Thursday for a home contest against Crookston in Northwest loop action. All games are at 7 p.m.

ASSEMBLING the parts of the raft that is carrying them down the Mississippi are these four boys. Floating the raft are 16 55-gallon oil barrels welded together in sets of eight. The boys built the raft of mainly scrap material, and left Minneapolis on June 6. They were expecting to reach St. Louis, Mo., in 18 days.

FATHERS lead a helping hand to their boys as they are shown preparing to launch their 1,500-pound raft for a journey down the Mississippi river to St. Louis, Mo. David Sorvig, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sorvig, is among the boys who is making the trip. His companions are Scott Augustine, 15, son of Rev. and Mrs. D. J. Augustine of Monticello, formerly of St. Hilaire, and two other Monticello boys.

CRUISING down the river are these four boys in a homemade raft, who are taking the Mississippi from Minneapolis to St. Louis. Included in the group is David Sorvig, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Sorvig of St. Hilaire.

David Sorvig Takes Part In Mississippi Float Trip

Fifteen year old David Sorvig, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Sorvig of St. Hilaire is among a group of four boys who launched their raft at Coon Rapids and are heading for St. Louis, Missouri by way of the Mississippi River.

The idea came to 15-year-old Scott Augustine, son of Rev. and Mrs. D. J. Augustine of Monticello, who was formerly in ministry in St. Hilaire. Through that relationship the two boys became good friends. Other compatriots in the adventure from the beginning were Paul S. Johnson, 16, son of Rev. and Mrs. Wm. Johnson of Monticello, and 16 year old Tom Yaeger, son of Mr. Howard Yaeger, also of Monticello.

The value of the raft in itself is quite small. The only money actually spent was $16 they invested for sixteen 55 gallon oil drums, welded together in pairs of eight, and $11.00 for maps and boat license. The rest is scrap. Canvas, screening, lumber and rope, were nearly all salvaged from old buildings and scrap.

The problem they encountered was that of maneuveribility of the 1500 pound vessel, which they hope to have mastered by the use of a sculling oar at the rear of the raft. The river's current was to provide the motive power for nearly all of the voyage, however, the Mississippi River flows through a few larger bodies of water that have a considerably smaller amount of current, so the boys attached two five horsepower motors to propell them at an anticipated 3 miles per hour across the still bodies of water, in comparison of the 4 to 5 mile an hour current of the river. Besides the unknown manuver-ability factor, the boys foresee a possible problem from the wake churned up by the barge pushers along the river's route.

Carried on the raft will be a couple of guide poles, each made up of two large bamboo poles taped together, to help them guide the raft through the 28 locks between Minneapolis and St. Louis.

The large craft was built in sections so that it could be dismantled for transporting by truck to the point of embarkment.

Along with the building of the raft, the boys made their own mooring lines of baler twine they picked up, and welded two anchors out of scrap metal, and also two protective plates for the barrels in case they should encounter river snags.

Canvas covers are used for the sides of the framed cabin, and cots and hammocks will be used for sleeping. They also carry a skiff, actually a duckboat of David's that could be towed behind or on top of the cabin. A camp stove will be used for cooking, and an ice compartment is built right into the floor, for use as a freezer.

No exact timetable has been set for the exploits down the Mississippi traveling by daylight, they will let developments set the pace for their trip.

Though fraught with a degree of apprehension and an occasional peril, the boys' venure down the Mississippi embodies a dream that countless men have envisioned.

Welfare Recipients Have Visits Monday

Pennington county welfare department arranged for welfare recipients to open their doors for visitation Monday in an "Open Door" program for invited people in the community. Eleven people, each recommended by a member of the county welfare board, heard a presentation of the county welfare program, visited several welfare situations and discussed their experiences at a meeting following an evening meal.

Ronald Mooers, director of the county welfare department, termed the program an outstanding success. He said that participation was good, community acceptance was exceptional and that welfare recipients were cooperative and almost eager to discuss their situations with visitors. "We feel a better understanding of the welfare program now exists for those who were able to make the visits and hear or take part in the discussions," Mooers said.

Taking part in the program were Mrs. Donavon Narverud, Mrs. F. P. Hamerlinck, Patrick Culkins, Mrs. Arnold Hammer, Wallace Sparby, Mrs. Frank Hible, Art Rambeck, Mrs. L. B. Hartz, Kenneth Onken, Mrs. Phil Kays and Ole Selmanson. Caseworkers leading small group tours were John Lynskey, Burton Kvernevig, Mrs. Marcia Wielinski, Miss Judith McCormick and Mrs. Phyllis Schmidt. Attending the evening session were Donald L. Olson, Merle Lindberg and Carl Anderson of the welfare board and Edgar Naplin.

Places visited included nearly all of the types of welfare given in Pennington county—aid to dependent children, old age assistance, general relief, foster homes, boarding and nursing homes, mentally ill, mentally retarded, food stamp and medical assistance.

Mooers said the project was designed to help community leaders replace hearsay with observation at the source, grasp the true dimensions of the problem, receive a factual basis to help solve problems confronting public welfare agencies in the community, become acquainted with the human side of public welfare and be enlighted in regard to the broad scope of service provided by county welfare departments. He said another Open Door program may be provided sometime in the future.

Welfare Reviewed

At the general meeting prior to visitation, Mooers explained that the county welfare department provides both financial and social assistance. Financial aid includes medical assistance, old age assistance, aid to the BARBARA HAMERLINCK, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Hamerlinck of Thief River Falls, will compete Saturday, July 12, for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the Jaycee Aquacade. Her talent number in the pageant will be a flute solo.

Barb Hamerlinck In Queen Contest

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

(This is the fourth in a series of personal interview features with candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the 15th annual Jaycee Aquacade. Other candidates will be featured in future issues.)

Most collectors collect stamps, antiques, pencils, dolls, coins or similar standard fare. Not so with Barbara Hamerlinck, for conventional collections are not her cup of tea. She collects purple—just about anything purple—and her friends send her bits of purple as they travel.

Eighteen-year-old Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Hamerlinck of Thief River Falls, a 1968 graduate of Lincoln high school and attended one year at Northland state junior college. She is five feet five and one-half inches tall, weighs 128 pounds, has brown hair, blue eyes and a 38-25-37 figure. Her talent presentation at the Miss Thief River Falls pageant July 12 will be a flute solo, and her sponsor is the Union state bank.

During her high school years Barbara was an active participant in a number of things, devoting much time to extracurricular activities. She was class president as a sophomore, class treasurer as a junior and class secretary as a senior, serving on the student council in her sophomore and junior years.

She took piano lessons for three years, played flute in the band from fifth grade through junior and senior high school and also played in the senior high school orchestra. Playing flute is one of her hobbies, along with collecting purple, listening to rock and roll and popular music, going camping with the family and watching or participating in sports.

Her interest in athletics shows in her activities, for she was in GAA and pep club in high school.

Arctic Gears Production To Meet Market Need

IT MAY BE SUMMER in northern Minnesota, but 1970 model Arctic Cat snowmobiles are rolling off the production line at the Arctic Enterprises manufacturing plant here. A single production shift has been operating for several weeks and a second shift will be added after the Fourth of July holiday. The 1970 models, which have a number of changes from 1969 models, are pictured above as they appear on the cover of one of the firm's promotional information brochures.

In anticipation of another banner sales year, Arctic Enterprises in Thief River Falls is stepping up production of the 1970 model Arctic Cat snowmobiles. One shift of employees has been working for several weeks and a second shift will be added after the Fourth of July holiday, according to Lowell Swenson, company president.

A number of design changes have been made from the popular 1969 models to make the Arctic Cat even more desirable to own, Swenson said. A number of the more popular features have been retained and new ones added for appearance, comfort, safety and performance.

Nine models listed on the company's first 1970 promotional brochure range from the 14 h.p., single cylinder P-246, capable of speeds up to 35 miles per hour, to the 75 h.p. three cylinder P-793 which is capable of speeds up to 100 miles per hour. Approximate horsepower on other models is 20, 25, 27, 33, 40 and 55, with one of the 20 h.p. machines having a two cycle engine and another a rotary engine.

Among new innovations is a console dashboard which provides fingertip control of all systems and accessory spots designed for easy installation of speedometer and tachometer.

Located at the lower right corner of the dashboard console is an instant-stop emergency shutoff switch. It operates independent of the regular ignition system and permits the driver to instantly shut off the engine in any emergency situation. The front bumper has a reflectorized strip to make the machine more easily seen and a sealed beam headlight with high and low beam for safer night driving.

Post Office at Grygla To Seek Better Building

The post office department is seeking an improved building for operations of the post office at Grygla.

A building of approximately 768 square feet is sought for the operation, and should be in the general business area.

The department is seeking bidders who have a suitable building and agree to improve it or who will provide a new building. The building is to be improved or built according to postal specifications and then rented to the department for a basic period of five years, with six years renewal options.

The Department's capital investment will be limited substantially to postal equipment. Because the building and land will remain under private ownership, local real estate taxes will continue to be paid.

Bidding documents may be obtained from R. W. Van Sickle, Real Estate Officer, Federal Building, Fort Snelling, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55425. The real estate officer will supply bidding forms, specifications, lease provisions and other information. Bids must be submitted to the real estate officer by July 16 at 4:30 p.m.

Aamodt and Olson Vows Exchanged at Greenbush

Miss Janice Gayle Aamodt and Myles Olaf Olson exchanged marriage vows in a mid-afternoon ceremony at Bethel Lutheran church in Greenbush on Saturday, May 31.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Mabel Aamodt of Greenbush and the late Einar Aamodt. Prior to her marriage, she was employed in Thief River Falls by Hagen Adjustment service. The groom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Olson of Trail, is a graduate of the Thief River Falls area vocational technical school.

Rev. Erling Borg-Breen officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar graced on either side by white carnations and baskets of palm branches. White satin bows and ferns marked the pews occupied by approximately 250 relatives and friends.

Miss Kathy Evans was the organist. She played the traditional nuptial selections and also accompanied Miss Cynthia Paulson, a cousin of the bride, as she sang, "Each for Each Other" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother-in-law, John Sodnak of Moorhead. She was attired in an empire fashioned A-line gown of silk organza over chrystalite. French imported hand-made lace encircled the slightly scooped neckline, short sleeves and marked the empire waistline. Matching lace enhanced the detachable train of silk organza over net. A hand-made headpiece of lace rose buds, dewed with seed pearls, held her veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, accented with white carnations, stephanotis and green ivy. The gown and veil were fashioned by the mother of the bride.

Mrs. John Sodnak of Moorhead, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

Other attendants were Mrs. Arne Isane of Badger, friend of the bride, and Mrs. Wallace Walton, Minneapolis, a cousin. Serving as junior attendant was Miss Bonita Knaack of Red Lake Falls, a cousin of the groom. All wore identical gowns of pink jo-jo complemented at the empire waistline by a wide band of white lace that extended down the back panels. To complete their attire, they wore pink and white head bows, white shoes and gloves, and each carried a hand bouquet of white mums accented with greens and pink and white streamers.

Attending the groom as best man was a friend, Donavan Stonrouse of Oklee. Groomsmen were Wayne and Allan Olson of Trail, brothers of the groom. Bill Sodnak of Moorhead, a nephew of the bride, served as junior groomsman. Ushers were Jack Sodnak of Moorhead, nephew of the bride, and Edwin Olson of Trail, a cousin of the groom. Distributing the wedding programs were Michael Muzzy of Thief River Falls and Douglas Bergsnev of Greenbush. All wore dark trousers, white dinner jackets and pink carnation boutonnieres with the exception of the groom who had a pink rose boutonniere.

The mother of the bride was attired in a pale blue dress complemented by beige accessories. The mother of the groom wore a light green dress trimmed with lace and accented with black accessories. Both wore corsages of pink roses and white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given in the parish building by the mother of the bride. Decorations were in pink and white, the bride's chosen colors. Centering the serving table was a five-tiered wedding cake accented with touches of pink and white roses, miniature doves, wedding rings and a miniature bridal party. The upper, pillared tier was topped with a pedestal with three lace bells. Baked and decorated by the mother of the bride, the cake was cut and served by Mrs. Vernon Knaack and Mrs. Robert Brumwell, aunts of the groom. Cousins of the bride, Mrs. Douglas Laker and Mrs. Kenneth Muzzy, poured.

Serving as reception host and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Paulson, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Miss Alice Paulson, a cousin. Presiding at the guest book was Miss Judy Hanson, while Miss Sharon Knaack and Miss Patricia Schnieder served the punch. All are cousins of the groom.

The groom's cake was served by Jimmy Dvergsten and Bryan Erickson as Karl Dvergsten distributed the thank-you notes tied with pink ribbons. Opening and arranging the gifts were Miss Carol Aamodt, Mrs. Russell Palm, cousins of the bride, together with Mrs. Norman Blackstad and Miss Mary Hanson, cousins of the groom. Assisting them by carrying the gifts were Pam, Kathy and Debbie Bergsnev and Susie and Peggy Bergsnev.

Waitresses were Pam Dvergsten, Eileen Waage, Patty Erickson, Cindy Dvergsten and Karol Haugen. Presiding in the kitchen were Mrs. Ole Anderson, Mrs. Aloise Witzman, Mrs. Curtis Haugen, Mrs. Frank Ryan, Mrs. Omer Olson and Mrs. Evelyn Olson.

Relatives and friends attending were from Antelope and Power, Mont.; Hatton, Grand Forks and Mayville, N. D.; Roseau, Badger, Strathcona, Greenbush, Trail, Thief River Falls, McIntosh, Oklee, Moorhead, Hopkins, Goodridge, Crookston, Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Red Lake Falls.

The bride is a graduate of Greenbush high school and Interstate Business college, Fargo, N. D. The groom is a graduate of Oklee high school in addition to the local area vocational-technical school. He is now in the United States Air Force, stationed at MCoy Air Force Base, Florida.

Mrs. Melvin Walla Will Head The National WMF

Mrs. Melvin Walla of Thief River Falls has been chosen national president of the Women's Missionary Federation of the Association of Free Lutheran congregations. She is the wife of lay pastor Melvin Walla who is serving the local parish which includes Our Saviors Lutheran church in this city.

The election took place Wednesday, June 11, at the national convention at the Association's headquarters in Plymouth Village, a suburb of Minneapolis. Mrs. Walla will replace Mrs. Herbert Presteng of Grafton, N. D., who has served for four years.

Serving the organization as executive secretary will be Miss Judith Wold of this city. At the Association's conference, which was also held last weekend at Plymouth Village, Miss Wold was also named as executive secretary of the department of parish education. A former teacher in the local public schools, she will assume her post August 1. Plans are for her headquarters to be in Thief River Falls. Among her duties will be the promotion of the Association's Sunday school materials that will be available later this summer.

Of special interest locally was the Women's Missionary program "My Missionary for a Day." Under this program, individual women in the federation donate the support for one day of one or more missionaries. New names of missionaries were added and among them was the wife of Connely Dyrud who was ordained into the church's ministry at the Sunday morning service. The Dyruds will be leaving in August for a mission field in Parana, Brazil. Rev. Dyrud, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dyrud of rural Thief River Falls, will be commissioned in ceremonies here on Sunday.

In addition to Rev. Dyrud, five other men were ordained into the ministry. Of them, Rev. Forrest Swenson will serve a parish at Winger. He was named to the Youth board.

The Association conference agenda included election of officers with Rev. John P. Strand of Minneapolis, re-elected to a third three-year term as president. He is the only one to have served as president since the Association of Free Lutheran congregations was organized in 1962. Re-elected as vice president was Rev. R. Snipstead, Minneapolis, who also serves as dean of the Association's Bible school and seminary in Plymouth Village. The secretary elected is a pastor in the state of Washington.

Among the board members named, two were from this area. Philip Grothe of Thief River Falls, a Pennington county welfare worker, was named to the board of Trustees of the Bible school and Seminary for a term of five years; and Mrs. Philip Dyrud of Newfolden was chosen co-chairman of the board of publications and parish education.

The conference concluded Sunday afternoon with the dedication of a dormitory for the three-year old Bible school and seminary. Rev. Trygve Dahle of Spicer and formerly of Wannaska, was the speaker.

Attending the conference from Thief River Falls were Rev. and Mrs. Melvin Walla, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dyrud, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Mortrud, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Grothe, Even Ose, Mrs. Johnnie Ness, Janell Ness and Mrs. Ole Selmonson.

Wednesday afternoon visitors and supper guests at the Alvin Rondorf home were Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Anderson of Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Benston of Thief River Falls.

NWCAP Annual Meeting Held At Badger Thursday

One of the best attended annual meetings of Northwest Community Action, Inc., was held Thursday evening at the Badger village hall. About 150 people from Roseau, Kittson, Lake of the Woods and East Marshall counties were present.

A 6 p.m. meeting was held first with representatives from nearly all of the villages in attendance, and the housing problem was discussed. Arden Hyldahl, rural specialist of the regional office of economic opportunity, spoke and answered questions. His recommendation was that a housing expert from the Washington office of the Co-op foundation be called in to brief the communities at a subsequent meeting of the various types of rural housing projects.

The group concurred and Northwest Community Action, Inc., will schedule such a meeting at some central point in the CAA area at an early date. He stressed low cost housing ownership as a desirable goal.

The annual meeting was convened at 8 p.m. with NWCA chairman Larry Furcht of Baudette presiding. Election of board members included: Roseau—Bob Carter and Joe Bernard; Kittson—Ann Hugg and Ray J. Peterson; East Marshall—Robert Santl and Francis Hmack; Lake of the Woods—Robert Sutherland and Vernon James Sr. The new members are Carter, Peterson and Sutherland. The public official members of the board (one from each county) are appointed by the board of commissioners.

Hyldahl gave the main address of the evening. His remarks centered around "community involvement" and the importance of working together to obtain programs for rural communities.

Interest High In Farm Conference Slated July 10

Minnesota's agricultural commissioner, Robert W. (Bob) Carlson, reports tremendous farmer response to program plans for Governor LeVander's farm conference scheduled for Willmar on July 10.

Carlson emphasized that there will be ample opportunity for farmers to "tell it like it should be" in making recommendations to the governor and state agency heads regarding state services to agriculture.

Governor LeVander has named Carlson as coordinator of the one-day conference that will give farmers opportunity to express views on how state government can better serve the needs of the agricultural community. The conference will be held in the auditorium gymnasium of Willmar high school. The conference is scheduled to get underway at 9:30 a.m.

A 21 man steering committee in direct seven separate workshop sessions will be assisted by an agriculturally-oriented resource staff from the Minnesota department of agriculture, the institute of agriculture and the agricultural extension service to assist in preparing workshop reports and recommendations.

In addition to the expression of views by farmers in workshop sessions and presentation of workshop reports from the floor, Carlson has arranged for special recording facilities for individual farmers desiring to make extended detailed remarks. Written comments by individual farmers will also be accepted and included with record reports for review by the governor, his staff and state agencies.

Speech-making by state officials will be held to a minimum, Carlson said. In emphasizing Governor LeVander's strong desire that this be a "listening" session that will give farmers opportunity to express their views on state government, agriculture and Minnesota's outstate area.

Carlson reported that farmers in many areas are already arranging for car pools and bus pools to simplify transportation to the conference site. He reported one group considering rail transportation along with attendance by some flying farmers.

"Response to the conference call is most exciting and I am sure the meeting will produce many worthwhile recommendations relating to agriculture for the governor and state department heads," Carlson concluded.

Operator remains safely in tractor cab while hitching to wagon or implement. Ramp Hitch self-couples automatically.

SOUTH BELOIT, ILL. — An agricultural engineer, professor emeritus in Madison, Wis., F. W. Duffee, terms the new Kenwell Ramp Hitch as the first fully automatic hitching device that is especially suitable for hitching wagons, whether behind a tractor or behind an implement.

Duffee says the method of attaching most towed implements to a basic drawbar hasn't changed since the first traction engine - a steel bar with a hole in it." But he terms the new development a time saver which practically eliminates danger of accidents in connection with getting off and on a tractor, and the actual job of hitching up.

Manufactured here, the new device couples automatically whether on uneven ground, backing into the tongue at angles or backing in off-center. It consists of two assemblies. The tractor end mounts with a single bolt on any standard drawbar behind a tractor, baler, chopper, corn picker or other self-propelled implement. The other end mounts on the tongue of a wagon or implement with three bolts. It has its own stand, which is locked when supporting the tongue, and is automatically retracted in the coupling operation.

Both assemblies are of heavy duty construction and designed to avoid interference with power take-off operation, three-point hitch or hydraulic couplings. An illustrated brochure, with complete information is available by writing Kenwell, Inc., 440 Clark Street, South Beloit, Illinois 61080.

Spannaus Criticizes Legislative Session

That the 1969 session of the state legislature "made no serious effort to meet the needs of rural Minnesota and its people," was charged recently by Warren Spannaus, state DFL chairman.

In a special statement to rural Minnesota newspapers in which he assessed the recently-completed session, Spannaus said the rural areas of the state "are no better off as a result of the five-month legislative session, and in some respects they are even worse off than they were before.

"This session showed beyond any doubt," he declared, "that Gov. LeVander and the Republican - dominated legislature have little sympathy with rural problems and aren't willing to make the tough decisions necessary to meet them."

Spannaus said the biggest shortcomings of the 1969 session as far as rural Minnesota is concerned fall into three categories: Failure to help rural school districts, failure to provide tax equity to rural taxpayers and failure to regulate corporate farming.

"Because the legislature failed to increase the state's proportionate share of the cost of operating elementary and secondary schools, it will be necessary for at least some districts to raise the already over-burdened property taxes.

"State government will still pay less than half the cost of local school maintenance. The increased costs of education require that additional revenue be found somewhere, and the legislature in effect told many rural school districts that the only place they can get it is from home owners. Thus, instead of broadening the local tax base and making it more equitable, the GOP lawmakers made it narrower—and more burdensome—than ever.

"The legislature also failed to correct the great injustice in the 1967 sales tax law whereby large corporations receive unlimited relief on their personal property taxes while homeowners' relief is limited to $250. This inconsistency has meant that many rural businesses have received huge and unjustifiable tax breaks that are being paid for by small town residents and farmers.

"A few examples will dramatize this injustice. In 1967 George A. Hormel and company of Austin paid $681,411.86 in personal property taxes, but because of the sales tax law they paid only $41,984.86 in 1968, for a net savings of $639,426.80.

"Northwest Paper company at Cloquet and Brainerd had its personal property taxes reduced 97.2 per cent in one year, from $244,211.70 in 1967 to $6,857.00 in 1968. American Crystal Sugar at Chaska went down 94.4 per cent from $24,597.20 to $1,416.48.

"The list could go on and on," Spannaus said, "but the point these examples make is very simple. It is the average taxpayers of Minnesota who, principally through the sales tax, are paying the cost of these huge tax breaks. It is a grossly unfair burden on them, and again the lawmakers did nothing to correct it.

"Finally, the legislature did nothing to regulate corporation farming in Minnesota, largely because of the lobbying efforts of a few large corporations and the effect of those efforts on Republican legislators.

"Despite the obvious protection needed for family farmers from these huge conglomerates and despite the overwhelming sentiment throughout the rural areas for some regulatory legislation over them, the Republican legislature failed to act. Given the choice between big business and the family farms, they again chose big business.

"Nor did the governor offer anything designed to benefit rural Minnesotans. Instead of offering a program for the rural areas in his state of the state message, he pledged to call a farm conference in April for the purpose of 'brainstorming.' April has come and gone without such a conference.

"What it all boils down to," Spannaus concluded, "is that rural Minnesota is getting short-changed by the Republican legislature and Republican governor. It's clearly time for a change if our rural people are to get the fair shake that they deserve from state government."

Bulk of Record State Budget To Go For Local Aid

Lion's share of the $3,700,000,000 appropriated by the 1969 legislature will flow out during the next two years in the form of property tax relief for home owners, farmers and businesses, and as financial aid to school districts, counties, cities, villages and townships.

That is the gist of a summarized report on state disbursements projected for the two-year fiscal period commencing this July 1, sent to its members this week by the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

"The new budget contemplates the greatest two-year outlay in the state's history," said Harold F. Miller, research director of the MTA. "The state government itself will get the lion's share for operating purposes, most of the money will be distributed to local units of government to 'pick up the tab' for property tax relief, as aids to municipalities and school districts to help meet welfare costs, and for other purposes.

Appropriations by the legislature provide $850,000,000 for education, $270,000,000 for welfare and corrections, $151,000,000 for state departments, $12,000,000 for highway department administration, safety, and plant and equipment, and $4,000,000 for semi-state activities. The increase in those appropriations total $297,000,000, or 29 per cent over those for the current biennium, with $192,000,000 of the increase going to education.

Appropriations for miscellaneous purposes total nearly $12,000,000.

"So-called 'open and standing' appropriations, involving such mandatory and continuing expenses as income and other tax refunds, certain school aids, debt charges, highway construction, maintenance and aids, and state employees' insurance and retirement costs, total about $1,750,000,000—up $507,000,000 from two years ago.

"The major item in this category is the $606,000,000 required for the various forms of benefits provided under the property tax reform and relief act.

"More than half of the estimated $3,700,000,000 total of state disbursements during the coming two years will come from income, sales, gasoline, cigarette, alcoholic beverages, gross earnings and other state taxes; about one-fifth will come from federal grants, and the rest except for $140,000,000 in new borrowing for state building purposes—will come from departmental receipts and other nontax sources."

Wayne Gilbert Second in U of M Student Election

Wayne Gilbert, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Gilbert of Thief River Falls, recently placed second in the student body presidency election at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis and St. Paul Campus. Winning the election was Tom Gilsenan, a junior from Minneapolis, and placing third was John Hughes, a junior from Hibbing.

The election culminated a five-week campaign. During that time, each candidate gave approximately 45 speeches to numerous university groups including fraternities, sororities, dormitories and university student governing organizations. In addition, the candidates were featured in a special program on educational television and presentations of their platforms on a suburban radio station.

Gilbert was endorsed by the University Young Democrats, the University Young Republicans, campus radio station WMMR, several fraternities and sororities and the American Indian student council. Gilsenan was endorsed by the St. Paul union board of governors, the Panhellenic council, the Interfraternity council and the West Bank union. Hughes was endorsed by Comstock hall, a women's residence hall.

Gilsenan's margin of victory was 300 votes.

"The outcome was uncertain until the final boxes of ballots were counted," Gilbert stated. "Earlier in the campaign Gilsenan had the definite edge, but in the closing weeks we were able to close that gap until during the final days all indications pointed to a successful outcome in our favor. The difference was most likely the St. Paul Campus where Gilsenan had about a 65-35 percentage split. We ran exceptionally strong on the east bank, and had about a 50-50 split on the west bank. Particularly disappointing, however, was the relatively low election turnout. We had felt that our strength would grow as more votes were cast, but unfortunately we were given no chance to prove that."

Gilbert also stated that he was unsure of his plans for the coming year, but that in all likelihood he will continue working with the Minnesota Coalition to Lower the Voting Age, an organization which he helped organize last fall.

Plan Spending Before Getting First Paycheck

If you've started your first job, that first pay check will be thrilling experience—but how much will it cost you to live until it comes?

The amount of money you will need will depend upon how resourceful you can be. A rule of thumb for most places in Minnesota is to plan for a minimum of $175-$225 for a month and proportion that amount carefully until the first pay check comes, according to Mary Frances Lamison, extension home management specialist at the University of Minnesota.

Patterns of spending you set the first day of work may continue for a long time, Miss Lamison cautions. If you borrow to live that first month, it will put you one month behind and may establish habits of living "in the red." Or it may mean living from pay check to pay check, since you have started your work life in debt.

Miss Lamison lists some expenses you can expect and should allow for before your first pay check comes:

Rent. Cost will be determined by size of the town or city you are in, whether you live alone or share a room or apartment or board and room with a family. If you share an apartment or a room, a frank talk with your roommate about housekeeping and paying bills may save hard feelings later. Remember that an apartment will bring such expenses as utilities and telephone.

Food. It's unwise to economize too much on food, since a balanced diet is important to good health. If you can prepare your own meals, it's possible to keep within a limited food budget, yet have better nutrition and more variety. A job often means eating at least one meal away from home, and eating out is expensive, regardless of what foods you choose.

Transportation. This amount is based on public bus fares. As part of your experiences, be sure to figure your bus fare, taxi fare, car maintenance or car pool fees. In estimating car costs, figure about 10 cents a mile plus parking costs.

Clothing and laundry. Even though your present clothing inventory is enough for the first month of work, such items as dry cleaning, laundry and some wardrobe essentials must be considered.

Apartment buildings sometimes have laundry facilities but charge for each load of clothes, usually on the same basis as a laundromat—20 to 25 cents per wash load and 10 to 25 cents per dryer load.

Miscellaneous, including entertainment. Miscellaneous items include personal grooming, leisure time activities, utilities and telephone.

Enough money to familiarize yourself with your new community is important. If possible, take a sight-seeing tour to locate places of interest. Check out libraries, the church of your choice, theaters, museums. Investigate adult classes. Since the first month away from home may be a lonely one, keep busy to avoid getting homesick.

After the first pay check, Miss Lamison suggests that you continue planned spending and saving by knowing where the money goes, allocating specific amounts to fixed expenses and to possible spending. Set aside some money each pay period for the items you want the most. This business-like procedure is important if the month that follows the first pay check is to be free from fear that not enough funds will last until the next pay period.

Releases Needed By Veterans If Selling VA Homes

Veterans administration today cautioned Minnesota veterans transferring to new jobs in new locations this summer to get releases in writing from the VA on their present GI home loans.

John R. Murphy, manager of the VA center, St. Paul, said that private industry frequently follows the long-standing practice of the military services and government agencies of transferring personnel during the summer to avoid disrupting their children's schooling.

In the excitement of moving and concentration on the new job, he said, it is easy to forget that even though a veteran sells his present home he is still liable for his GI loan. This responsibility continues until the loan is paid in full or the VA releases him in writing from all future liability.

Murphy also pointed out that the veteran who sells his home because of a transfer to a new location will be entitled to restoration of the VA home loan guaranty in order to purchase a home in his new community if his old GI loan is paid off.

Veterans may obtain additional information on release from their loan liability and restoration of their loan entitlement from the VA center at St. Paul or their local veterans county service officer.

Pollution Has Many Sources in Minnesota

by Bob Ray
Minnesota Pollution
Control Agency

In the land of 10,000 lakes there are more than 10,000 sources of pollution. In fact, there are as many sources of pollution as there are people in Minnesota.

Pollutants can come from suspended solids or from dissolved chemicals; they can be made by Mother Nature or by man. Pollutants can be poisons or nutrients, of urban origin or rural. Pollutants can be antiseptic industrial wastes or bacteria-rich sewage. Lake water can become polluted by storm run-off from farmland, from mining and forestry land or from city streets. Pollutants can come from lakeside cottages, boats or fishermen.

One measure of pollution is the bacteria count. It makes no difference if the bacteria came from the colon of a man or of a cow—if bacteria are in the water, they indicate pollution.

Another indicator of pollution is "biochemical oxygen demand" or BOD for short. It makes no difference if the oxygen-demanding biochemicals come from paper mills, municipal sewage, mortuaries or Mother Nature's primeval peat bog—if they deplete oxygen, they indicate pollution.

On the plus side, an indicator of water quality is dissolved oxygen. Delicate fish (and even more delicate insects) are most plentiful in water containing the most dissolved oxygen. Most pollutants in one way or another deplete the supply of dissolved oxygen—which is why they're classified as pollutants in water, though they may be nutrients on cropland.

Other pollutants may have little to do with oxygen depletion, but are poisons in and of themselves. These include dye mordants, acids, alkalies, toxins from some bacteria, metals—such as lead and arsenic—radioactive materials and other poisons.

Sometimes the concentration of a chemical determines whether it is a nutrient or a poison. For instance, ammonia in low concentrations acts as a nutrient and may stimulate nuisance algae blooms and weed growths. In high concentrations, ammonia may be toxic to fish and other aquatic fauna.

Ammonia is commonly found in waters which are heavily polluted with sewage, agricultural fertilizer or other wastes, and it is thus considered a general indicator of pollution.

Chlorides are universally present in sewage and many industrial wastes. Chlorides are not removed by conventional waste treatment processes and are, therefore, used as a general indicator of the presence of domestic or industrial effluents.

Phosphorus is an essential nutrient for algae and weed growths. It is generally considered to be the limiting element in developing such nuisance blooms or growths.

Sources of phosphorus include silt-borne agriculture fertilizer, and sewage-borne detergents. In either surface waters or wells, the presence of detergent-linked phosphorus indicates the presence of sewage, since detergents are synthetic and are not found in a state of nature, as are chlorides.

Water temperature bears on a number of factors associated with water quality. Temperature determines how much dissolved oxygen and water can hold, and determines the oxygen demand made upon water due to the rate of bacterial action.

Temperature governs all life in waters, including whether warm-water or cold-water species are present, how fast they grow and how much they are affected by toxins.

Productivity, in part, is a function of temperature—the warmer the water, the more pounds of fish produced. Fish production is high near coal-burning power plants.

In this article we have discussed some of the general sources of lake pollution. In following articles, we'll discuss pollution caused by lakeshore cottages and recreation, and pollution caused by industry, agriculture and municipal sewage.

Ordination For Wayne Lehrer Is Set in RL Falls

Ordination service for Wayne Lehrer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lehrer of Red Lake Falls, will be held Sunday at 4 p.m. at St. John's Lutheran church in Red Lake Falls. Rev. A. C. Seltz, president of the Minnesota North district of the Lutheran church-Missouri synod, will bring greetings and Rev. Paul Biegner of Thief River Falls will deliver the ordination address. Rev. Roger Rachel, pastor of St. John's in Red Lake Falls, will serve as liturgist and ordinator.

Following the ordination service, a reception will be served by the ladies aid in the church parlors. Relatives, friends and interested area residents are invited to attend.

Born March 28, 1943, at Thief River Falls, Lehrer attended rural school and graduated from Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls as valedictorian in 1961. He married Lois Spomer in 1966.

In preparation for the ministry, Lehrer attended Concordia college in St. Paul from 1962-1964, Concordia senior college at Fort Wayne, Ind., from 1964-1965 and Concordia seminary, St. Louis, Mo., from 1965-1969. He served a year of internship at Immanuel Lutheran church in New York City in 1967-1968 and received his bachelor of divinity degree from Concordia seminary May 30 of this year.

He has accepted his first call, as assigned by the synod's board of placement, to Redeemer church in Jacksonville, Fla. He will first attend nine weeks of chaplaincy training in New York with the Army reserve.

RECEIVING his diploma at commencement exercises at the University of Minnesota medical school recently was William A. Dahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Dahl of this city. He will intern at Sacred Heart hospital in Spokane, Wash. He will be accompanied to Washington by his wife, the former Vangie Torkelson of this city. His parents and brother, Jim, attended the commencement.

Adventists Will Hold Centennial Camp Meetings

Seventh-day Adventist churches in Minnesota will celebrate their centennial of camp meetings on Saturday at Hutchinson. The first camp meeting was held 100 years ago at Wasioja, in Dodge county, in October of 1896.

The next year another camp meeting was held in the same place and one of the church leaders reported it as "very large for Minnesota." There were 19 family tents, eight to 10 covered wagons, a boarding tent and a large meeting tent. Camp meetings were later held in several different areas of the state. Anoka was chosen as a camp meeting site in 1899. In more recent years the camp has been held at Hutchinson, where the church supports a 12 grade boarding school. Most of those who now attend camp meetings stay in the dormitories on the campus. An increasing number of families bring their campers and spend much of their vacation attending the services. A few families still pitch family tents.

Keynote speaker this year will be Robert H. Pierson, the General Conference president. He has a total of six speaking appointments in the three days he will be on the campground. Rev. Pierson has been a missionary and has written over 12 books. It is expected that over 2,000 Adventists will attend this centennial celebration.

Agassiz Survey Tells Of Duck Population

by Howard A. Lipke
Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge

One of the world's most intensive annual ground-air searches is now underway on both sides of the U.S.-Canadian border; the quarry—the wild duck.

Purpose of the air-ground surveys is to sample the continent's prairie duck population and its most productive habitat. The sum total of the information from the surveys will be used as a basis for the 1969-70 waterfowl hunting regulations.

To date, the story from the land of the prairie duck is much the same throughout the pothole country—water, water everywhere. Waterfowl specialists generally are optimistic over the prospects for good production from breeding ducks this year.

Agassiz National Wildlife refuge's activities involve a variety of management and development programs. One of the primary management goals of the 62,000-acre refuge is the production of waterfowl, hence many of our activities are centered around this valuable resource. Agassiz produces more ducks than any other refuge in the Mississippi flyway.

Like the intensive survey of the prairie duck population, Agassiz has its own survey of its duck breeding population.

Each year, generally during the last week of May, refuge personnel and the Region 3 pilot from Minneapolis conduct air and ground surveys to determine the number of breeding pairs present on the area. Figures from the survey show population trends and help to evaluate refuge management.

This year the survey was conducted on May 27 between 6 and 9:30 a.m. The count involved six men, four for the ground counts and two for the air counts.

The survey begins by counting the pairs along 34 miles of transects which parallel refuge roads and dikes, first from the air, then from the ground. Later, one-third of the refuge is sampled by counting all pairs on either side of 15 east-west transects running through the refuge.

Using the data from the 34 miles of ground transects, a visibility factor is calculated (for every pair counted from the air, 2.69 were counted from the ground in 1969). The factor, or ground to air ratio, is then applied to the one-third sample (expanded by three for the entire refuge).

This year the total count of breeding pairs is 5,189. This is a considerable drop from the 6,357 recorded in 1968, however, fast year dry conditions on farmlands surrounding the refuge concentrated birds on refuge pools. It is felt that the populatin on and in the area of the refuge is similar to last year.

Refuge personnel are hopeful of a good production year, barring any unforeseen adverse conditions. In spite of the very high breeding population in 1968, only 8,635 ducks were raised to flight stage. Main nesting attempts in early June and early July were largely flooded out by one to three-foot increases in most of the refuge pools.

At the present, water conditions look favorable for an excellent production year in 1969.

The breakdown of species is derived from information gathered from the ground counts. The total tally of pairs from the ground is broken down into percentages for each of the species, and then is applied to the total refuge count.

Of the total pairs, 77 per cent are puddle ducks and 23 per cent divers. The four main nesters are blue-winged teal, gadwall, mallard and redhead, in that order. This year blue-winged teal represented 40.6 per cent of the total; gadwall, 13.5 per cent; mallard and redhead, 12.1 per cent each. Other puddle ducks nesting on the refuge in lesser numbers are shoveller, green-winged teal, pintail, wood duck and widgeon. Other divers include scaup, ring-necked duck, ruddy duck and canvasback.

Of primary concern to waterfowl managers has been the decrease in the flyway mallard population. Agassiz's population is down slightly this year. Mallards were particularly hard hit by refuge floods last year and it will take a good production year to get them back on the upswing. Total mallard pairs this spring numbered 628.

Redheads are another species which is threatened by low numbers, and the continental population bears close watching. Agassiz' breeding population is up slightly from last year, and hopes are high for a successful hatch.

Hatching of the earlier nesting mallards and pintails is already underway as brood observations have been made on both species. The first mallard brood was sighted on May 26. Divers and many of the other puddle duck species are later nesters and we will have to wait to evaluate the overall nesting season. Follow-up brood counts made in July and August will determine the total refuge duck production.

Geese

Final tabulation of the data collected during the nest survey work for the five-year Canada goose study shows that 90 breeding pairs had nests on the refuge this spring. Production from these nests is likely to result in excess of 300 goslings raised to flight stage in 1969. This represents a substantial increase over the 1969 total of 49 nests and 186 young.

Most geese have hatched and brood sizes have generally been large. Welcomed visitors are likely to see goose and duck broods as they travel along State Aid Road 7 which passes through the area.

Ruffed Grouse Drumming Count Up from 1968

Completion of ruffed grouse drumming counts in Minnesota this spring revealed an increase in the number of breeding birds over the good population level of last year, the division of game and fish announced today. Ruffed grouse numbers have shown annual increases during the past six years.

Field personnel of the department's section of game covered 47 routes in the grouse range, recording the number of drumming birds heard at selected check points.

In the main range of northern Minnesota, a count of 2.8 birds per stop was recorded, the highest since a 2.8 count in the outstanding grouse hunting year of 1952. In the fall of 1952, state hunters took one and a quarter million grouse.

The drumming count shows a high breeding population and, if there is a good hatch and favorable weather this summer, hunters can expect a good hunt next fall.

Spring observations also indicate a marked improvement in the sharptailed grouse population, the division said.

Game specialists pointed out that the high breeding population shows that hunting of grouse during years of low population does not hamper recovery of the population when weather and other factors are again favorable. Grouse populations in refuges vary from year to year, the same as in areas open to hunting.

The early hours of the morning and the last hours of a long drive are the most perilous for the lone driver, fatal accident statistics show. If you are tempted to test your endurance on a long drive in order to get there sooner, remind yourself that this could result in not getting there at all.

MAJOR MODIFICATION which is visible externally on the 1970 model Arctic Cat is the new console dashboard. It offers fingertip control of all systems with accessory spots designed for easy installation of speedometer and tachometer. The tool compartment conceals the battery on electric start models and the "living hinge" on the door is said to take a half-million operations, even at 60 degrees below zero.

Legislator Gives Views Regarding Snowmobile Use

Minnesota is leading the nation, not only in its production of snowmobiles, but in the promotion and use of snowmobiles as a major winter recreational resource.

This observation was given recently by state Representative Richard W. Fitzsimons, Argyle, chairman of the Minnesota Resources commission special studies committee.

"Our state is being given additional recognition nationally following the passage of several key measures during the legislative session just concluded.

"Perhaps the most significant single action taken by the legislature was the approval of an $825,000 snowmobile appropriation for the fiscal years of 1970 and 1971 to the Minnesota conservation department. This money will be spent in a number of ways to enhance the growth of snowmobiling in the state.

"A portion of the money will be used for the direct training of snowmobile drivers between the ages of 14 and 18. This activity will be supervised by officers of the department of conservation.

"Further work will be done to maintain, improve and expand Minnesota's 4,000-plus miles of snowmobile trails. Conservation officials have indicated that a uniform marking system will be developed, together with such trail facilities as winter campgrounds, emergency service stops, fireplaces and the like. The use of many of the state's existing forest fire trails for snowmobiling will also be projected."

Rep. Fitzsimons, as chairman of the special studies committee of the commission, first started studying the potential of the snowmobile industry early in 1965.

"Those of us who are familiar with and participate in snowmobiling decided early that this sport and industry must be given a chance to grow without oppressive governmental restriction and at the same time we recognized that the rights of the private land owners should be protected.

"As you know, Minnesota ranks number one among the 50 states in the production of snowmobiles. In view of this fact, from the start we worked closely with industry representatives in developing legislative programs which have as prime goals the promotion and expansion rather than restriction of the sport.

"I'm sure this approach has already paid direct and indirect dividends to all concerned. Snowmobiling is fast becoming the top winter sport throughout the northern states. We want to foster this growth. We want to keep Minnesota number one," Rep. Fitzsimons concluded.

Members of the Minnesota Resources commission will also examine further development of snowmobiling as part of its studies on trails during the upcoming biennium.

Jensen's Remain Top Trap Team

Jensen Mink Farm established itself more definitely as the team to beat in the Thief River Falls trap league Monday evening as the Oklee crew took a 113-108 win from the Trap Club team for a 5-0 record and first place in the league. Custom Motors stayed in close contention with a decisive 121-103 win over the Pharmacy while Union State Bank moved ahead of Wilson Bros. which lost ground by being defeated in its match.

With wind and rain hampering at least a portion of the shooting Monday, a number of unusually low scores were recorded. There were no straight 25's on the board but 24's were posted by Jerry Wendorff of Union State Bank, Floyd Ball of Lind Motor Supply, Ray Thyren of the Pharmacy and Sandy Wilson of Mostue Floral.

Alvin Jensen paced his Mink Farm team to its fifth win without a loss with a 21-2-23, and Paul Larson had a 15-8-23, Milo Larson a 16-8-24, Paul Cyr a 14-8-22 and Steve Cyr a 16-5-21. For the Trap Club team, Godfred Svir had a 20-6-25, Bob Grendahl 17-8-25, Randy Lian 18-5-23, Greg Berger 12-7-19 and David Lee 6-8-16.

Custom Motors took advantage of a short-handed Pharmacy team but was only four birds off the perfect mark in recording the night's high team score of 121. Mark Mattson had a 22-4-25, Bruce Mattson 20-7-25, Dale Schantzen 20-7-25, Steve Johnson 22-2-24 and David Larsan 18-4-22.

After Ray Thyren's 24-3-25, the Pharmacy had Stub Pahlen 17-5-22, Russ Embury 16-5-21 and Myrt Wilson 17-3-20, plus a dummy score of 15 for a total of 103.

Wilsan Bros. got kicked a rung down the ladder by Mostue Floral 118-113. Following Sandy Wilson's 24-0-24 for Mostue's were John Feragen 20-4-24, Sid Brouse 16-8-24, George Mostue 20-3-23 and Neil McEwen 15-8-23. Wally Vagle's 21-4-25 led Wilson Bros., followed by Dan Rawerts 16-8-24, Stan Wilson 22-1-23, Orville Feragen 16-5-21 and Si Schantzen 19-1-20.

Union State Bank shaded A & W Drive-In 118-113 by posting three 25's on the score sheet. They included Wendorff's 24-6-25, Arnie Narverud's 17-8-25 and Arnie Johnson's 17-8-25. Other scorers were Fred Sorenson 20-4-24 and Al Scheuneman 15-5-20. Warren Hanestad had an 16-8-25 for the A & W, followed by Borry Fellman and Curtis Ness with 15-8-23 scores, George Hanestad 14-8-22 and Ranald Runger 12-8-20.

Coast-to-Coast dumped the Shrine 115-92 as Joanie Wilson and Gubby Lane popped 22-5-25 scores to pace the winners. Ike Ellingson had a 20-8-25, Don Kamrowski 18-2-20 and Harold Hugg 14-6-20 to complete the scoring. Bob Flynn's 15-8-23 led the Shrine with other scorers including Orvis Olen 16-3-19, Irv Wilson 11-8-19, Gene Gaer 12-8-18 and LeRay Nabben 5-8-13.

Lind Motor Supply had the second high score of the night in downing L. B. Hartz 120-112. Floyd Ball's 24-2-25 was followed by Dick Bjorkman 22-7-25, Dick Griesen 18-8-25, Hal Loge 19-5-24 and Earl Dagg 13-8-21. Walt Fischer with 21-4-25 led the Hartz squad, followed by Pat Fischer 21-2-23, Dean Anderson 18-4-22, Howard Hagen 19-2-21 and Curt Bottem 17-4-21.

The Times edged Arctic Enterprises 106-102 in something less than a sharp-shooting exhibition. Scoring for the Times were Marv Lundin 19-4-23, Bob Mattson 21-1-22, Ken Kohler 16-5-21, Mike Johnson 13-8-21 and Clarence Mattson 13-6-19. Arctic scorers were Don Omdahl and Bob Johnson 13-8-21, Ike Hoglin 13-7-20, Tubby Lund and Burt Lane, 12-8-20.

In a make-up match the Shrine scored its first win by tapping the Trap Club team 110-85. Orvis Olen fired a 22-4-25 to lead the way with Gene Gaer adding a 17-6-23, Carl Lee 14-8-22, Irv Wilson 13-8-21 and LeRoy Nabben 11-8-19. Bob Grendahl had a 17-8-25 for the Trap Club with other scorers including Randy Lian 15-5-20, Greg Burger 8-7-15, David Lee 8-6-14 and Godred Svir 8-3-11.

Matches next Monday find the league-leading Jensen Mink Farm meeting Union State Bank while Custom Motors hopes to keep its winning ways going against L B Hartz. Wilson Bros. meet Arctic Enterprises, Coast-to-Coast shoots against the Pharmacy, Lind Motor Supply engages A & W Drive-In, the Times tangles with the Trap Club team and the Shrine bangs away against Mostue's Floral.

National Safe Boating Week To Be Promoted

Since 1957, national safe boating week has been proclaimed annually, by the President of the United States to pay tribute to the men and organizations that have built boating's enviable safety record and as a means of reminding the nation's 42 million boating enthusiasts of the need to keep boating safe.

Theme of the 1969 observance is "Safety First—The Golden Rule of Boating."

"The boating fraternity is growing at a million-a-year clip. The only reason we've been able to hold the accident rate down in the past is the dedication of boatmen and their organizations to safety afloat. We must redouble our efforts to get the word to the sport's newcomers" states Harry C. Anderson of the U.S. Corps of Engineers for the St. Paul district.

"This is why we have a national safe boating week. We call upon all boatmen to join us in the observance."

This year, more than 900 U.S. Coast Guard auxiliary flotillas, 365 U.S. power squadrons, 350 boat and water ski clubs and scores of other boating groups throughout the country will join in sponsoring boat parades, regattas, safety demonstrations and other special events. The groups will get help from Red Cross chapters, local safety councils and other civic organizations.

Proper Lookout Necessary For Boating Safety

Keeping a proper lookout is as important on today's speedy runabouts as it was on the Nantucket whalers a century ago, reminds the committee for national safe boating week to be held June 29 through July 5.

The modern small boat skipper, particularly in crowded harbor areas, must watch out for floating debris, other boats, swimmers, piers and other hazards.

Bids Accepted by State on Fish

Minnesota conservation department announced today it has accepted bids on two new fisheries projects, one the first of its kind to be built in this area.

The unusual structure will be located near the outlet of Grindstone lake in Pine County and will discharge water out of the lake from a depth of about 40 feet.

Purpose of the project is to provide the outlet stream, Grindstone river, with cold water from the lake in order to improve trout habitat. The facility will consist of a large pipe with one end resting in the lake and the other projecting over the top of a water control structure to empty into the river.

The structure will also virtually eliminate migration of fish out of the lake. Grindstone is stocked with several species of trout and salmon, some of which have strong migratory tendencies.

The contract was awarded to Carl Borg of Wayzata who submitted the low bid of $14,860.

Another project, a northern pike spawning and rearing area, is scheduled to be built at Oscar lake in Douglas county. The site was purchased by the conservation department under the natural resources fund which receives its monies from a special tax on cigarettes.

Development work will consist of a water level control structure, some channel improvement, diking and an access road. The project will be built by the Acme Construction company of Glenwood who submitted the low bid of $14,171.

Once TRF Priest Supports Bishop

A former assistant priest from St. Bernard's church in Thief River Falls, presently in Argyle, took the hierarchy of the Catholic church to task last Thursday in a statement to the Grand Forks Herald. He defended Bishop James Shannon and the bishop's right to differ with official ruling of the church.

Rev. James Ditzler, a priest of St. Rose's Catholic church in Argyle and coordinator of the Minnesota chapter of the National Association of Pastoral renewal, called for the resignation of "present archbishops" and the discipline of other church authorities.

Rev. Ditzler defended recently resigned Rt. Rev. James Patrick Shannon, who had been auxiliary bishop of St. Paul-Minneapolis.

Bishop Shannon resigned in a letter to church authorities several months ago. The fact that he had resigned was not revealed by church officials. Bishop Shannon, in a recent letter to a Minneapolis newspaper, said he had resigned.

The reason he quit, he made clear, was that he did not agree with Pope Paul's stand against birth control.

Here is Father Ditzler's statement:

"In the light of the Bishop Shannon tragedy, and the rumors arising about the origin of the surprise message form Bishop Shannon read at the (priest) Senate meeting, the credibility gap is further widened between the local church leaders and the whole community of good will in the upper Midwest.

"The surprise message from Bishop Shannon certainly could possibly be seen as coming spontaneously from this noble, great and forgiving man. But there is some question as to how it came to light," whether it was believed the statement by Shannon was necessary might have been directly requested.

He said, "At the senate there seems to have been an attempt by some to avoid having to really live with Bishop Shannon's original words about the truth, as a source of scandal to the Roman community. The Senate's statement for Bishop Shannon by Father Carroll suggests an unawareness of Cardinal Suenen's recent statement in which he counseled" moderation.

Rev. Ditzler said Bishop Shannon "certainly is" moderate. He quotes Jesus' statement that 'The truth makes you free.' Father Ditzler also noted that Cardinal Suenens once wrote, 'Though I do appreciate the value of secret diplomacy in some cases, I do not belive in secrecy over pastoral matters, and secrecy in itself serves only to maintain the status quo. The church is either a family or it is nothing; and in any family there must be open dialogue if misunderstandings are to be got rid of, and the air cleared.'

"Certainly the hierarchy's reactions on all levels to Bishop Shannon's problem seem to have been to fog the air and create a climate of misinformation based on half-truths, and legalistic jargon that confused the real issue, which is one of the finest church men our area has produced.

"The inquisitional, legalistic and star chambered to the response to the honest attempt of a sincere bishop to submit his problem of conscience to his superiors according to their own guidelines which has met with such horrendous consequences makes it nearly impossible to see them as responsible leaders of a Christian community.

"Therefore it would seem that a real reform and repentance on their part that would re-establish some credibility, would necessitate the recall of the present archbishops, the discipline of the mendacious chancellor and the immediate establishment of procedures by both the clergy and laity.

"Of course the formulating of procedures for due process to assure fair, open and impartial hearings by peers which is an absolute right that is given all Americans assume is unalienable, should at long last be guaranteed to clerics.

"And most important of all, Bishop Shannon should be given an official church position where his outstanding abilities and integrities can best be used to benefit the whole Christian community."

Test Yourself On Techniques Of Safe Driving

Suppose during your 4th of July trip an oncoming car veers into your lane and hurtles toward you. Which two of the following four actions do you take?

1. Blow the horn. 2. Apply the brakes. 3. Steer as far right as you can. 4. Switch to the lane the other car should be in.

In all but the rarest circumstances, moves 1 and 3 are best. The horn may wake the other driver up, and a right steer is more likely to provide escape than braking or turning into the oncoming traffic lane.

But if you haven't tested your safety sagacity lately, maybe you should tune-up for holiday driving with these additional questions from a leading insurance company:

True-False

1. In case of a blowout, take your foot off the accelerator immediately, then pump the brakes.

False. Ease up on the gas gradually, not abruptly. Wait until the car slows naturally before braking gently.

2. If your car, heavily loaded for a trip, seems easier to steer than usual, your tires need more air.

False. You should move some of the heavier items farther forward.

3. It is sometimes better to steer toward an object in the road instead of trying to miss it.

True. If your choice in an emergency is between hitting a moving vehicle or a minor obstruction in the road such as a rock or animal, choose the latter. If the object is small enough, straddle it rather than swerving to avoid it.

4. A light rain is often more dangerous to drivers than a heavy rain.

True. A light shower makes highways slicker than a heavy rain because road oil and grease "float" on the surface of the moisture. A downpour washes them away.

5. On turnpikes, rear-end collisions are the most frequent type of accident.

False. Most turnpike accidents involve only one car. The statement is true for two-car accidents, however.

6. When an oncoming car fails to dim its lights, you should slow down and watch the right side of the road.

True. If you look directly into the high beams of an oncoming car at night, your eyes won't recover completely from the glare for one full minute.

7. Most traffic accidents occur at night.

False. About three out of four accidents happen in daylight, on dry roads, in clear weather. Most fatalities occur at night, however.

8. For better control on curves, slow down as you begin the turn and accelerate half way through it.

False. You should slow down well before you begin the curve and gradually accelerate about two thirds of the way through it.

9. When passing, you should not cut back until you can see the car you passed in your mirror.

True. This is a handy way to gauge a safe distance.

10. In terms of traffic fatalities, the 4th of July is the most dangerous of the three warm weather holidays.

True. So far.

Swede Carlson Survives Crash In Angle Swamp

Maynard (Swede) Carlson, owner and operator of Swede Carlson's Flying service at Warroad, was recently involved in a plane crash, where he received a broken arm and cuts on the head.

He was making a food drop to Dave Borman, pulpwood logger in Northwest Angle swamps, and encountered difficulties with his plane. He had made a turn to check on the drop, and the power on his plane went out. He crashed into the trees and his plane came to rest nose down in the swamp, totally wrecked.

He had come down in such dense spruce that the plane was almost invisible from the air. The engine was ripped from the firewall, while the rest of the plane stood like a battered toy, with its tail held up by branches of surrounding trees. He had to get out of the wreckage from the opposite side of the plane, and because he had no one to help him, he had to walk out alone.

He walked to the camp of Dave Borman, the pulpwood logger, and Borman started up a crawler to drive out of the swamp through the muck. After a short drive the crawler sank into the mud, and Borman and Carlson had to walk in the sometimes waist deep mud the rest of the long distance to Stoney Creek.

Carlson was picked up by one of his pilots and brought to Warroad where he was treated and kept overnight. Carlson immediately obtained a Cessna 206 to replace the 180, which was covered by insurance.

Ban Toxaphene For Removal of Lake Bullheads

Game and fish director Richard Wettersten announced today that rehabilitation of lakes in southern Minnesota, including the Shetek chain, through application of fish toxicants will not be done this summer as previously planned.

Wettersten said the reason for postponement of the treatment is a ruling against the use of toxaphene, the only chemical available that will kill bullheads economically in large lakes. Toxaphene is considered undesirable in lakes because of its potential harmful effects on warm-blooded animals and other life in the environment. Its use by the department for lake renovation has been discontinued.

"We anticipate having a chemical available within a year or two that will be effective on bullheads, economical, and harmless to warm-blooded animals," Wettersten said.

"In the meantime, rough fish will be removed by seining and trapping and the lakes will be stocked with game fish from hatcheries, rearing ponds, and rescue-and-transfer operations."

To avoid delays, veterans should write the regional office where their records are maintained rather than to the VA in Washington, D.C.

Young Person Is Able To Qualify For Disability

A young person severely disabled before age 31 needs less work to qualify for disability benefits under social security than a worker between 31 and 65.

The time required is shorter because the younger person has had less time to work under the program, said Clifford Kittelson, district manager.

A worker disabled before age 31 needs to have worked for a length of time equal to one half of the time between age 21 and his age on becoming disabled. A person needs at least six quarters to be insured. Work before age 21 may count toward this requirement.

As an example, a person disabled at age 27, six years after he was 21, needs three years (12 quarters) of work under social security to qualify for disability benefits.

After age 31, a worker needs to have worked at least five years out of the last 10 before he became disabled.

Besides the time requirement, a person has to be so disabled that he is expected to be unable to do any work of consequence for at least a 12-month period. The law applies to mental as well as physical disabilities.

A disabled worker should apply for disability benefits as soon as it is apparent that he will be unable to work for at least a year

New All-Time Record Is Set For Employment

Nonfarm wage and salary jobs in Minnesota in May set a new all-time employment record, according to George J. Vavoulis, commissioner of the Minnesota department of employment security.

Jobs in Minnesota reached 1,281,200, Vavoulis said. The previous record was in September of 1968 when nonagricultural wage and salary employment was 1,280,300.

Vavoulis said that since nonfarm employment usually peaks in September each year, further increases in jobs can be expected during the coming months.

He also reported that the May employment level was up 17,400, a gain of 1.4 per cent from April, compared to the average seasonal gain of 2.1 per cent for the past five years. The gain over the May, 1968, job level was 43,000.

Vavoulis said increases over employment a year ago and April of this year were both primarily in the nonmanufacturing segment.

Unemployment dropped to 44,100 in May from 54,900 in April for an actual unemployment rate of 2.6 per cent. A year ago, 47,400 of the labor force, or 2.9 per cent, were jobless.

Minnesota's seasonally adjusted May unemployment rate was 2.8 per cent, compared to 3.5 per cent for the nation.

Don't Overload Boat's Capacity

Everyone's heard of the straw that broke the camel's back—but the committee for national safe boating week, June 29-July 5, reminds boatmen that pleasure craft too can be overloaded. Common sense demands that boat owners make sure they know their craft's capacity and never exceed it.

It's very simple—just check the manufacturer's capacity plate for his recommendation. If your craft is one of the few without such a plate, your marine dealer can advise you on your boat's safe weight limit.

If your boat should capsize or swamp, take this word of advice from boating safety experts: Don't attempt to swim to shore, for it is probably much farther than it looks; stay with the boat—most pleasure craft will stay afloat even when capsized or filled with water.

FOR EVERY PERSON IN THE U.S. AND CANADA, THERE ARE APPROXIMATELY 50 BIRDS.

~~Boating Safety~~ Includes Driving

If you trailer your boat, boating safety begins in your driveway. The committee for National Safe Boating Week, June 29-July 5, advises you to check out your trailer before you begin your next voyage.

Bearings should be properly lubricated; tires should be inflated to their recommended pressure; the winch should be locked; all tie-downs secured; and gear stowed inside the boat should be properly balanced and secured.

He loves her . . . he loves her not . . . he loves her . . . or does he? If only daisy petals could give the answer!

Then there's that more introspective question: Does she really love him . . . or does she not?

And that ultimate question—still a long way off—but getting closer every day: Can theirs be a happy, lasting marriage?

Is romance a colossal gamble—or are there basic elements which are predictable?

Millions of Christian parents are staking their children's future on the latter view. They believe that religious education in the Church and religious atmosphere in the home can foster moral and spiritual maturity. They believe that character as well as love is essential to marriage . . . a home . . . a family.

And they want their sons and daughters to meet others who are being brought up the same way!

Cooking on the outdoor barbecue is one sure way of keeping the kitchen cool during the summer months. But even so, the chef (usually male) can get mighty hot and thirsty working over the glowing coals. To keep him happy in his work, provide a pitcher of iced tea so he can sip while he bastes and broils. Because it's non-sweet, it won't build up another thirst in a few minutes, and because it's non-fattening and non-filling, he can drink as much as he likes without ruining his appetite for his chef d'oeuvre.

Iced Tea by the Pitcherful
(Makes 2 quarts—10 servings)

- Bring 1 quart of freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan.
- Remove from heat and immediately add ⅓ measuring cup of loose tea or 15 teabags.
- Stir. Cover and let stand 5 minutes.
- Stir again and strain into a pitcher holding another quart of cold water.
- When ready to serve, pour into ice-filled glasses.

The Instant Way: Simply combine 4 rounded tablespoons instant tea with 2 quarts cold tap water. Stir, add ice.

"In true education anything that comes to our hand is as good as a book: the prank of a page-boy, the blunder of a servant, a bit of table-talk—they are all part of the curriculum." —Montaigne

The Public Image

It is disheartening to see the number of public figures, who owe their success to the public, who scorn public opinion and responsibility. We agree with the Murray County Herald at Slayton in its appraisal of a "major" sports situation, and believe that the tarnish mentioned also covers a number of other "stars" in sports and other entertainment fields.

The Herald editorial is as follows:

Joe Namath, quarterback of the worlds champion New York Jets football team, has retired from the sport rather than dispose of his interests in a Gotham saloon. With tearful eye and emotion-packed voice he announced his decision to the press last week.

After only four years of pro ball Namath is about as likely to quite football as this writer is to quit the newspaper business. He'll be passing and we'll be publishing for some time to come.

The unfortunate part of it is that young people like Namath can be so indifferent to public opinion that they will turn their backs on a public that has made them rich in a period of only a few years. Namath owes everything to football, yet he will do nothing for the game that has made him a wealthy man.

Personalities in every sport must realize that they owe something to people other than the club owners. They owe a lot to the spectator who will come up with the money to build and sit in a stadium in which they perform. When they insist on associating with gamblers, bookmakers and drunks they take more than a little away from the game that makes them a living.

Namath will quarterback the Jets again next year, but the bright shine he acquired in leading the Jets to a worlds championship will be greatly tarnished in the eyes of millions of American youngsters who briefly idolized him.

And in the meantime, why all the theatrics? Our immature super star might just as well accept his television performance Emmy and start getting ready for the 1969 season.

A Horrible Example

Psychologists and psychiatrists continually emphasize the importance of setting a good example for others to follow. Disrespectful parents can not expect to rear respectful children; dishonest employers can not expect to have honest employees; weak generals can not expect to command strong armies. It is human nature for people to be no better than those in authority over them, and possibly a little worse.

So it is, that the maneuverings of supreme court justices which have been brought to light recently are all the more disgusting. How can the nation hope to hold any semblance of respect for law and order if the highest court in the land embraces in its membership men of questionable character? If honor and integrity mean so little to men who are placed in such important positions, what example will they set for the man on the street?

Justice Abe Fortas, who resigned from the court under pressure, would probably have remained on the high court without difficulty if President Johnson had not attempted to elevate him to chief justice. Now Justice William O. Douglas is in question to a greater degree than ever before.

In late May, an editorial in "Human Events" noted, "In 1966 it developed that Douglas was receiving an annual fee of $12,000 from the nonprofit Parvin Foundation, which had vague ties to Las Vegas gambling interests and which was, at that moment, being probed for possible tax irregularities.

"The secretary of the foundation, Harry S. Ashmore, quickly told the press that he would call in an independent analyst of the foundation's accounts to demonstrate the books were beyond reproach in what he called a 'Caesar's wife' policy.

"Well, lo and behold, that 'independent analyst' turned out to be Carolyn E. Agger, otherwise known as Mrs. Abe Fortas. Mrs. Fortas and her husband are both good friends of Douglas. She reported nothing amiss in the Parvin Foundation's tax returns, the Internal Revenue service quietly dropped its investigation and Justice Douglas has quietly remained president of the foundation.

"Many months later, the foundation's donor, Albert Parvin, was named by the government as an alleged co-conspirator in a stock manipulation case with Louis E. Wolfson, who tendered the famous $20,000 fee to Fortas and offered to put him on the payroll of the Wolfson Foundation at $20,000 a year for life. Parvin was never indicted."

Dan Thomasson, investigative reporter for the Scripps-Howard newspapers, states that, "Technically, at least, the Parvin Foundation apparently falsified its income tax returns from 1961 through 1965 by failing to record the transactions as specifically required on the federal tax form." He said the tax-exempt organization engaged in "self-dealing" stock transactions which weren't reported to the IRS until five years after they took place.

Thomasson added that IRS spokesmen had no explanation for the five-year lag in reporting the sale and purchase of the stock by Parvin, who was named by the federal government—but not indicted—as an alleged co-conspirator with jailed financier Louis E. Wolfson in a stock manipulation case.

Can a person—particularly one as learned as a supreme court justice is supposed to be—accept $12,000 per year as the only paid officer of a foundation with complete innocence of the origin of or reason for the payment? It doesn't seem too likely.

The more stirring that is done in the supreme court, the stronger the stench becomes. If nothing else, the conduct of the justices is a horrible example to a nation which is in dire need of proper direction from the leaders of law and order.

A Clear-Cut Mandate

The following comments in the Detroit Lakes newspaper appeared following the change of administration voted in Minneapolis city government:

Before Charles Stenvig was elected mayor of Minnesota's largest city on Tuesday, two of those who opposed his election charged that Minneapolis "would be turned into another Watts" and "would become a second-rate city" if Stenvig were named.

It is quite apparent that the rank-and-file citizen of Minneapolis paid little heed to those statements, because the voter certainly would think two or three times if he feared such things would come to pass.

Stenvig won a clear-cut mandate from Minneapolis voters, collecting 62 per cent of the votes as he campaigned on a strong "law and order" plank.

To this writer, it appears that the citizen of Minneapolis elected Stenvig because they are seeking strong leadership. If there's anything lacking in America today, it's that matter of leadership and it seems to us the Minneapolis citizenry sees in Stenvig a person who will restore this.

We're sick and tired of reading about citizens taking the law into their own hands—and getting away with it. The courts, to be sure, have compounded the problem with lenient decisions when stringent action was necessary.

It will be most interesting to observe the happenings in Minneapolis as Stenvig prepares to take over the duties of mayor. We're delighted that the citizens of the Mill City have given him the opportunity to serve.

For the Upperdog

Milton Upton, president of Beloit college, voiced the opinion of many in a recent speech. He is tired of excuses and wants a return to a healthy society where achievement is not criticized and individual effort is rewarded. This is what he states:

"I've about reached the end of my tolerance for our society's one-sided sympathy for the misfit, the ne'er-do-well, the drug addict, the chronic criminal, the loser—in general, the underdog. I feel it's time for someone to stand up and say: 'I'm for the upperdog!'

"I'm for the one who sets out to do something and does it; the one who recognizes the problems at hand and endeavors to deal with them; the one who isn't blaming someone else's failings, who doesn't consider it 'square' to wonder what more he can do instead of why he shouldn't be doing what's he's doing. Whether 'privileged' or 'underprivileged,' each of us should be judged by what he does with what he inherits—not merely excused as a 'victim of his environment.'

"The quality of any society is directly related to the quality of the individuals who make it up. We will never create a good society, much less a great one, until individual excellence and achievement are not only respected but encouraged. Building a better society will only be done by those who take seriously their responsibility for making the most of their native ability, for getting the job done.

"That is why I am for the achiever—the succeeder—the UPPERDOG!"

1040 Taxpayers Ask IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q—I have discovered an error on my tax return. What shall I do?

A—Errors can be adjusted easily by securing the new IRS Form 1040x and reporting the correct information. With this form, you need only advise the IRS in the particular area where the error occurred. It is not necessary to file a complete amended return. In filing Form 1040x, be certain that your name, address, social security number and filing status is listed the same as it was on your original return to avoid processing delays. return to avoid processing delays. These forms are available at our local revenue service offices.

Q—I forgot to attach one of my W-2 forms when I filed my return. Should I send it in now?

A—If you included the income and tax withholding data from the W-2 on the income tax return you filed, wait until you are contacted by IRS. You will be asked to supply the missing W-2 form.

However, if you did not include the wage and tax data from the W-2 on your return, then you should file Form 1040x, amended U.S. Individual income tax return. Fill out this form completely according to the instructions and send it with the W-2 to the Internal revenue service center serving your district. Copies of Form 1040x are available at IRS offices.

Q—My son won a savings bond as the best English student in his graduating class. Would the value of the bond be taxable income to him?

A—Whether the prize is taxable or not depends on the circumstances under which it was won. If your son had to perform a specific act to win the prize, such as write an essay or develop an experiment, the prize would be taxable.

A prize given in recognition of past accomplishments in religious, charitable, scientific, artistic, educational, literary or civic fields is not taxable if the recipient is selected without action on his part and is not expected to render future services as a condition of receiving the award.

Q—Are gifts ever taxed?

A—There is no federal tax to pay for the recipient but the giver may have to pay a tax if the gift is sizable. The law generally requires a tax return to be filed by the donor when a gift or gifts to any one person during the year exceed $3,000. However, income earned on gifts is taxable to the recipient.

Directions for safe use are on insecticides. Be sure to follow the directions closely or the bugs in your garden may not be the only ones poisoned.

You Don't Have To Wait For Foods Of The Future!

Maybe you've been reading and hearing about the great foods to come from the soybean. There's much discussion nowadays about futuristic imitation meats and ready-to-serve dinners that will keep without refrigeration.

Some of these are already available. There are several brands of "instant bacon" on the market. They're made of spun or extruded soy proteins flavored to taste like bacon. And they're ideal for sprinkling on salads or in scrambled eggs or anywhere you want some bacon crumbles but don't want to go to the trouble of cooking bacon.

Some of the other foods of the future available right now are soy protein chunks flavored like chicken, beef or ham. They keep well and can be used instantly for soups, sauces and other dishes when you don't want to go to the time and trouble of cooking up the genuine article.

These soy protein products are finding favor with more and more food processors, too. Several new unrefrigerated, add-water heat-and-serve products are due to come on the market soon. Ones already available are a beef stroganoff, a ham dish and a chicken preparation. All are easy to serve and are tasty.

They're all made with soy protein, either in meat-flavored spun fiber or chunk form, along with dehydrated meat and other select ingredients to make up a quick and easy main course.

The big advantage that these new convenience foods have is that, with no refrigeration needed, they're easy to store and fast to fix. And price is surprisingly low per meal. Another advantage is that, with soy protein in the formula, there's a higher protein content than meat itself.

The average cut of beef, for instance, runs about 20% protein. The highly refined soy protein used in the food industry runs from 50% on up to 97% protein. Either used with meat or in place of it there's a nutritional advantage.

Soy protein is finding several other important uses, too. These are not so much nutritional as functional. Several big bread companies have recently added soy protein to their formulas. The result is bread and cake products that have better texture and stay fresh longer. In many cases protein content of the product is higher, too.

Meat processors are finding that a dab of soy protein can make frankfurters, sausages and luncheon loaves that have more uniform texture, better taste and far more consumer appeal. Protein content of the product is boosted slightly at the same time.

Barb Morinville In Queen Event

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

(This is the fifth in a series of personal interview features with candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the 15th annual Jaycee Aquacade. Other candidates will be featured in future issues.)

After her second year at Northland state junior college in Thief River Falls beginning this fall, Barb Morinville of Brooks plans to devote a year of her life to being a VISTA volunteer. She will then complete her education at the University of Minnesota in Duluth, majoring in social service or education.

Eighteen-year-old Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Morinville of Brooks and graduated in 1968 from St. Joseph's academy at Crookston. She is five feet two inches tall, weighs 108 pounds, has dark brown hair, hazel eyes and a 35-24½-35 figure. Her talent number will be a vocal solo and her sponsor is the Brooks Cheese factory.

Extra-curricular activity interest for Barbara at Northland has centered in the radio and television club known as "Northland on the Air". She has written and broadcast news and interviews for presentation on the program carried over the local radio and cable television station.

She is also a member of the college choir; the "N" club, devoted to supporting the school's athletic teams; the college drama group; and the Northland chapter of the Young Republicans. While at St. Joseph's academy she sang in the choir.

Barb is a sports enthusiast as a spectator, and particularly likes to watch football. She enjoys fishing, dancing and singing as other leisure time activities. She also teaches religion to preschool classes at St. Joseph's church at Brooks.

In addition to her parents, Barbara's family includes three sisters—Linda, 20; Sharleen, 17; and Valerie, 16; and two brothers, Rodney, 12; and Perry, 10.

The grant will be for the fiscal year starting July 1, according to Mrs. James Carlson, board president, and is to be matched by local funds to complete the $14,400 annual program. Now having about 20 persons enrolled, the center has been moved to St. John Lutheran church. Classes meet three days per week with special activities on Saturday. Transportation to and from class is provided.

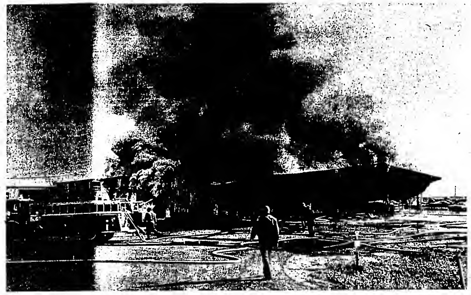
A & W Drive-in Opens After Fire

Re-opening of the A&W Drive-In has been scheduled for Thursday morning, according to Robert Ohlhauser, owner of the business. The drive-in has been closed due to a fire which caused extensive damage to the building, stock and equipment.

Ohlhauser said the building has an all-new interior, with modifications made and equipment installed to provide improved customer service. The outside of the building is being painted to add to the exterior decor.



BILLOWING SMOKE during the peak of the Tunberg Motor company fire late Friday afternoon shows the extensive area of the building affected by the blaze. In less than 15 minutes from the time the last person left the building it was filled with smoke and flames. Hundreds of people came to the area to watch firemen fight the blaze and a number pitched in to help handle hoses and give other assistance to firemen. A local fire department estimate of damage was placed at $150,000 but owners of the company said that no accurate loss could be determined until further inspection was completed. Opened in October of 1967, the building will be rebuilt in the same location, using identical plans as those for the building which burned.

Tunberg Building Destroyed In Flash Fire Late Friday

Investigation continuing today has failed to turn up a cause for the flash fire which extensively damaged the Tunberg Motor company early Friday evening. Within minutes after employees left the new structure west of Thief River Falls on highway 59, the building was in flames. Owners of the business could give no accurate estimate of damage this morning, pending further investigation and inspection by insurance adjusters, but is is known that damage will be the largest individual loss here for many years.

Patrick Barry, deputy state fire marshal stationed in Thief River Falls, and Roy Langevin, city fire chief, are continuing investigation today with outside assistance. They report that the most intense heat during the fire appears to be in one portion of the office area, and it is assumed that is where the fire originated. No definite conclusions have been reached as yet, however, and the cause is still undetermined.

Wallace Tunberg, owner of the firm with his brother Roger and their father Frank, said this morning that the sales and bookkeeping departments are now operational in a mobile home parked just east of the burned building. The body shop, which was virtually spared damage except for smoke, will be ready for use this afternoon. A service department is expected to be operational within several days in another location not yet determined. All customers will be received at the normal business site, Tunberg said.

Rebuilding will start almost immediately, he said, with the exact plan as the previous building to be used. It is expected that two-thirds to three-fourths of the building will have to be removed, but that will not definitely be determined until a more thorough inspection is made. Prichard Bros. Construction company, which built the structure destroyed, has estimated that the service shop can be completed in 30 days and the remainder of the building replaced by September 1, Tunberg said.

He added that the business employs about 24 people, including the management, and that all will be utilized in clean-up and other tasks until arrangements have been completed for them to return to their normal trades in the Tunberg business. With temporary facilities to be used, this is not

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Forbes of Belton, Mo., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert K. Johnson of Goodridge.

Rev. Monte Peterson, pastor of the First Baptist church, Belton, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Marilyn Dial was the organist. The soloist, Mrs. Paulene Peterson, sang "The Lord's Prayer," "With This Ring," "The Wedding Prayer," and "Because."

Accenting the hemline was a wide border of peau de soie trimmed with a wide lace band. A watteau, chapel length train was attached at the shoulders. Venice lace flowers formed her headpiece securing her cathedral length veil of bridal illusion. She carried a nosegay of white miniature carnations centered with a white Japette orchid. Complementing her bouquet were loops of seed pearls.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Kaye Payne of Belton, Mo. Bridesmaids were Miss Rita Wilson of Belton, Miss Teresa Baker of Kansas City, Mo., and Miss Marilyn Forbes of Moberly, Mo. Their floor-length, A-line gowns of linen were styled like the bride's with scoop necklines and cap sleeves. Fashioned in pastel shades of pink, green, yellow and orchid the gowns were complemented with coordinating tulle headpieces. Each attendant carried an arm bouquet of pastel carnations.

Serving as acolytes were Miss Karla Irick, and Miss Robin Fidler. They were attired in floor-length gowns of blue linen with corsages of pastel pink carnations.

Tunberg Bldg. Destroyed in Fire on Friday

Sudden Blaze

The fire alarm was turned in by Burton Cook, who operates a repair shop at the Northwest Trailer court about a block from the Tunberg building, at 6:02 p.m. Friday. While working on a lawnmower in his shop, he heard a sound similar to an explosion and turned to look in the direction of the sound. He saw heavy smoke pouring out of the northeast corner of the building and turned in the alarm.

There is some discrepancy as to when the last person left the building at the close of the business day, but it is established that it was no earlier than 5:45 p.m. The fire reached advanced stages from that time until the call was made—a span of 15 minutes or less.

Firemen arrived on the scene in minutes and began pumping water into the blazing building. Chief Langevin said that firemen used about 1000 feet of hose, including two lines run across highway 59 from the Pennington county fairgrounds, and were on the scene until about 9 p.m. He said 15 regular and volunteer firemen were assisted by a number of non-department volunteers in handling hoses and giving other assistance, and expressed his appreciation for their help.

Lost in the fire in addition to much of the building, equipment and some records were four new cars in the company's showroom. One new car in the shop was extensively damaged by smoke, and some damage was done by smoke to the firm's two trucks, one used car and a customer's car which was in the shop for service. Electrical equipment, which was located along the north wall of the shop next to the office area, was lost in the blaze.

Tunberg Motor company, which has been in business in Thief River Falls for many years, moved into its new quarters in late October of 1967.

"As I thus sat, joying in my own happy condition, and pitying this poor rich man that owned this and many other pleasant groves and meadows about me, I did thankfully remember what my Saviour said, that the meek possess the earth: or rather, they enjoy what the others possess and enjoy not; for anglers and meek, quiet-spirited men are free from those high, those restless thoughts, which corrode the sweets of life." —Izaak Walton

Patriotism Posse?

"To so many people, I think, patriotism is passe. Patriotism is not passe. Unless it burns deep within your heart and in your mind and in your prayers, this country cannot stand. It must have everyone's undying devoted attention, and through that example that children who look to you will carry on and the generations yet unborn will have with them the freedoms which we now enjoy.

"If we do not, we could lose those freedoms for those generations yet unborn, and it will be fact which history will record, if indeed history books are permitted."

Who spoke the words printed above? None other than Commander Lloyd M. (Pete) Bucher, commander of the USS Pueblo, who spent 11 months in a North Korean prison after capture in the Sea of Japan. He was speaking to a gathering at Boys Town, Neb., where he graduated from high school in 1947. He could have been bitter about his experience, angry with the United States government, critical of the American system. But he is not.

"This is the system which we live," he said, "this great, tremendous capitalistic system, this Republic which was founded by some of the grestest human beings who ever graced the face of the earth ...When you leave Boys Town you will be going out into a world that is full of dissension. There is nothing wrong with dissension. Dissension is the way we improve our lot, the way that America has developed into the great nation that it is.

"But destruction does not belong with dissension. Construction belongs with dissension. All the destruction and the many people who on our campuses today are attempting to destroy the very foundation on which this country was built do not offer a thing on the positive side. They give us nothing but a lot of trouble, they disobey the laws, they do not support their communities. Instead they tear down.

"I ask that each of you build in your mind and heart such a great love for your country and an honor for your traditions and heritage that you will, at every step of the way, whether dissenting or assenting, be constructive in whatever you do.

"And to those of you who already are adults, through your demonstrated love of your country, the children will look to you for guidance in things that we all believe in, the hope for freedom, complete freedom within the law, rightful dissent, constructive criticism, the democratic way of life based on a republic of states."

By Any Other Name

Sen. Thomas Dodd of Connecticut is persistent if nothing else, and we are among those who consider him to be nothing else. The champion of anti-gun crusades, Sen. Dodd is not to be doterred by rejection of his former registration bills in the halls of Congress. He is now taking a new approach.

As reported in the daily press and over the wire services, Sen. Dodd has introduced firearms legislation that would "....require certifying all the owners of an estimated 200 million guns in the United States." He said the intent of his Gun Certification Act is to prevent gun ownership by known felons, addicts, mental defectives and would-be assassins.

The bill would require every gun owner to apply for a "Certificate of Eligibility to Possess a Firearm", which would be issued by the Secretary of the Treasury. The certificate would cost $1 and be good for life, the senator said.

If Sen. Dodd is sincere in his reasons, which we doubt, he is going to an awful lot of trouble to accomplish the goals he professes to want. Since anyone will admit that there are dangers in possession of firearms by "known felons, mental defectives, addicts and would-be assassins" (whatever that means), Congress could easily pass a law making it illegal for such persons to have guns. That would leave the millions of honest, law-abiding gun owners out of the picture—unless they might be classified as "would-be assassins".

And while Congress could easily pass such a law, it couldn't begin to enforce it. A known felon who doesn't have a gun this morning can have one tonight. The same applies to a mental defective or drug addict or alcoholic. And we wonder how many "known....would-be assassins" are at large in the country today.

On a radio interview we happened to catch in passing last week, Sen. Dodd said the Gun Certificate Act which he proposes is far from the same as gun registration. Hogwash! It's the same old tune with different lyrics.

There are more holes in Dodd's idea than the average pound of Swiss cheese. First, high courts have already ruled that a person who has committed a crime with a gun can not be compelled to register the gun since he would, in effect, be incriminating himself. Second, a certificate good for life is meaningless, since it takes less than a lifetime to become a felon, addict or mental defective—much less a would-be assassin. Third, in question—what does the treasury department have to do with law enforcement in general? Why should that department issue the certificates?

No, senator, the veil is too thin to cover the same old registration of firearms tale you have told time and again. To paraphrase a common expression, "A rose by any other name, still smells."

Won't Fall Over

Someone with a keen sense of humor penned the following, which need not be restricted in direction to the government personnel mentioned. We clipped it from the Oklee Herald which clipped it from the Butler County American of Hamilton, Ohio. Nothing personal is intended, of course.

MEMORANDUM TO: The Staff.

Subject: Death of Government Workers.

It has been brought to our attention that many employees are dying and refusing to fall over after they are dead. This must be stopped!

On or after Dec. 15, any employee found sitting up after he has died will be dropped from the payroll at once (i.e., within 90 days). Where it can be proven that he is being supported by a bench or property marked U. S. Government, an additional 90 days will be granted. The following procedure will be strictly followed:

If, after several hours, it is noted that a worker has not moved or changed position, the supervisor will investigate; because of the highly sensitive nature of government employees and the close resemblance between death and their natural working attitude, the investigation will be made quietly so as not to disturb the employee if he is only asleep.

If some doubt exists as to the true condition of the employee, extending a government check is a fine test. If the employee does not reach for it, it may be assumed that he is dead. In some cases that instinct is so strongly developed that a spasmodic clutch or reflex action may be encountered. Don't let this fool you.

In all cases a sworn statement by the dead person must be filled out on a special form P. U. 66.78. 334½. 10. Fifteen copies will be made; three copies to be sent to Washington and three copies to be given to the deceased. Destroy the rest.

One Form 22W, Application for Permanent Leave, must also be filled out by the employee. Be sure to include correct forwarding address. If he cannot write, his signature must be witnessed by two other employees, preferably alive. Complete case by pushing body to one side to make room for the next incumbent.

That Court Again

The following editorial is from the Roseau Times-Region:

The Warren Court, long torn between making and interpreting law, has now declared that Congress has no right to regulate its own affairs. In effect, the court, in overturning Congressman Adam Clayton Powell's expulsion from the House by the House itself, has said that it has jurisdiction over another branch of government!

The men who created this government did so with a balance of powers in mind; the Executive, the Judiciary and the Legislative, each to act in balancing the other. There is no historic concept which indicates in any way that the Supreme Court can tell Congress what to do. The Supreme Court is to "interpret" law . . . not make it.

We cannot help but feel that this latest invasion by the court will more quickly lead to a curb of its powers than almost any other thing it could have done. Such a curb is long overdue. The court has been a disastrous one.

The Library Corner

by Dorothy L. East
Head Librarian

Greetings, friends. In the absence of Mrs. Allison, who has gone on vacation, I will be writing this column for a couple of weeks. Frankly, I rather welcome the opportunity, since this gives me an occasion to visit with you about my favorite subject, books.

Our summer activities at the library are attracting a good deal of attention. The summer reading program, otherwise known as the Silver Saddle Reading Roundup, has a number of youthful devotees and the juvenile population of Thief River will be adorned with large buttons to signify that they have "joined up". The preschool story hour also has caught on, and dozens of tiny tots are showing up on Tuesday morning to listen to stories and recordings, and to play games.

I have just finished reading a book that has moved me more deeply than anything I have read for a long time. It is a slim little volume, titled "Love to Vietnam", written by Edita Morris. It consists of letters, written from an atomic bomb victim living in Nagasaki, to a young girl burned by napalm in Vietnam. It is an unique love story, entirely new in the area of emotional fiction. The fact that the events depicted are happening daily across the Pacific makes this gentle story a tale of horror.

We meet here people whom Americans must get to know if they are not to sink into moral insensitivity. The people in this book have few of the characteristics of heroic wounded. They are not soldiers who took their wounds in combat, arms in hand, ready to inflict or receive harm. Rather, they are innocent youths, non participants in the war. They do not have the romantic and interesting limps or shoulder slings of the customary returned veterans of action. But their wounds are deep, and perhaps more devastating psychically than any hurts received in battle.

The exchange of letters is very touching, with its casually dropped references to horrifying details of the injuries of the two participants. The tenderness of their love for one another, their resentment toward "the enemy", to whom they habitually refer as "they", their loneliness and isolation from other human beings because of their disfigurement, combine to make this a most poignant story, to Americans, conditioned to the view that everyone loves them, even the victims of their war-weapons.

This book will make you think, long and hard, about our relations with other peoples.

Scheuer—"To Walk the Streets Safely"—In this book Congressman Scheuer suggests ways in which science and technology can be used to make our city streets safer by coping with crime more efficiently.

Dohe—"The Itasca Story"—A history with local interest, its theme is the discovery of the source of the Mississippi river.

Frommer—"Europe on $5.00 a day"—A budget-stretcher's guide to travel in Europe.

For the young fry: Brandt—"How to Write a Report"—A book that will show you how to write your school reports.

Coombs—"Motorcycling"—An account of one of the favorite sports of young people.

Cole—"What's Good for a Five-Year-Old'"—An enumeration of what kindergarteners enjoy.

NWCA Closes Six Head Start Classes in Area

Northwest Community Action agency has recently closed it's six Head Start classes for the summer months. NWCA has been administering this pre-school program for the past three years and reports continuing success with the program's development. This year 88 children were enrolled in the Head Start program at the four centers in Lancaster and Middle River, which had one class each, and Wannaska and Williams, which operated two classes each.

Each class has a teacher and a teacher's aide and each center has a parent home aide and a parent advisory committee. The director of the Head Start program is Victor Johnson and the registered nurse who is in charge of all medical services is Mrs. Karen Sollom.

As each class has an enrollment of approximately 15 children, each child is given the attention he or she might need for proper adjustment to his or her new educational experiences. The Head Start program emphasizes the child's emotional and social adjustment as well as daily learning experiences. In addition to the classroom experiences, the children are taken on various field trips which offer them additional cultural and educational benefits.

The parent home aides play an important role in the Head Start program by assisting in all facets of the child development activities. They aid the director with parent and advisory committee meetings, work closely with the Head Start nurse in providing follow up health care to the children, assist children's families through other resources, and encourage parent involvement with the child's education.

Another part of the Head Start program is health services. Through the direction and guidance of Mrs. Sallom, all children receive medical, dental and optical examinations as well as follow-up care in these areas. Special hearing examinations have been conducted with the aid of equipment from the audio-visual department of the Minnesota public health service. Other agencies and services such as crippled children's services, the Upper Mississippi mental health center in Bemidji, and speech therapists have proven to be of help when needed.

The Head Start program is funded to provide for all administrative and medical costs, the teacher, teacher aide and parent aide salaries. Head Start pays a daily food allowance of up to 35 cents per child, an average of $30 per child for medical services, $2.75 per child for insurance, an average of $45 per child for equipment and supplies, and 30 cents per mile for bus transportation. As the local contribution to the program the school districts provide suitable facilities for the classes and bus transportation (one way) for enrollees.

The certification program of the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute is voluntary, but strictly policed. Manufacturers of air-conditioning equipment and heat pumps who participate must adhere to industry standards in producing their equipment, and agree to have their models tested by an independent laboratory. If a model fails a test, the manufacturer must withdraw it, improve it, or lower his claims for it—or else he loses the right to display the ARI Seal of Certification on all of his equipment, not just the model which failed.

University Offers Special Department

by Lynn Marasco
U of M News Service

Eighty-five men from the Duluth police force and a policeman in Morocco are taking police administration courses through the University of Minnesota department of independent study.

The department, a part of the general extension division, has teachers from all parts of the country and students in all 50 states and many foreign countries.

The Duluth policemen are taking their courses in a community classroom, an arrangement that can be set up anywhere in Minnesota when a number of people want to get together to take the same course. Telephone lectures by University professors, and the chance to question them, plus fewer written assignments are the main advantages of the community classroom.

How does the community classroom compare to regular classroom teaching? Very well, according to the students. A recent follow-up showed that most of the students in a particular course felt that their comprehension was the "same as in a live classroom" and some even indicated "better than in a live classroom."

A recent "horse course" was a particularly successful community classroom, according to Harold Alford, director of independent study.

"Horse Science and Nutrition" attracted some 1,600 students when it went around the state this spring as a non-credit short course. The instructor, Professor Robert Jordan, gave one in-person lecture and three by telephone at seven different locations. He used slides and pictures included with the syllabus to illustrate the lectures.

The course is now being offered for study by mail (for credit) as Agriculture 40, Horse Science, and Alford says he expects people from all over the world to enroll, since only one other university offers such a course for independent study.

A bulletin with descriptions of all the courses offered is available from the department at 250 Nicholson hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455.

Many of the courses, Alford points out, would generally be classified as "useful", and many you would not expect to find as correspondence courses. He lists among these beekeeping, farm accounting, an introduction to investments, the operation of small businesses and interior design.

The instructor reads all lessons a student sends in and, if he is doing well, the instructor may tell him to skip the written assignments and simply study independently for the exams—and to write if he has questions.

At any given time, about 20 per cent of the courses are in the process of being updated and all course materials are photocopied rather than printed to make them easier to change.

"Correspondence is an old and honored method of study," Alford said. "It preceded evening classes as an extension of university resources.

"Ours is the 20th-century adjustment of a 19th-century technique. It was archaic but now, in the last third of the 20th century, we're bringing it up to date."

"When the 21st century gets here, we're planning to be ahead of it."

July 1 Deadline To Request Farm Tax Exemption

Farmers who want to take advantage of a new tax exemption law that is retroactive to property taxes based on January of 1968 assessment and any special assessments since July 1, 1967, have only until July 1, 1969, to complete the necessary forms.

This new law contains several significant changes that will benefit farmers and allow more farm property to be eligible for preferential treatment, according to Robert Snyder, University of Minnesota land economist.

Specifically the 1969 law makes it much easier for suburban land used to produce agricultural products to qualify for tax reduction and deferment of special assessments.

Under the original law, farmers were not eligible for the exemption if they did not live on the property, if the farm was not in one unit, and if the farmer was receiving government payments.

Under the revised law a farmer does not have to reside on the property if he has held it for seven years or longer. Also, he may be receiving payments under federal farm programs. Parcels separate from the farm headquarters qualify for the exemption.

With the 1969 revision farmers can file for lower taxes on their Jan. 2, 1968, assessment and deferment of special assessments since July 1, 1967, if they farm 10 acres or more of land and if this land is "actively and exclusively devoted to agriculture."

Payment of taxes due on May 31, 1969, will be deferred without penalty until 30 days after notice or rejection of the application for exemption, or after notice of taxes as determined under the new assessment.

Farmers who may be eligible for the exemption should check with their county assessors for more specific details of this law and for applications as soon as possible.

Transfer Filing Fee Increased

Minnesota Legislature has increased the transfer of ownership filing fee for all vehicles including cars, trucks and trailers from $1 to $2, effective on and after July 2, on every transfer of ownership mailed to or filed with the department or a deputy registrar on and after that date.

73,000 in State Given Help in Food Programs

Over 73,000 low-income persons in Minnesota received food assistance from the U.S. department of agriculture during April, according to Dennis M. Doyle, Midwest district director of consumer food programs.

The total included 13,642 persons in 20 commodity distribution program projects and 59,584 in 54 food stamp program areas. Counties entering the food stamp plan included Meeker, Norman and Steele.

Minnesota participants in the stamp plan received over $1.2-million worth of coupons during April of which nearly $361,000 were bonus coupons. The average bonus per person was $5.96.

In 11 Midwest states, over 1,186,000 persons received USDA food assistance. Around 374,000 were in 306 commodity programs and 812,000 in 536 food stamp projects.

The food stamp program enables low-income families to buy more food by exchanging the amount of money they normally spend on food for coupons worth more than they paid. The coupons are spent like cash at authorized retail food outlets for any domestic foods.

The commodity distribution program provides over 20 USDA-donated foods to supplement the diets of needy people. The foods are shipped to the state distributing agency which handles the storage and transportation to local distribution centers and welfare agencies.

Children Eligible For SS Benefits If Mother Dies

Children may now receive monthly social security benefits on the earnings record of a deceased mother insured under social security, according to Clifford Kittelson, district manager for social security.

A woman born in 1929 or before needs 18 quarters, or about four and one-half years of work, under social security to be fully insured. A woman born after 1929 needs fewer quarters.

If the deceased had not worked this long, benefits still go to children if she had earned at least six quarters in the last three years of her life.

Monthly benefits go to children under age 18 and seriously disabled children 18 and older. Unmarried sons and daughters between 18 and 22 and in full-time school attendance may also receive benefits.

Survivors should check with their social security office in every instance where a deceased mother has done some work under social security, Kittelson suggested. This will assure that children will not miss out on benefits to which they are entitled.

Ohio's program of testing the blood-alcohol level of drivers killed in traffic accidents has found that 25 per cent of such drivers aged 15 to 19 were intoxicated and 43 per cent of such drivers aged 20 to 25 were intoxicated.

Lake of the Woods Creel Census Shows Best State Fishing

Walleye fishing on Lake of the Woods is the best recorded in Minnesota and about twice as good as that on some of the better known walleye lakes, the creel census which began in 1968 indicates.

Information from fishery biologist Dennis Schupp, in charge of the angling survey, states that catch per man hour in Minnesota waters of Lake of the Woods is about twice that of better known walleye lakes. Among the better known lakes are Leech and Mille Lacs.

Fishing success on the Canadian side of the lake is even better than in U.S. waters, the study has shown. The census separates fishing into Minnesota, Ontario and Manitoba waters, but includes only anglers who leave Minnesota shores to do their fishing.

Fishermen leaving Minnesota shores catch 72 per cent of their fish in the state, 19 per cent in Ontario and 9 per cent in Manitoba.

The study also shows guided launch trips enjoy better fishing than the average guy in small boats. The survey separates launch trips and other angling. Sixteen per cent of all fishing trips were on launches but these trips produced 31 per cent of the total walleye catch.

Despite the excellence of fishing success, Schupp has [illegible] expressed uneasiness about the lake's walleye population when he spoke to Baudette Rotary Club about the creel census.

The study showed what veteran anglers have been pretty sure about - size of fish being caught has dropped. Few 2-3 pound walleyes showed up in the census, and there were fewer fish of larger size than there ought to be in a healthy and stable population. On the basis of the incomplete study, Schupp told Rotarians it is suspected that either spawning was nearly wiped out in some years (for unknown reasons) or "fishing pressure is simply too heavy."

One of the accompanying tables shows average length and weight for Lake of the Woods walleye of various ages. The figures came from 600 walleyes caught in experimental netting done as part of the lake study.

"There is a tendency for fishermen to think walleyes grow much faster than they actually do," Schupp said. The table will reveal the actual growth rate.

Through the 4th year of life, male and female walleyes grow at about the same rate. When they reach maturity—at age 4-5 for males and 5-7 for females—the growth rate for males lags sharply. So, as most veteran fishermen know, most of the exceptionally large walleyes are females.

By the beginning of their 8th year males average 1.75 pounds and females 2.75 pounds. Males ten years or older may be as small as two pounds but females can exceed ten pounds.

The creel census showed that in 1968 the angler catch in Lake of the Woods was mostly four and five-year-old fish, which constituted 75 per cent of the total, and the same class, now a year older, will be important in the 1969 fishing.

Experimental netting last year showed there was an unusually large hatch in 1966, fish which averaged a half pound last September and which by this fall ought to reach three-fourths of a pound average.

The creel census is continuing, with methods very similar to last year. There will be test netting, with the objective of checking on spawning success in previous years.

Burning—A Needed Harvesting Technique

When used by wise men, Localized and planned burning is definitely a harvesting technique used in timberlands. It rids forests of old and rotted or diseased timber, shrubbery and bushes and weeds that create greater fire hazzards if left unattended. Conservationists can determine which forests need help through various forest techniques.

If left unattended, the forest lands become ravaged with rotted timber, diseased and useless to harvest, and dangerous to the forest itself, due to lightning fires which are unplanned but natural devistations. Man planned fires can aid nature and wildlife habitat with correctly planned fire harvesting [illegible] weather and forest conditions and under carefully supervised and critical controls by only the most skilled State conservationists. Planned burning in forest lands are a necessity. We are truly convinced.

Wildlife is Benefited By Man's Wise Use of the Natural Elements. Wanton Burning Harms Wildlife

Lands alongside of railroads are burned by persons who obtain fire licenses to burn in order to rid the land of tall weeds and grass or to plant gardens. But, are the early spring nesting areas saved for the pheasant and other bird life? We have seen nests burned out and eggs destroyed, the panicked mother birds sitting on their nests fluttering up flying back to the clutch, only to lose the new family and sometimes her own life. Perhaps there might be other wiser ways to rid lands alongside of the tracks of high weeds and grass without harming our wildlife and their habitat?

"Our Earth's Poluted Waters"

Pollutants are being emptied into our earth's waters every second. Groundwaters already have 'natural' pollutants which are picked up during the course [illegible] us. Research and science has purified the waters for our use. Now mankind is intent upon destroying the existence of water itself, as well as to continue polutions and waste of water regardless of educators attempting to aid our cause.

Early history teaches water was purified by Hippocrates in the 4th Century. He advocated the boiling and filtering of polluted waters before drinking. The [illegible] to remove pathogenic organisms had started about 1892 by Dr. Robert Koch, who traced cholera epidemic in Germany through observing the unfiltered raw water.

Where to Begin—At Home!

Waste of water is stupid. One has only to remember the droughts to know that water means our very existence. It is power. It is light and heat for our homes and energy for our electric tools at home and in factories. Water is a brutal force leashed by man for man's needs. Water serves fields and wildlife; it serves as transportation, and for food and recreational needs. It first served man's needs as "waterways of the world;" (as well as for daily drinking needs).

The early Phoenicians from 1000 to 900 B.C. Their wells of Ras el'Ain is an example. Four artesian wells were connected by [illegible] rising to 20 feet above the plain. From these tower reservoirs, water was piped to the seashore for early shipment in animal skins to the nearby islands. Other civilizations used various techniques to conserve, preserve and purify their waters.

Children can be taught to use water wisely and not to pollute it. Their parents can set the best examples. One doesn't throw garbage, cans and bottles into lakes, creeks, rivers and farm ponds. If you note this act, it is wise to report it.

Face Facts—It Can be Gone Tomorrow!

Droughts can appear and crops burn away from lack of water. Bridges standing hot and stark over a grim wasteland of empty long river beds, or creekbeds with white standing rocks jutting forth without their magical cold streams. Is a stark and bleak reminder of the water we [illegible] the natural fruits of our lands. Nature can be furious and brutal without its greatest force, its water power.

Example

New York with its millions of people. Imagine such a picture. Every family watering a lawn, factories, homes using electricity, each man shaving, each child playing with running water, each woman washing dishes or laundry, people bathing, all allowing water to flow freely/unplugged. There has to be a day of reckoning. The day of restricted used of water. The need to use salt [illegible]. Someday, there may be no sweet water at all. Let us learn more about today's "water emergencies." Begin at home.

Cleanliness in Water Starage

Water is a necessity to remain alive. It has to be pure, to be free of illness and discases. To be healthier today, we need cleaner water. Report any pollution you [illegible] systems. Wars create water pollutions. Atomic dust is another pollutant. Books on water can be obtained from your conservation department or Washington, D.C. Children should be given booklets about water and its uses.

By Hjalmar Swenson
Supervisor of Fisheries
Minnesota Conservation Department

Ever increasing fishing pressure and the earnest desire of resort operators to insure a limit of fish for their customers is bringing back some old headaches to our department fisheries specialists.

Demands for the building of new fish hatcheries and for heavier stocking of lakes reflect the simple faith of large segments of the public in the old theory that "the more you put in, the more you take out."

Unfortunately, it just doesn't work that way.

Many years of trial and error have convinced us that there are cases where fish stocking can provide improved fishing—and other cases where it is a total waste of funds. Worse yet, unwise stocking can actually be harmful to a lake's aquatic population.

Examples can be cited of the harm that hasty fish stocking can produce—such as the introduction of carp into state lakes and streams, and the ruination of some good lake trout lakes in northern Minnesota by the stocking of walleyes and small mouth bass. These early errors have made us extremely wary of doing any stocking before we are sure of the probable consequences.

One of the most troublesome [illegible] difficulty of explaining to enthusiastic supporters of "better fishing" that stocking of large numbers of fish into an already productive fishing lake is not going to improve fishing.

For fish stocking to be successful, several things are required. It is essential, for example, that there be sufficient food in the lake to take care of the requirements of both the stocked fish and the fish already present in the lake through natural reproduction. If not, then the growth rate of all the fish in the lake will be retarded and anglers will be throwing them back in disgust.

The major problem with most of Minnesota's good fishing lakes today is not a shortage of fish, but a shortage of the good size fish that anglers want to catch. Fishing pressure is so intense that many walleyes, northerns and other game fish are taken before they reach a large size, but the lakes abound in smaller fish. The only kind of stocking that would solve this problem is the stocking of large, catchable size fish. The cost of producing such fish for Minnesota lakes would be staggering.

These truths are hard for some people to accept.

Another often heard request today comes from resort associations and sportsmen's groups who would like to build their own hatchery (as long as the department won't build one for them). Here the fishing enthusiasts run up against another policy of the department—one little understood by the public, but rooted in knowledge and experience.

Under present law, private fish hatcheries are permitted, but fish raised in these hatcheries cannot be stocked in public waters without permit. This regulation is to prevent stocking of the wrong species which could adversely affect the population of the game fish for which the lake is best suited. Indiscriminate stocking could (and has) disturb the important and delicate balance of fish populations in lakes to the detriment of sport fishing. Another danger is the possibility of stocking disease-carrying fish which could infect the entire fish population in the lake.

The taking of game fish eggs and fish from public waters for use in private hatcheries is prohibited for the obvious reason that such eggs and fish are the property of the public and the state and should not be diverted to private use. Often persons proposing to build private hatcheries with the intent of stocking public waters fail to understand why they should be denied fish and eggs from other public waters. We try to point out, however, that the department has hatchery facilities and if stocking is deemed necessary, fish can be stocked in sufficient amounts and at the right time. If new hatchery facilities are required, we can seek funds in our budget request to the legislature to build or expand such facilities.

Frequently, requests to build hatchery facilities for the stocking of public lakes and streams are promoted by local resort groups who feel the presence of a hatchery would make a good selling point in their tourist promotion program. But if we determine that the stocking will be ineffective or is unnecessary, we cannot allow the diversion of eggs and fish from public waters to operate the hatchery—especially when the fish could be utilized in another stocking project where they would likely do some good.

We are also naturally concerned that allowing the taking of game fish from public waters for sale in private hatcheries could result in interference with natural spawning runs and make it difficult for us to secure eggs and fish needed for management purposes. For this reason, the only game fish which may be taken from public waters (under a permit from the department) are sunfish, bullheads, catfish and crappies.

Some species may be purchased from out of state sources for use in private hatcheries, but sale and exportation are limited to only a few species and no stocking of fish in public waters is allowed except under special permit.

Refueling Boat Calls for Safety Rule Observance

Observation of a few simple safety rules is essential to safe fueling of pleasure craft, says the committee for national safe boating week, June 29-July 5.

First—and most important of all—put out that cigaret while fueling, extinguish all other flames and shut off spark-producing machinery. Have a filled fire extinguisher handy. Keep the nozzle or fill-can in contact with the tank to prevent a static spark. Avoid spilling fuel, and don't try to fill the tank to the brim.

Aboard outboards with removable tanks, take these containers from the craft and fill them on the dock.

On craft of closed construction with permanent tanks, close all hatches and ports while fueling. Then open the hatches and ports for ventilation, and run the bilge blower for at least five minutes. Sniff in the lower part of the tank and engine compartments—if you smell gasoline, don't start!

Slow down and live.

TRF Legion Falls to Moorhead, Crookston

by Bob Wielinski
Times Sports Writer

Thief River Falls American Legion team found its winning string stopped at three straight Wednesday, losing to Moorhead by a 5-1 score and then dropping their second straight contest to Crookston by an 8-4 score in Northwest conference play on Thursday night. On Tuesday night the local nine stopped Middle River by a 6-1 score.

The victory over Middle River was the second of the year in Northwest conference play while the loss to Crookston in league action leaves them with a 2-1 record in the loop's standings.

The win on Tuesday over Middle River was the locals' third straight win of the season and second straight in conference play as they previously toppled Newfolden by a 7-0 score on Dan Sullivan's no hitter.

Tuesday night, Tony Johnson took the mound for the Legion nine and came through with a 6-1 victory, striking out 15 and allowing just three hits in the entire contest. Johnson also swung the big bat for the local club as he hammered out a home run and a single in four at bats, driving in three runs. Steve Daley also collected two hits for the locals in that contest.

Thief River Falls jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning against Middle River. The second batter in the inning, Brian Peterson, was hit by a pitch and moved to second on a wild pitch before Johnson lined a home run over the left field fence.

Middle River scored its lone run of the game in the bottom of the first as Paul English led off with a walk, moved to second when Don Ruud was hit by a

Thief River added another run in the second as Tom Wurst walked to lead off the inning, moved to second as Dale Gilbertson grounded out pitcher to first, and rode home on Steve Daley's double to left center field, making it 3-1.

Thief River Falls added the final three runs in the sixth inning as Kenny Lindquist, running for Wurst, stole second and came home on an error by the Middle River shortstop. Daley singled to left-center and moved to second as Brian Peterson walked. Daley then stole third and home, while Peterson was stealing second and third. Peterson came home as Johnson singled to left field, giving the Thief River Falls club a 6-1 win.

Moorhead Contest

Thief River Falls traveled to Moorhead on Wednesday and got a real fine pitching preformance from Gordy Peterson, who made his first start as a pitcher against the powerful Moorhead squad. He pitched a good ball game although losing it by a 5-1 score.

Peterson came on in relief of Kenny Lindquist in the opening game of the season against Newfolden 11 days before and allowed just one hit in four innings of relief pitching. In Wednesday's contest he went the entire distance on the mound and held Moorhead to five base hits while striking out two and walking none.

Thief River Falls was held to just three base hits by Greg Troland, ace pitcher for the Moorhead teams the past couple of years.

Moorhead scored two runs in the first and one each in the third, fourth and sixth innings. Thief River Falls scored its lone run of the game in the third as Steve Daley, who walked to lead off the inning, stole home after Dana Stromberg's single moved him to third base.

Crookston Contest

Thief River Falls, making its third appearance in loop action on Thursday evening, fell to Crookston 8-4 in a game at the fairgrounds in Thief River Falls.

Crookston did most of its scoring in the first three innings, jumping on starting pitcher Dan Sullivan for six runs. Crookston then touched reliever Dana Stromberg for two other runs in the seventh inning.

The Crookston nine scored two in the second and four in the third inning, with the aid of three Thief River Falls errors and three base hits.

Thief River Falls scored two runs in the fourth inning as Tony Johnson reached first on a Crookston error, moved to third on the second baseman's error and came home on Tom Wurst's triple to right field. Wurst's drive also drove in Gordy Peterson, who had also reached base on an error, making it 6-2 in favor of the visiting Crookston club.

Thief River Falls added two more runs in the fifth inning as Daley singled and stole second, Dale Gilbertson walked, and both came home on Tony Johnson's double down the right field line, cutting the Crookston lead to 6-4.

Thief River Falls had a chance in the seventh inning, loading the sacks with no outs, but Johnson flied out to the left fielder and Stromberg hit a liner to the first baseman who doubled Gilbertson off first for the final out of the game.

Next Action

The Legion team has only one game this week, here on Thursday evening against East Grand Forks at 7 p.m. Next week they will have two home games, against Moorhead on Monday and Hallock on Tuesday, and then travel to Red Lake Falls for a Wednesday contest. The line scores are as follows:

Tips Given For Beaching Boat In Rough Water

Forward edge of a wave is great for surfers, but it's no place for small boat skippers, according to the committee for National Safe Boating Week, June 29-July 5.

If at all possible, boatmen should stay clear of breakers. But if an emergency arises, and beaching becomes necessary, here's what to do:

Find a stretch of beach free of rocks—and don't get too close while investigating.

Keep the boat aligned with the wind and waves.

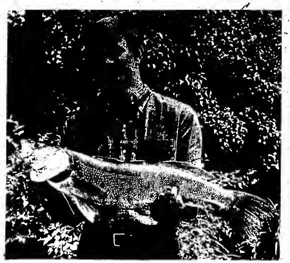
Get about halfway up the backside of a wave and use the throttle to keep the boat there.

When the boat hits bottom, get out and head for higher ground before the next wave hits. If there's enough time, bring the bow line with you and secure it to some object higher up on the beach.

You'll probably be able to get the boat out of harm's way. If you haul in on the line each time a wave breaks over the bench.

Keeping your boat "trimmed" improves performance and helps insure safety afloat, says the committee for national safe boating week, June 29 through July 5.

The load of passengers and gear should be evenly distributed to either side of the centerline. It will make steering easier and will help keep the boat on an even keel in the event of rough water.



A NICE WALLEYE was the reward for Jim Bahan, 10, Lexington, Ill., when he fished Thursday morning in the Red Lake river in Thief River Falls. Jim was fishing with his grandfather, Melvin Strom, while visiting here with his family. The catch was made about 11 a.m. on a red and white casting spoon, and weighed 8¼ pounds when put on a grocery scale three hours later. The previous day the party caught five walleyes and two small northerns in the same area of the river near the Eighth street bridge, with four of the walleyes weighing over two pounds.

Pollution Has Effect On Many Waterfowl

John Skrypek, Biologist
Minnesota Department of Conservation

Pollution of the natural environment has had serious effects on waterfowl, just as it has affected other forms of life. These effects range from the dramatic, such as extensive waterfowl kills associated with oil and chemical spills, to more obscure effects, such as lead shot and pesticide poisoning, or the gradual loss of habitat that may be associated with long-term siltation and changes in water quality.

The disastrous effect of oil pollution on water birds was illustrated when the oil freighter "Torrey Canyon," with 119,000 tons of oil aboard, broke up off the coast of England during March of 1967. Thousands of tons of oil were released to be spread over the open sea and to blanket miles of the coastline of France and England. Thousands of water birds (mainly gulls, puffins and guillemots) became oil soaked and died.

The result of oil soaking is usually loss of bouyancy, which causes drowning and death. Death may also come from exposure in cold climates, because body feathers lose their insulating capacity when oil soaked. The inability of oil-soaked birds to fly and feed can cause starvation, and ingested oil may also have direct toxic effects. Cleaning oil from the water with such substances as detergents may also injure aquatic life on which waterfowl feed.

In Minnesota, the most serious loss of waterfowl from oil pollution occurred in 1963. Approximately 1 to 1.5 million gallons of soybean oil and one million gallons of petroleum oil escaped to the Minnesota River and eventually flowed into the Mississippi River causing the loss of approximately 10,000 waterfowl on 60 miles of river.

Less obvious, but more insidious, is lead shot poisoning. Waterfowl often get lead poisoning by ingesting spent lead shot that they pick up when feeding on the bottoms of lakes and marshes. Counts of lead shot from certain Minnesota waterfowl lakes have commonly ranged as high as 64,000 to 250,000 per acre. The grinding action of a duck's gizzard and digestive juices erode the shot, causing soluble lead salts to pass into the digestive tract where they are absorbed into the body. The gizzard usually becomes paralyzed, food intake decreases and the bird starves to death. It is estimated that two to three per cent of the mallard ducks in North America are lost each year to poisoning from spent lead shot. Use of less toxic shot by hunters is highly desirable.

Pesticides also have caused losses of waterfowl. Occasionally such losses have been exaggerated or mistaken, but there have been a few kills of waterfowl definitely attributable to pesticides and there is much research on waterfowl now being done to determine the effects of trace residues in the environment.

One of the most well-documented cases of pesticide poisoning of waterfowl occurred at Clear Lake, California. DDD (chemically related to DDT) was applied to the lake at a very low concentration to kill gnats. After several years, western grebes began to disappear. Many dead and dying birds were found. Analyses showed that the grebes were carrying as high as 1,600 ppm (parts per million) of DDD in their body fat. Further study demonstrated a food chain build-up of DDD in the lake. There were low-level concentrations of DDD in plankton (minute marine plants and animals), higher levels in small fish, and highest levels in large fish. Some fish carried as high as 2,275 ppm in body fat. At present, the overall effect of pesticide residues on North American waterfowl is unknown. A study of wing flesh of ducks by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service indicates that usual concentrations of DDT are low, averaging 0.7 ppm.

Long-term water pollution of various types and siltation, and the resulting loss of desirable aquatic plants and animal food organisms, is not as spectacular as some of the previously-mentioned situations, but is harmful to waterfowl populations in North America. Pollutants from cities, industry and agriculture, along with other human activities, destroy waterfowl habitat slowly until it no longer will furnish waterfowl food and shelter. Heavy silt loads create excessive turbidity, shade out desirable aquatic plants and smother bottom animals.

Domestic wastes that are high in plant nutrients may trigger heavy algal growths and also shade out aquatic plants. Mining wastes that contain high levels of lead, zinc and copper have destroyed lake and stream bottom organisms that are important as waterfowl food. The amount of waterfowl habitat lost through long-term water pollution is unknown, but the depressing effect on waterfowl populations quite likely surpasses the overall effect of losses from pollution that kill waterfowl directly.

It should be noted that there are also some beneficial effects where waters are artificially enriched with plant nutrients, if such enrichment is not excessive. Ponds receiving barnyard or pasture drainage are highly productive of waterfowl food and are often much used by birds.

Ask New Pupils To Register For School Classes

All students who will be new in the Thief River Falls public schools next year are asked to register before mid-July, according to local school administrators. At that time the lists of enrollments will be sent in for computer analysis and scheduling.

Students in grades 10, 11 or 12 next fall should register in the guidance office (former vocational director's office) at Lincoln senior high school; those in grades 7, 8 or 9 should register at the Franklin junior high school principal's office; and those in elementary, regardless of what school area, should register at Washington elementary school on Arnold avenue.

School officials noted that students who attended here last year are already registered for the 1969-1970 term, but a number of youngsters has reportedly moved into the community and will not be included in scheduling plans unless registered.

DIANE LEE LARSON, crowned Miss Kittson county last Thursday evening in Hallock, will be among 10 contestants seeking the Miss Thief River Falls title here June 12. A native of Park River, N.D., she teaches home economics at Lancaster high school. She is shown here with the official program for the Miss Aquacade pageant which will feature an appearance in person by Miss America, Judi Ford.

Diane Larson Is Queen Candidate

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

(This is the sixth in a series of personal interview features with candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the 15th annual Jaycee Aquacade. The four other candidates will be featured in future issues.)

From the North Side Grocery in Park River, N. D., to the Lancaster high school faculty to the Miss Kittson county pageant ... that's the trail that leads Diane Lee Larson to the Miss Aquacade pageant in Thief River Falls July 12. She succeeded Penny Engstrom as Miss Kittson county last Thursday and now has her eye on Penny's Miss Thief River Falls crown.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Larson of Park River, N. D., Diane is a 1965 graduate of Walsh County Agricultural school and a 1968 graduate of North Dakota state university at Fargo. Twenty-one year old Diane is five feet, two and one-half inches tall, weighs 120 pounds, has brown hair, brown eyes and a 35-24-35 figure. Her pageant talent number will be a vocal solo and she will be sponsored by the Miss Kittson county pageant.

Music is one of many interests for Diane. She has taken voice lessons, sang with the NDSU concert choir and made a tour to the East Coast with that group in the spring of 1968. In high school she sang in the choir and received a top rating in state competition with a vocal solo. She also studied piano for nine years and would like to take additional college credits in the future for a minor in music.

Contests are not new to her. She was a homecoming princess in high school, a candidate for King Kold Kornival queen during her freshman year spent at the University of North Dakota, and competed in the queen contest of the potato festival in Park River.

For the past year she has taught junior and senior high school home economics at Lancaster and will return to the Lancaster system for another term in the fall. She makes many of her own clothes, including the formal and talent costume which she will use for pageant competition.

Diane enjoys dancing, skating, curling, volleyball, tennis and watching spectator sports. She is also active in Young Life, an interdenominational Christian youth organization, and serves as a counselor at a camp near Detroit Lakes. Her family, which includes a sister, Bonnie, 19, and two brothers, Richard, 17, and Robert, 13, farms near Park River and owns a neighborhood grocery store known as North Side Grocery.

Six Injured In Two-Car Crash Near RLF Sunday

Collision of two cars three miles north of Red Lake Falls on highway 32 at 1:30 p.m. Sunday resulted in the hospitalization of all persons involved.

Hospitalized for serious injuries are John, 6, and Linda Carlson, 10, Lake Park, passengers in the car of their grandmother, Mrs. Delores Carlson, Red Lake Falls. Other passengers in the Carlson car were Mary and Ronald Carlson, also grandchildren of Mrs. Delores Carlson.

Driver of the second car was Luthard Hogen of Larimore, N.D., who was hospitalized for minor injuries and released. Extensive damage was done to both cars.

Both cars were traveling north on highway 32 when the Carlson vehicle attempted a left turn and the Hagen car struck it from the rear while attempting to pass.

Public Library On Summer Hrs.

Thief River Falls public library is now operating on its summer schedule. Closing time is 8 p.m. instead of 9 p.m., and the library will be closed all day on Saturdays.

Corwin Woodard

Woodard Gains New Office With Detroiter Firm

Melvin J. Hutchinson, president and chairman of DMH Corporation, announced today that Corwin C. Woodard was named president, a newly created post, of the Red Lake Falls division of Detroiter Mobile Homes.

Woodard had been a vice president and general manager prior to his promotion. "Cor" Woodard joined Detroiter Mobile Homes in March of 1959 as a sales zone manager in the Michigan division.

In January of 1962 he was promoted to vice-president and sales manager of the Minnesota division, and in August of 1965 he assumed the position of vice president and general manager.

Woodard lives with his wife, Lee, in Red Lake Falls.

Larson Second In June State Butter Contest

Second place winner in the state June educational butter contest sponsored annually by the state department of agriculture was Eldon Larson of the Thief River Falls Cooperative Creamery association. He received a $40 prize.

Fourth place winner in the contest was Oscar J. Nelson of the Farmers Cooperative Creamery association at Roseau. He received $20. Fifth place winner was William D. Wilkins Jr., of the Land O'Lakes Creameries at Ada. He received $10.

PROGRESS is being made, although it has been raining intermittently this past week, on the new building where the Coast-to-Coast store will be located. Pictured here are the north and west walls, partially completed, and the lower level of the south wall, which will follow along Third street to the corner at Main avenue.

Two new directors were elected to the board of Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls at the annual meeting Monday evening, both sons of former directors. The annual financial report showed an increase of more than $1½ million in total assets, due primarily to the extensive building programs now in progress.

Elected to three-year terms on the board were James Engelstad and James Winjum, new directors, and Wallace Tunberg, reelected. Others on the ballot presented by the nominating committee were Dr. O. D. Belch, Robert Kraemer and Dr. Ed Nelson.

James Engelstad's father, Paul, was on the Mercy hospital board until its merger in December of 1950, and served on the Northwestern hospital board from that time until May of 1952. James Winjum Sr. was a Northwestern hospital board member from his election in June of 1958 until his death in June of 1963.

Total assets of the hospital increased from $2,390,553 in 1968 to $3,955,044 this year—an increase of more than $1½ million. Of this total, $1,450,000 came in total plant assets which grew from $2,041,941 a year ago to $3,491,290 this year. Current assets also increased substantially from $354,612 to $447,534, mostly in accounts receivable which jumped from $217,121 to $312,276.

Total liabilities from 1968 to 1969 increased in proportion to the building program—rising from only $165,230 last year to $1,411,487 in 1969. Long-term liabilities rose from $10,000 to $905,000 while current liabilities climbed from $155,230 to $506,487. Major increases for current liabilities were in two categories non-existent last year. They included $231,823 in accounts payable and retainage for new construction and $57,597 for accrued interest payable on bonds. There was an increase in medicare contingency from $32,600 to $90,746 and a drop in medicare current financing from $72,273 to $65,982.

After liabilities are deducted from total assets, the community has a paid-up ownership in buildings and equipment of Country Cousins Audition in N. Y.

The 4-H Country Cousins, who have played for many 4-H contests and meetings and other local activities, recently returned from a trip to New York City. They received a call from Miss Venita Rich of the Ted Mack Original Amateur Hour on Thursday, explaining arrangements for the group to audition for the show in New York City along with winners of other county fair contests, such as the one the local group participated in at the Pennington county fair.

The five members, Mitch and Joe Kezar, Diane Timm and Dave and Eddie Furuseth, all of the City View 4-H club, left for Rochester, where they boarded a bus to Decorah, Iowa, joining Miss Rich and her group for departure to New York City.

Upon arrival in New York, the group checked in at the Times Square Motor hotel, just a block off the famous Times Square. Auditions were held on Monday, June 16, at the Empire hotel in front of the executives and producers of the original Amateur Hour. The producers select acts from the auditions that they feel are polished enough to be taped for the show. Acts selected for taping will be notified by the producers, and flown back to New York for the final taping.

In New York, the Country Cousins, along with their chaperone, Mrs. Ed Timm, saw the Statue of Liberty, the Empire State Building, Chinatown, the Bowery and other places of interest.

Miss Rich's group left New York Friday and drove to Washington, D.C., where tours were taken through the Capitol building and the Smithsonian Institute. Saturday they visited the Lincoln, Washington and Jefferson memorials, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, (where the group witnessed the changing of the guard) and Arlington National cemetery (where they visited the graves of John F. and Robert F. Kennedy). The Country Cousins left for home from Washington on Saturday noon, and arrived home late Sunday night.

The only expense which was paid for by the show was the transportation to and from Rochester where the group met the bus. All other expenses were shared by the families of the members.

Members Named To Inter-County Council Board

Annual meeting of the Inter-County Community council was held in Oklee June 18 for election of members to terms which expired, and to inform the public about programs and procedures of the council.

Elected to represent Clearwater county on the board for a term of two years was Elmer J. Erickson and James Hendbird. Erickson will fill the seat vacated by Maurice Tanjerd and Hendbird replaces Mrs. Theodore Thompson. Appointed to serve for the board of commissioners from Clearwater was Ingvald Sveum.

Elected to represent Pennington county for a term of two years was Carl Elg and Verner Arveson. They were reelected. Appointed to represent the board of commissioners for Pennington was Donald L. Olson.

Reelected to represent Red Lake county on the board for a two-year term were Donald Rontain and Vaughn Thorfinnson. Reappointed to represent the Red Lake county board of commissioners was Sidney Kirk.

Reelected to serve East Polk county was Clifton Olson and Bernt Norness, and reappointed to represent the board of county commissioners was Orris Moen.

Following the election, programs for the coming year were explained to a public attendance that exceeded 120 people.

Roy A. Jorgensan, executive director, covered the council's programs regarding Inter-County's grant of $161,331 for the coming year.

According to Jorgenson, programs to be administered during the year are the home health program, brothers of youth, rural resource aides, senior citizen centers and service, program planning and administration.

He explained that the $161,331 is Office of Economic Opportunity funds, but that the council has also received separate funds for project head start and has contracts with the department of labor with which to administer a 16-county neighborhood youth corps program, and project mainstream in the four-county area served by the council.

Jorgenson said that the recreational programs mentioned referred to the provisions within the senior citizen grant, but that there were no funds allocated for the purpose of developing or assisting communities in recreational programs for youth.

The Inter-County Community council is the administrative agency for community action programs in Pennington, Red Lake, Clearwater and East Polk counties. It has been in operation for four years and recently established a sub-office in Bagley.

Mrs. Israelson Attends Central Committee Meet

Mrs. Agnes Israelson of Thief River Falls, member of the Seventh District DFL central committee, attended a meeting of the committee Sunday in Bemidji.

Main speaker at the session was Sen. Wendell R. Anderson of St. Paul, who criticized Gov. Harold LeVander and the conservative legislature as "interested only in big business, not the farmer or average taxpayer."

As a result of the sales tax legislation, Sen. Anderson said, businesses were allowed to reduce their taxes by $77 million. There is no legal limit to the amount of reduction now available to business in the state. Anderson cited one large corporation which has reduced its personal property taxes by 95.7 per cent.

"By contrast," says Anderson, "The homeowner is limited to a maximum reduction of only $250. No wonder there is a revolt among taxpayers. We all have to pay our own share, but there is no good reason why the burden should be shifted from big business to the average home owner."

Anderson cited an example of Republican tax breaks to big business in Pennington county. He reported that L. B. Hartz Wholesale paid 1967 personal property taxes of $10,176.74 and Salkin & Linoff, Inc. paid $3,253.06. "In 1968," Anderson said, "due to the LeVander tax shift, L. B. Hartz Wholesale paid personal property taxes of only $261.20 and Salkin & Linoff, Inc., paid $266.42."

Sen. Anderson also criticized Governor LeVander for failing to keep the promise made in his "state of the state" address to call a conference on rural problems in April of this year.

48 Bridges Are Replaced and 18 Others Closed

In response to a request by Governor LeVander early in 1968 for bridge inspection on all public highways within the state, all county and township bridges were inspected and 48 were replaced while 18 were closed due to being unsafe for usage.

The recent legislature, recognizing the importance of adequate bridge inspection, passed Chapter 304. This law, which calls attention to the failure of the Point Pleasant bridge across the Ohio river as well as the pier collapse of the Wabasha bridge between Wisconsin and Minnesota, dramatizes the need for more frequent and thorough bridge inspection.

The law requires annual bridge inspection for all bridges regardless of the level of government responsibility for the structure. The inspection is the responsibility of the various agencies, state, county, township, city, etc. It is felt that the public should not be concerned about who is responsible for the structure and have equal assurance that it is safe. Details of the various types of inspection are to be worked out after adequate standards have been adopted.

The 66 county and township bridges replaced or closed as a result of inspections, points out the serious lack of inspection which prevailed on many bridges on local roads and streets.

The new legislation will help to eliminate the potential hazards by isolating and alleviating them in time to avert tragedy.

Senior Citizen Candidates Are Wanted for Fair

Persons who know outstanding Minnesota senior citizens who continue to be active in civic, church, community or business affairs are encouraged to nominate them for recognition at the Minnesota state fair's senior citizens' day August 28.

Information and nomination blanks can be obtained from county agents, home extension agents, various senior citizens clubs, county fair secretaries or by writing Senior Citizens' Award Committee, Minnesota State Fair, St. Paul 55103.

Harry J. Frost, secretary of the selection committee, said the committee is looking for "those senior citizens who have continued to be active after they've reached the normal retirement age of 65 years."

Nominations should be as complete as possible—family background, past and present activities of the nominee and the nominator's other reasons for nominating the senior citizen of his or her choice.

Nominations should be submitted to the county agent, county fair secretary or returned to the Minnesota state fair before August 1 so they can be processed by the selection committee prior to the August 23 opening of the 1969 state fair.

Top 1969 male and female finalists will participate in senior citizens activities at the state fair Thursday, August 28. They will be saluted during an afternoon concert by the "Gaylord Over 60" band and receive their awards in front of the grandstand stage preceding the night show.

Hospital Assets Rise in 1969 To $1½ Million

Gross revenue received by the hospital, less allowances, was $1,688,486 for the fiscal year ended April 30. Total expense was $1,623,200, leaving an excess of income over expense of $65,286 or 3.86 per cent.

Expenses included the following: Salaries, fees and payroll taxes, $1,072,198; dietary, food and supplies, $70,916; fuel and utilities, $37,423; repair and maintenance supplies, $18,790; depreciation, $83,452; drugs, medicine and medical supplies, $69,956; interest expense, $38,874; commission on sale of bonds, $22,500; insurance and communications, $19,747; other supplies and expense, $98,220; and provision for care of indigent patients, $91,125.

Admittances to the hospital in 1969 totaled 2,972, reversing a downward trend which has existed for the past several years. Adult patient days totaled 36,267 with January leading in highest patient days with 3,759. Average percentage of occupancy was 63 per cent, with an average daily census of 99 and average days of stay of 12.2.

Operating income per patient day was $44.04, operating expense was $42.24 and net operating income per patient day was $1.80. There were 274 births, two deaths of newborn and three stillborn births during the year.

G. A. Belto, chairman of the board of directors, presided at the meeting. Secretary Wallace Tunberg read the proof of notice of the annual meeting and J. J. Womack, treasurer, presented the certification of the annual audit. Dr. Earl Dagg, chief of the medical staff, gave comments from the medical staff of the hospital. William LaFave presented the nominating committee's report.

Miss Lydia Dahlen, director of nursing service, stressed the need for licensed nursing personnel, noting that the U.S. government requires that only nurses with an up to date license be in charge where extended care patients are served.

She said that many graduates of the vocational-technical school's practical nursing program return here for at least a year, "a big help for the hospital", but that it is more difficult to attract registered nurses. Last month, she said, there were 17 full-time and 20 part-time R.N.'s on duty.

A committee of hospital personnel from Bemidji, Crookston and Thief River Falls has been formed, she said, to look into possibilities of an associate arts degree program of nursing being established in one of the schools of this area with hospitals in the three communities serving as laboratories for the students.

Mrs. Betty Waldera reported on hospital auxiliary activities, noting that escort service and receptionist and information desk duty had been added to volunteer services provided. Membership totals 168 with 90 per cent of the members donating services to the hospital in one or more areas.

The auxiliary purchased television sets and stands, donated two more hair dryers for first and second floors and purchased new uniforms for volunteer workers and candystripers. The 40 candystripers, directed by Mrs. Rea Climie, work in the coffee and gift shop and help in the rehabilitation and physical therapy section and other areas of the hospital.

National Guard Units To Move On Highway 10

There will be two-way military movements on Minnesota highways Sunday as the 47th Infantry division of the Minnesota National Guard leaves Camp Ripley after two weeks of training and the Headquarters Command group moves in.

Outbound convoys will depart from the camp starting at 6 a.m. in 14 columns bound for 10 destinations in the state. The last units will clear by 10:30 a.m., and will reach their destinations for the most part before noon.

Highway 10 will carry the greatest volume of traffic, with four inbound units entering at St. Cloud, Anoka and Spring Lake Park, and five departing units leaving at Wadena, St. Cloud, Big Lake and Spring Lake Park. All outbound columns will be off TH 10 by noon, and all inbound movements by 1:50 p.m.

The first units of the headquarters group will begin arriving at Camp Ripley at 10:35 a.m. in 11 columns originating in nine points throughout the state. The last inbound unit will complete entry into the camp by 5:37 p.m.

Ungraded Schools To Have Reduced Foundation Aids

By action of the 1969 Minnesota Legislature, the most that any district operating only ungraded schools may receive in foundation aid for the 1969-1970 school year is $133 per pupil unit, including apportionment and income tax aid, according to Farley D. Bright, assistant commissioner of education. Only two ungraded schools—Districts 1548 and 1553—remain in Pennington county.

The amount payable may be less than $133 if the district maintenance expenditure per pupil unit in 1968-69 was less than $355 per pupil unit, or if the district's certified levy for all school purposes, including the county tuition levy on property within the district, for 1969 collectible in 1970, does not equal 19 mills times the 1966 adjusted assessed (EARC) valuation of the school district, Bright said.

For many of the districts maintaining ungraded schools, the foundation aid for 1969-1970 will be sharply reduced by the $133 limitation, making it necessary for each district to increase its 1969 local levy for schools to whatever degree may be required to cover anticipated costs of operating its schools during the 1969-70 school year.

District budgets are to be voted by the freeholders in meetings as of June 24, 1969. Dr. David Brown, Goodridge, county school administrator, has been requested to inform each district operating only ungraded schools of the need for additional revenue through local taxes because of the imminent decrease in foundation aid.

Relocation Bill Provides More Money For Roads

Minnesota legislature in 1969 enacted chapter 344, the relocation assistance bill, which provides for cash payments not previously authorized by law to be made to persons displaced by highway construction.

When highway improvements displace homes and businesses—inconveniences, hardships, and financial loss are suffered by the owners, which, in the past, have not always received adequate recognition for compensation, according to the state highway department.

"If you are now living in an area through which a highway is to pass, or if you have relocated for this reason since Aug. 23, 1968, this information may apply to you," a highway department official said.

Using its own funds, the department will provide reimbursement for more liberalized moving costs, relocation assistance and may make compensation exceeding the fair market value for property taken, when required to provide new facilities at least equivalent to that taken.

It should be noted that these generous payments are made out of funds from the highway trust fund and do not come from the general tax fund. This compensation above the fair market price, is the only piece of mandatory legislation by the federal government, and is a blanket authorization to the commissioner of highways to cooperate to the fullest extent with federal authorities to insure that the relocation assistance and moving cost payments are provided in a manner so as to conform to federal requirement and thereby insure continued federal financial participation.

Booklets explaining the qualification criteria and details of relocation benefits are available from the Right of Way Division, Minnesota Highway Department, St. Paul. Relocation and moving cost provisions of chapter 344 are retroactive to Aug. 23, 1968.

125 Trap Score Hit by Pharmacy

Aided by L. B. Hartz' win over Custom Motors, Jensen Mink Farm extended its lead in the Thief River Falls Trap league Monday night and remained undefeated this season. The fur farmers helped their own cause by shading a determined Union State bank team, which dropped to a tie for fourth place in the loop.

One of the bright spots of the night's action, which once again was dampened by rain, was the 125 total turned in by the Pharmacy in edging Coast-to-Coast 125 to 123. Ray Thyren led the Pharmacy attack with a 24-2-25, one of only two 24's shot during the evening. Sandy Wilson of Mostue Floral popped the other one as no straight 25's were recorded.

Joining Thyren with 25's for the Pharmacy were Ross Embury, 21-5; Myrt Wilson, 23-5; Stub Pahlen 20-6, and Jim Huseth, 19-6. Coast-to-Coast notched three 25's in John Olsen's 18-7, Joanie Wilson's 21-5 and Ike Ellingson's 21-8 while Gubby Lane with 19-5 and Don Kamrowski with 21-3 were only one bird off the pace.

In winning its sixth straight match, Jensen Mink Farm took a 124-120 decision from the challenging Union State bank. Alvin Jensen's 23-2-25 paced the winners while Paul Cyr's 17-8 and Steve Cyr's 22-3 were also good for 25 scores. Harold Cyr had a 23-1 and Milo Larson a 16-8 to complete the 123 total.

Al Scheuneman had 19-6 and John Moum counted 17-8 to lead the bankers while other counting scores included Fred Sorensen's 21-1-24, Arnie Johnson's 16-8-24 and Jerry Wendorff's 19-3-22.

L. B. Hartz used three 25's and a pair of 23's to upset Custom Motors 121-118. Dean Anderson's 23-4, Pat Fischer's 23-2 and Curt Buttein's 21-5 led the wholesalers with Walt Fischer adding a 19-4 and Howard Hagen a 21-2.

Custom Motors got only one 25 in Bruce Mattson's 19-7. Other scorers were Steve Johnson, 22-2-24; Mark Hagen 19-5-24; Dale Schantzen, 16-7-23, and David Larson, 18-4-22.

Wilson Bros. regained the second spot in the league race, tied with Custom Motors, by nipping Arctic Enterprises 120-117. Leading the way was Merv Skadsem with a 23-5-25, followed by Stan Wilson and Si Schantzen with 23-1-24 each, Orville Feragen with 17-7-24 and Wally Vagle with 20-3-23.

Arctic had two 25's in Wayne Schantzen's 22-6 and Tubby Lund's 19-8, then slipped to a 23 and pair of 22's in dropping the match. Don Omdahl had a 15-8, while Ike Hoglin and Burt Lane had 14-8 scores.

Lind Motor Supply, short one shooter, skidded in the standings by absorbing a 114-107 loss to the A & W Drive-in. Berry Fellman with 20-8-25 and Curtis Ness with a 17-8-25 led the root beer crew, followed by George Hanestad, 16-8-24; Bob Ohlhauser, 13-8-21, and Ronald Ruager, 11-8-19.

Lind Motor Supply had two 25's in Hal Loge's 20-6 and Dick Griesen's 19-8. Floyd Ball recorded a 22-0 and Charlie Abentroth a 14-6, with a dummy score of 15 completing the 107 total.

Mostue Floral moved into a six-way tie for fifth place with a 111-97 win over the Shrine. Sid Brouse charted a 20-8-25 to pace Mostue's, followed by Sandy Wilson, 24-0; Neil McEwen, 15-8-23; John Feragen, 16-4-20; and George Mostue, 15-4-19.

Bob Flynn combined 20 shattered clays with an eight handicap for a 25 score to lead the Shrine team. Other scorers were [illegible] Nabben, 11-8-19; Carl Lee, 9-8-17; and Irv Wilson, 5-8-13.

A short-handed Trap Club team fell to the surging Times squad which moved into the thick of the sixth place race in a 106-103 match. Scoring for the Times were Marv Lundin, 21-4-25; Clarence Mattson, 17-7-24; Bob Mattson, 20-1-21; Orlie Rux, 12-8-20 and Ken Kohler, 11-5-16.

Greg Berger cracked a 17-8-25 for the Trap Club team which had a 17-6-23 from Randy Lian, 15-8-23 from Lee Rupprecht, 9-8-17 from David Lee and dummy score of 15 to complete the scoring.

Next Monday Jensen Mink Farm goes against Arctic Cat, Custom Motors squares off against Wilson Bros., L. B. Hartz takes on the Trap Club, Lind Motor Supply meets the Shrine, the Pharmacy does battle with Union State bank, A & W Drive-in matches shots with the Times and Mostue Floral tangles with Coast-to-Coast.

Standings in the league after six weeks of shooting include the following:

300,000 4Hers In Conservation Projects in U.S.

When 300,000 energetic young Americans from coast-to-coast organize to conserve the natural resources of this country, things begin to happen.

These youths are 4-H members participating in a national program to wisely use and conserve natural resources. As individuals and as a club they carry out conservation projects most needed in their communities. Projects cover the four principle areas of conservation: soil, water, grasslands, wildlife and forests.

Branches of the U.S. department of agriculture provide resource information and the services of personnel. They include the U.S. forest service and soil conservation service. The national park service and the bureau of sport fisheries and wildlife of the U.S. department of interior assist the 4-H groups, as do other agencies.

Examples include what a 17-year-old 4-H lad has done in seven years of conservation work to terrace, fertilize and plant hundreds of acres of farmland to enrich the soil and protect it from erosion and depletion. On the family farm a 37-acre watershed was built for flood control and wildlife refuge.

The lake was stocked with bream and bass, and now is used on a pay-as-you-fish basis. Profits from this project are banked for the young man's college education.

Non-farm 4-H'ers find opportunities and situations within their towns from which they learn why conservation and wise use of all natural resources is necessary to insure food, water and shelter for the nation's rapidly increasing population.

For the most effective conservation projects, annual awards are provided by John Deere for individual 4-H'ers and for their club as well.

Recognition is given at county, state and national levels. The youths earn medals, educational trips to the national 4-H congress in Chicago, and $600 scholarships.

Area Men Among Patrol Graduates

Among the 34 prospective highway patrol officers who will graduate on June 27 from the 20th officer candidate school of the Minnesota highway patrol are Ronald S. Sorby of Gully and Russell D. Wollin of Karlstad.

After eight weeks of on-the-job training they will receive permanent assignments. Some of the officers will fill vacancies while other graduates will fill new posts created by the legislature.

Bridgettes Will Compete Friday In Duluth Show

Thief River Falls Bridgettes will be entered in state competition on Friday at the Pageant of Drums at the Duluth arena in Duluth. They were selected to represent the Ninth District VFW this past spring.

About 100 hours were spent preparing the girls for the 11-minute show. During the inspection, each member must be at her best, and meet all the specifications set by the directors.

Competition places a responsibility on each of the girls, who must hold up her share of the unit. The unit must be on the field 11 minutes, off in 13 minutes, and in action no less than eight minutes. The responsibility of directing and manuevering on the field is entirely up to the girls themselves. Drum majorette for the group is Jan Joppru and the Color guard commander is Sue Wysoski, with Barbara Wilson as musical director.

After the inspection the girls will be competing in the Minnesota state V.F.W. parade, also in Duluth. Following the parade the girls will travel to Superior, Wis., to view the Wisconsin state parade.

Attending the activities will be 53 girls, five mothers and the director, Mrs. Richard Bergflund.

Senators Named To A.D.A. Board; Oppose Firearms

Minnesota sportsmen may well question the ability of senators Walter F. Mondale and Eugene J. McCarthy to properly represent them in the light of a recently published report concerning the senators' association with the Americans for Democratic Action, states the Minnesota Committee for Effective Crime control.

The "Minneapolis Tribune" reported on June 8 that during its annual convention on June 7, the A.D.A. committed itself to the elimination of private firearms ownership, the committee reports.

"The ADA also adopted a resolution advocating that all handguns in the United States be outlawed and that all rifles and shotguns held by private citizens be stored at public warehouses as a step in fighting crime.

"The delegates expressed belief that American society 'should be totally disarmed.'

"An effort to modify the blanket gun-control recommendation by urging registration of all guns with the police was rejected by a show of hands."

On June 8, both Mondale and McCarthy accepted positions on the A.D.A.'s national board.

Questions have been raised whether Minnesota's senators can serve the A.D.A. and the citizens of this state, with its 600,000 sportsmen, at the same time and in good faith.

THE MILLE LACS STORY

If you visit Onamia, Garrison, Isle or Malmo you'll hear the same story..."This is the Greatest Year for a long, long time."

Limits of walleyes are common. Chester Case at Wolf's Resort at Isle said many guests were filling out in very little time. One Minneapolis fisherman got six walleye in the three pound class in 45 minutes before breakfast.

Mrs. Silker who had the tackle shop at Onamia for many years (It's now Rogers Tackle Shop) told us that Eddy's Launches were coming in every day with every fisherman having his limit. She said several walleyes over ten pounds have been taken. Mr. Rogers reported one weighing nine pounds seven ounces.

Don McCalvy at Garrison was equally enthusiastic. He, too, reported a ten punder. We counted more than 30 boats less than a quarter of a mile from shore...and Don said most of them would fill out. Blue and yellow jigs were proving very effective. Fathead minnows were also being used without a spinner.

Contrary to the old addage, a north wind is a good fishing wind on Mille Lacs.

UNDERWATER MUSEUM

Bill Matthies, the Brainerd skin diver has an Under Water Museum at his shop at 612 Front Street in Brainerd. One item is a stone with strange carvings on it. He retrieved this from the bottom of one of Minnesota's 10,000 Lakes. He sent it to the University of Minnesota where they examined it for three months without coming to any conclusion. So he has a mystery on his hands.

ART MERCIER

A fellow who gives Minnesota a lot of publicity is ART MERCIER, the outdoor editor of WBBM-CBS in Chicago. Many Minnesotans listen to his broadcasts. His schedule is as follows: 5:55 a.m., 4:50 p.m., 6:45 p.m., and 7:35 to 8:00 p.m. WBBM is 780 on your radio dial. Art has one of the most interesting outdoor programs on radio.

WALKER REPORT

A Walker fisherman hit the walleye jack-pot ten days ago...he caught two walleyes in Walker Bay in Leech Lake...one weighed 10 pounds 6 ounces and the other 13 pounds 7 ounces. TWO WALLEYES WEIGHING 23 POUNDS...CAN YOU TIE THAT???

Board To License All Nursing Home Administrators

Legislation relating to the licensure of nursing home administrators was submitted to the Minnesota legislature pursuant to requirements of U.S. Public Law 90-248 which amends Title XIX of the Social Security act. The final bill passed by the legislature and signed by Governor LeVander was a combination of House File 1069 and Senate File 723.

This bill created the Minnesota state board of examiners for nursing home administrators. Effective date of the act is July 1, 1970. Philip K. Schumacher, Virginia, president of the Minnesota Nursing Home association said, "Our Association strongly supported this legislation. By providing some uniformity of training and skills among administrators, it should help insure a higher quality of care for Minnesota's aged, convalescent and chronically ill".

Members of board of examiners are to be appointed by Governor LeVander. Composition of the board is:

(a) A designee of the state board of health who shall be a non-voting member;

(b) The commissioner of public welfare, or his designee who shall be a non-voting member; and the following members appointed by the governor.

(c) Two members actively engaged in the management, operation or ownership of proprietary nursing homes;

(d) Two members actively engaged in the management or operation of non-profit nursing homes or hospitals caring for chronically ill or infirm-aged patients;

(e) One member actively engaged in the practice of medicine;

(f) One member actively engaged in the practice of professional nursing; and

(g) Three members from the general public who are not engaged in the management, ownership, operation or supervision of any nursing home or hospital.

The board will have exclusive authority to determine the qualifications, skill and fitness of any person to serve as an administrator. It will also have the duty and responsibility to develop, impose and enforce standards which must be met by individuals in order to receive a license as a nursing home administrator.

As an additional duty, the board is charged with the responsibility of recognizing or causing to be conducted courses of instruction and training that will be sufficient to meet the requirements for qualification for licensure.

Field Training Held for Guard At Camp Ripley

Annual field training at Camp Ripley for the 47th Division this summer will see the Minnesota National guard "Vikings" joined for the first time by their out-of-state 47th Division comrades from Iowa and Illinois.

Elements of the division's 34th Infantry Brigade headquartered in Boone, Iowa, and the 1st Cavalry Squadron, 66th Brigade from Decatur, Ill., will join the Minnesota guardsmen at the June 15-29 camp.

The division artillery will not train with the rest of the division, but is slated for training with non-divisional units the following two weeks.

Training this year will emphasize company and platoon-level operations. No division-size military exercises are planned.

Range firing includes the usual complement of guard weapons, with the addition of the first extensive use of the new M79 grenade launcher by the division. Other weapons to be fired are mortars, machine guns and small arms.

A National guard element taking training outside of the state will be the 109th Maintenance company, Duluth, which will train in Granite City, Ill., August 9-23.

Auto Insurance Firms Must Give 60-Day Notice

A law passed by the last session of the Minnesota legislature now makes it mandatory for all automobile insurance companies to give a 60-day advance notice if they are not going to renew an insured's automobile liability insurance, according to an official of Minnesota AAA.

The new statute also requires auto insurance companies to supply the insured motorist, upon his request, the reason or reasons why the company is not renewing.

"When a driver has his auto insurance terminated, under the new law, the insurance company must now provide the insured with the reason, in writing, why his insurance was terminated. This must be done within five days of receipt of the insured's request for the reason why his insurance is not being renewed," said Duane Edberg, insurance director for the Minnesota AAA.

In the past, Minnesota motorists received only a 30-day notice of non-renewal of their auto insurance and, even if asked to do so, insurance companies often would not give any specific reason why the insurance was being terminated.

"This new law does not apply, however, in cases where an insured does not pay his premium," Edberg pointed out.

The new law also provides for a hearing if the insured disagrees with the insurance company's reason for termination. A $15 filing fee with the objection to the termination should be made to the Minnesota insurance commissioner's office within seven days after receiving notice of, or the reason for, non-renewal.

Mrs. Orville Peters
Thief River Falls, 681-2130

Mrs. Dagney Peterson and her brother Robert Anderson report on their trip out west: We left Fargo at 1:30 a.m. Wednesday, the third of June. We took the Great Empire Builder for Portland, Ore. The first part of North Dakota was dark until we came to Tioga where we saw our first oil fields. Minot and Williston also have a lot of oil fields. Williston in fact has hundreds of producing oil wells. It was there we moved our clock ahead one hour. We saw a lot of beautiful country in Montana, around Havre a lot of strip farming and cattle grazing in that area. In Cutbank and Shelby, Montana, oil and gas fields were predominant. Then we went on to the Rocky Mountains. We saw snow on the mountains for over a hundred miles away. The highest spot was in Glacier Park which was 5,280 feet in altitude. Then we came to Spokane, Wash. Spokane is noted for its million acres of grain and orchard fields, saying nothing about their tremendous water powers. They also have one of the largest aluminum plants in the nation. We went from Spokane, Wash., to Portland, following the Columbia River all the way to Portland and arriving there at 7 a.m. Wednesday, the 4th. There we were met by the Gerald Peterson family of Tillamook, Ore. From Portland we went by car. The first impressing feature we saw was Mount Hood. This mount is so high that there is snow on top the whole year around. There are lots of winding roads and mountains all the way to Tillamook, in fact, that is all they have is winding roads. While out there we visited with Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Larson, Garfield and Bill Vicarynus of Hillsbury, Ore., Vernon Peterson of Forrest Grove, Ore., Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hall of Bay City, Ore., Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Larson of Albany, Ore. These are all friends and relatives who were formerly of Viking. While there we were out in a big strawberry field and picked strawberries which was fun. We also went across the new bridge at Astoria, Ore., built over the Columbia River between Ore., and Wash. This bridge is four miles long and over 180 feet high. Robert spent most of one day deep sea fishing in the Pacific Ocean. They caught a Ling Cod weighing 40 pounds. They had very good luck fishing. We went through the Tillamook Cheese factory and also a museum where we saw a cedar tree over 650 years old. At Seaside, Ore., we saw the aquarium where we fed the seals. Tillamook has a population of 4,200. It is surrounded by mountains on all sides. They have a lot of lumber mills, dairy cattle, and are noted for their famous Tillamook cheese. We returned to Viking the 15th of June.

"Soft" Water Saves You Money

Hard water is more than a constant irritation to the busy homemaker. It's also hard on the pocketbook. According to the Water Conditioning Foundation, you need more soap and hot water, clothes and linens wear out faster, and scaly deposits shorten the life of pipe and water-using equipment. Estimates on the savings that result when water softening equipment is used range from $150 to over $300.

Cotton is washable.

ASK THE CUSTOMS MAN

Q—Is there a difference in the regulations between the regular returning resident and U.S. civilian and military personnel?

A—Yes. Details can be found in a pamphlet issued by the Bureau of Customs and titled "United States Civilian and Military Personnel." The rights and privileges are clearly spelled out. Copies are usually available at overseas points where such personnel are located. Single copies can be secured from any customs office or from the Bureau of Customs, Washington, D.C. 20226.

Q—I purchased some liquor at a "duty-free store" before entering Canada. I was charged duty on what I had left when I returned to the United States. I told them that the liquor was bought at a "duty-free store," but I still was charged the duty. Why?

A—You were properly charged the duty and tax on the liquor. The term "duty-free store" is confusing. What it actually means is that the goods in that store are in the United States free of duty and tax, which explains why the price is so low. However, the merchandise must be sold for export only. It must go to another country. When and if any of it is brought back into the United States, it is subject to the regular duty and tax the same as any other import to this country.

Q—I have some friends in France who are planning a visit to the United States. Is "Customs Hints for Nonresidents" available only in English?

A—"United States Customs Hints for Nonresidents" is available in French, Italian, German, Spanish, Chinese and Japanese, besides the English edition. Copies can be secured from customs offices or from the Bureau of Customs, Washington, D.C. 20226. Please specify the languate desired if you write for a copy.

What is your Customs question? If you have one, send it to the: Customs Answer Man, c-o U.S. Customs Service, Pembina, N.D.

Utilization of Hospitals Rises In Early 1969

Hospital utilization continued to increase in the first quarter of 1969, according to "Hospital Indicators", a monthly report appearing in the June 16 issue of "HOSPITALS," journal of the American Hospital association.

The report, based on a continuing survey of 650 community hospitals, shows a total of 7,087,462 admissions to the nation's short-term community hospitals in the first three months of 1969. That is a 2.1 per cent increase over the 6,941,114 admissions reported in the comparable period of 1968.

The number of persons 65 and over admitted to hospitals in 1969's first quarter was 1,498,949, or five per cent more than in 1968's first quarter. These older persons stayed in the hospital an average of 13.4 days, while persons under 65 had an average stay of seven days.

Visits to hospital outpatient departments were still on the increase from January through March, with 27,887,844 such visits being recorded. The total is 5.1 per cent higher than the 26.5 million visits reported in 1968's first quarter.

Hospitals are experiencing increased expenses in providing care to both inpatients and outpatients. Their total expenses in the early months of 1969 were $4,051,249,000, or 16.5 per cent more than in the first quarter of 1968.

According to "Indicators", hospital expenses are continuing to increase, but not as rapidly as in recent years.

Well, What Do You Know?

fun, games and knowledge

by MARTHA GLAUBER SHAPP, Editor, The New Book of Knowledge

Who first thought of the helicopter?

Leonardo da Vinci, the great 15th-century painter and sculptor, was also an architect, a scientist, and an engineer. He recorded many of his observations in notebooks, illustrating his theories with very beautiful and exact drawings. Among these is Leonardo's conception of a helicopter, first drawn hundreds of years before a flying machine was actually built. Twentieth-century engineers, with modern materials, have been able to build models that work perfectly, based on Leonardo's designs. (The notebooks are hard to read, however, because Leonardo used mirror writing; he did not want his ideas to be stolen.)

How does the skunk defend himself?

If you suddenly meet a skunk face to face, stand still. If you jump about, shout, or make any sudden movements, the skunk will take prompt defensive action. If you advance toward the skunk, it will raise its plumed tail as a clear warning signal. If you still advance, the skunk will whirl quick as a flash and fire salvo after salvo of evil-smelling liquid in your direction. You'll be sorry!

Musk glands inside the skunk's body store this powerful fluid until it is needed. When the skunk is threatened, strong muscles force the fluid out through two small openings, one on each side of the base of the tail. Aiming accurately, the skunk can shoot this clear, yellow fluid a distance of 12 or 15 feet. If it hits a victim in the face he gasps and chokes for breath. He is temporarily blinded and his eyes sting like fire. Water will relieve the pain, but it won't take away the powerful odor.

A fish may make sounds by giving off gas bubbles from its swim bladder. (A swim bladder is a balloonlike structure filled with air.) Fishes can also make sounds with special drumming muscles, which vibrate the swim-bladder wall. Fishes can also produce sounds by rubbing together the teeth in their upper throat, by twisting their head, or just with swimming motions. Sounds are uttered by males during fighting and courtship. Perhaps fish recognize each other through the sounds they make.

Camel Express Was Highway Experiment

One of our unique experiments in overland transportation in 1857, intending to demonstrate the superiority of camels over horses, mules and oxen as beasts of burden, failed largely because the energetic Americans of the Far West were unfamiliar with the placid customs of the Far East.

In 1851, Senator Jefferson Davis, later President of the Confederacy, citing the deserts in Africa and Asia where camels were employed, stated that the English found them useful in the East Indies for carrying army supplies and light guns. They could drink, before beginning a journey, enough water to last 100 miles and travel without rest at a rate of 10 to 15 miles an hour.

California newspaper advocated a "Lightning Dromedary Express" to carry fast mail and eastern newspapers to the Pacific coast in 15 days. The camels were to fill their internal water tanks at the Missouri river, streak across the plains without regard for thirst, forage on sage brush along the way, drink deeply again at the Colorado river and amble into California coast towns two weeks from the time of starting. The camels were to be the solution to all western transportation problems until the Pacific railway was completed.

In 1854, Congress appropriated $30,000 for the purchase and importation of about 75 camels which were shipped to this country and unloaded at Indianola, Tex., on the Gulf of Mexico. Thence a group of the camels was dispatched to Albuquerque, N. Mex., where an expedition was fitted out. The caravan followed closely the present United States Route 66, and crossed the Mohave desert to Fort Tejon, about 75 miles north of Los Angeles, Calif.

The reputed success of the camel experiment was only short lived. Mutual distrust and dislike soon developed between the animals and the American mule drivers. Their vigorous invective and fierce commands shocked the sensitive feelings of the quadrupeds who seldom had heard any language more strenuous than the soft liquid syllables lisped in the Arabian tongue. They balked at the rough treatment and refused to budge. The army horses and mules shared the drivers antipathy and when they encountered a camel were seized with fright, broke out of their harness and stampeded across the plains.

The camel experiment soon was admitted a failure by army officers. Every attempt to organize a camel caravan brought about incipient mutiny on the part of troopers and teamsters. Thus the "desert ships" were turned loose on the plains one by one. Some were killed by Indians who learned to enjoy camel steaks. Others died of neglect.

At the outbreak of the Civil War, 35 or 40 survivors were herded into United States forts. In 1882, some were sold to a menagerie in Arizona. The aged, white-haired survivors at the turn of the century recalled one of the rare gems of our highway history.

This article was quoted from "Historic American Highways," published by the American association of state highway officials.

Motorists Set New Record For Litter in 1968

Minnesota motorists scattered more litter along Minnesota highway rights of way in 1968 than ever before—1,040 truck loads more than in 1967, according to Frank W. Kuhfeld, Minnesota highway department maintenance engineer.

This increased the cost approximately $71,000, to $356,294, which was about a 25 per cent increase over 1967's record cost of $284,718 for collecting litter, garbage, bottles and trash along state highways. Litter included candy wrappers, beer bottles and cans, old furniture and mattresses and debris from building renovating.

It took 74,969 man hours to collect the junk and trash which filled 7,752 five-cubic-yard trucks and represents 33,063 truck hours to haul the debris away.

In computing the cost, it was found that the man hours to collect a truck load coupled with the cost of the equipment to haul the rubbish away approximated a cost of $39.83 per truck load.

"This represents the cost of construction of three and one-half miles of rural trunk highway which could have been built if the motorists would carry a litter bag and empty it in the proper receptacles or halt dumping trash along highways," Kuhfeld said.

A state law carries a fine of up to $100 for a motorist found throwing an article from a motor vehicle or dumping trash along a trunk highway right of way.

Boatmen Given Suggestions In Case of Storm

The best thing for boatmen to do in case of bad weather is to stay in port, advises the committee for national safe boating week. However, here's what to do if you are caught out on the water by bad weather:

Head for the nearest sheltered shore. If the weather is very choppy, sent your passengers on the lowest part of the vessel, keeping them as close to the centerline as possible, and head into the waves at reduced speed.

Should your motor fail, or if the sea is so strong you canot make headway, attach a sea anchor from the bow to keep the boat headed into the wind—a bucket or a shirt with the sleeves knotted together attached to a line will do the job in an emergency.

Keep calm. Panic spreads easily, and a well-found small boat is capable of surviving nicely in bad weather if handled calmly correctly.

Border Patrol Seeks Applicants For Law Career

U. S. border patrol of the immigration and naturalization service has an urgent need for physically fit young men desiring a career in federal law enforcement work. This is a career opportunity for those who like action and outdoor work.

The border patrol is the mobile, uniformed enforcement branch of the immigration and naturalization service. Its principal purpose is to prevent the smuggling and illegal entry of aliens into the United States. The border patrolmen, called immigration patrol inspectors, work along international boundaries, although their duties are not necessarily confined to these areas.

They work in jeeps, cars, on foot, in boats and even in airplanes. Officers investigate violations of the immigration laws and frequently make arrests. They are often required to work irregular hours, under all weather conditions. These duties demand mental alertness as well as exceptional physical vigor and stamina.

Entrance salary of an Immigration Patrol Inspector is $6,981 a year (Grade GS-7), and it is expected that these salaries will be increased after July 1, 1969. There are promotional opportunities up to executive levels in the immigration and naturalization service. On-the-job training offers splendid opportunities for promotion to positions of greater responsibility.

No experience is required for these positions. To qualify, applicants must pass a written test of verbal abilities, judgment and aptitude for learning a foreign language. Candidates who pass the written test are called for oral interviews in the order of their standing on the list. The oral interview is designed to determine if the candidate has the personal qualities needed for the work.

Applicants must also pass a rigid physical examination. Candidates who are selected for appointment are assigned to the border patrol academy for a period of intensive training in such subjects as immigration laws, Spanish, physical training and marksmanship. Trainees receive full pay while in the academy.

Applications are now being accepted for the civil service examination for immigration patrol inspector which will be held on Saturday, July 12. Additional examinations are scheduled for October, 1969; January, 1970, and April, 1970. However, those wishing to be tested in July must submit their applications before June 10. Full information is given in Announcement No. WAM-911 which may be secured from interagency boards of examiners and from many post offices as well as any office of the immigration and naturalization service. Applications should be submitted on the tear-out application form on the announcement or CSC Form 5000AB and forwarded to the Interagency Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners for Washington, D. C., 1900 E Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20415.

Niece of Local Men Will Make Tour of Europe

Diane Pearson, a former resident of Crookston who is the daughter of Glen Pearson, a resident of St. Vincent Rest Home and Mrs. Frances Pearson of Chisholm, left Monday for New York on the first leg of a three-month tour of Europe. She is a niece of Erven C. Pearson and Kenneth V. Pearson of Thief River Falls.

A senior next fall at the University of North Dakota, she will tour seven countries, including Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Belgium, Switzerland, Germany and Italy.

The program is an experimental one sponsored by UND and the U.S. government, with the sponsoring organizations providing expenses for the tour. Miss Pearson will return to the United States on Sept. 14, 1969.

Before leaving she will visit with friends in New York and will then go to Newport, Va., for four days of orientation by government officials.

Septic Tanks Are Not Models For Treating Sewage

Sometimes, people who flee city-life for the unpolluted living conditions in the country find the same conditions awaiting them that they thought they had left behind, writes Bob Ray of the Minnesota Pollution Control agency.

Most cities provide residential sewers. Most lakeshore cottages substitute septic tanks for sewers. A common fallacy about septic tanks is the idea that the effluent is pure, Ray said. Actually, a properly-operated sewage treatment plant has a more pure effluent than septic tanks provide.

About 75 per cent of the total solids in sewage are dissolved, or are of such fine particles that they do not settle-out in a septic tank. Most of the bacteria in sewage, including disease organisms, go through a septic tank and may pollute nearby wells or lakeshores.

In one family with a chronic diarrhea problem, health investigators discovered that of each 200 gallons of water drawn from their shallow well, nearly one gallon was sewage. The recommended solution to this type of pollution problem is to provide treatment—probably by hooking up to the nearest sewer system and treatment plant—as soon as lakeside wells are contaminated.

But how do you connect a sewer like that to a boat or fish house?

At first glance the question seems foolish, yet water-sports lovers spend thousands of manhours a year on the water, and cargo shipping adds its share of pollution to the deeper navigable waters.

The MPCA has approved three types of on-board pollution control devices for boats. These are incinerators, macerater-chlorinators, and holding tanks.

The holding tanks must be pumped out by a marina and, hopefully, piped to the local sewage treatment plant. Boaters with big families complain that their tank may be too small for long weekend trips. Other boaters complain that not enough Minnesota marinas have pumping facilities, or that they pump the tanks into the harbor instead of to the sewage treatment plant.

Perhaps the answer is to have an on-board sewage treatment plant. Many Minnesota boaters do have such systems. Some have bottled gas-fired incinerators (with fire extinguishers stationed nearby.)

Most boat-head disposal units, however, are the macerater-chlorinator type. These are garbage disposal type grinders, with an attachment for squirting chlorine into the effluent. The chlorine source may be gas, liquid bleach, or sodium chloride.

When properly operated, any MPCA-approved on-board pollution control device will maintain a safe effluent. The key is proper operation, and not many boat owners are sewage treatment plant operators. Neither are the coast guardsmen and game wardens who make annual boat inspections. Not only must owners of lakeside cottages, boats and fish houses be weekend mechanics, electricians, painters, plumbers, carpenters, fix-it men and landscape architects—but they must also know how to keep the septic tank and the boat-head devise from breaking down.

GI Bill Loan Programs Boost State's Economy

Economy of Minnesota has been boosted more than $1.5 billion in the past quarter of a century by the GI bill loan programs, according to John R. Murphy, manager of the Veterans Administration center in St. Paul.

Since the World War II program started on June 22, 1944, the VA has guaranteed or insured 150,000 loans in that amount for Minnesota veterans, he said.

Nationwide, the VA has guaranteed or insured more than 7.4 million loans, amounting to nearly $75 billion in the past 25 years. Nearly 7.1 million of these loans amounting to $71 billion were for homes, Murphy said.

Of the total VA-guaranteed or insured loans in the state, 3,830 amounting to $65 million were obtained by Vietnam era veterans.

Throughout the country, nearly 150,000 loans amounting to almost $2.6 billion were for Vietnam era veterans. All of these were home loans since the present post-Korean GI bill does not provide for business loans to veterans whose military service began after Jan. 31, 1955, he said.

Minnesota veterans have also proved to be responsible home owners, the manager said, emphasizing that 80,000 loans in the amount of $607 million have been repaid in full.

Nationwide, more than 3.6 million loans in the amount of $27.2 billion have been repaid in full.

Currently, Murphy said, nearly nine out of every 10 loans being guaranteed by the VA are for veterans who served after Jan. 31, 1955.

SBA Loan Officer Visits Bemidji

Perwin Knutson, loan officer of the Small Business administration, will be in Bemidji on July 10 to visit with small businessmen interested in obtaining SBA loans, as well as other services. Those applying for an SBA loan should bring their most recent financial statements with them.

Small business managers can get more information about any of these programs by arranging for an appointment with Knutson with the Bemidji Chamber of Commerce, Bemidji avenue and Third street, telephone 751-3540, or by writing to the SBA in Minneapolis.

Special Caution Required When Pulling Trailer

Greatly increased use of trailers on our highways, especially boat trailers, has created a serious traffic accident problem, which is aggravated by the fact that many drivers do not understand the characteristics of the trailer, Minnesota Highway Patrol Chief John J. Harbinson pointed out today. "The driver should be aware that his chances of having an accident increase substantially when he tows a trailer.

"Trailers of less than 1,500 pounds gross weight are not required to have brakes," he pointed out, "nor is there a special speed limit for vehicles towing trailers. But if a driver pulling a trailer without brakes at speeds above 35 miles per hour has to make a steering and braking maneuver at the same time, he is faced with an immediate hazard. It's a costly and dangerous way to learn about the peculiarities of the trailer.

"In spite of this potential hazard, we frequently see boat trailers being pulled at top speed on our highways. We also see them in launching areas with their wheels immersed in water—a good way to dilute the grease, get sand in the bearings, and cause wheel seizure at high speeds on the highway. This is a frequent factor in trailer accidents.

"A boat trailer should be serviced frequently, both for greasing and for tire inflation and inspection. All trailers should be serviced at the beginning of the season or before a long trip. Brakes are a good idea, even when not required by law. They help prevent accidents.

"In all cases reduced speeds are a must for a car-trailer combination. This means that a trailer without brakes should not be taken on high-speed highways. In all cases, the law requires that a vehicle towing a trailer outside of business and residential areas must maintain an interval of 500 feet behind the preceding vehicle."

Rondorf Given College Award

Donald L. Rondorf of Thief River Falls is among 89 students who have received awards for attaining an accumulative grade point average of 3.5 or better in the University of Minnesota's college of agriculture, forestry and home economics, according to Ralph E. Miller, secretary of the college scholarship committee. He received two books published by the National Geographic society as his award.

Meat Inspection Program Given Federal Approval

U.S. department of agriculture has announced that it has completed a cooperative agreement with Minnesota as a major step toward establishing a strong federal-state meat inspection program in the state.

Signed by both Minnesota and USDA's consumer and marketing service, the agreement will help the state implement the "wholesome meat act of 1967" to extend inspection to intrastate meat packing and processing operations.

Minnesota is eligible for federal funds, covering up to 50 per cent of the cost of developing and operating its inspection program, as well as technical assistance provided by marketing service inspection personnel.

The Minnesota inspection program will cover meat plants which sell or ship meat products within the state. Plants slaughtering and processing products for sale across state lines or in foreign commerce will continue to be federally inspected.

Before the agreement was completed June 13, Minnesota's present inspection procedures and meat plants were surveyed by a joint federal-state survey team, to determine the extent of the state's program, any needed improvements and estimated cost for improving it. Minnesota provided the federal agency with a plan detailing how the state intends to improve its inspection program.

The wholesome meat act applies a uniform standard of wholesomeness to all meat, whether state or federally inspected. Each state has until December of 1969 (or December of 1970 if significant progress is being made) to establish a meat inspection program at least equal to the federal program.

Thirty-eight other states and Puerto Rico now have wholesome meat act agreements with USDA.

HURRY UP and RELAX

Highways, superhighways, turnpikes, freeways, expressways—they crisscross America, leading in every imaginable direction. And, they get you there so fast, you are past the right exit before you know it. We live in such a speed-oriented world that, when we are not working, we feel we must "hurry up and relax." At times we even feel guilty when we are not busy about something.

We don't really like our foolish pace. We speak longingly of peace of mind and quietude, and we take tranquilizers by the ton. We search frantically . . . on vacations, on "lost weekends," on "fun activities" . . . but tranquility is hard to find.

Perhaps we are seeking too hard. Perhaps tranquility is not to be sought. Rather, isn't it what happens when you are at peace with yourself, no matter the circumstances?

You can be at peace with yourself only when you are at peace with God. He is the very center of your being, and His peace is freely given when you accept it.

Accept this great gift of God in the very best place of all—His Church.

"The health of the mind is no less uncertain than that of the body, and when passions seem furthest removed we are no less in danger of infection than of falling ill when we are well." — LaRochefoucauld

Don't Blow the Bit . . .

Hey, kids! If you think Big Daddy government is out of it, dig the latest from the President's council on youth opportunity. While you're cooling it at the pad, hanging around the street corner eyeballing the chicks or bugging the fuzz, have someone read you the council's paperback, man. You can scan the colored pictures and follow along.

(For you older cats in the establishment, we're talking about a multi-colored booklet on slick paper and titled "for GUYS and GALS who are looking for SUMMER JOBS". It's a 12-page pamphlet four and one-half inches high and 10 inches long with a minimum of type and maximum of colored illustrations. It attempts (apparently) to get through to unemployed young people by using what is believed to be teenage vernacular.)

"Want a summer job?" the booklet starts out. Then it continues as follows, with punctuation the same as it appears in the booklet: "Dig this booklet it hips you to how you can: Put some cash in your pocket. Get some work experience. Or get a full-time gig.

"Everybody can get a job. But, you got to be hip to how to do it. Start now before you get out of school and beat all the other cats to the punch. Check the want ads. Ask your friends who have had jobs to turn you on to what's happnin. Even ask at churchs. And be sure to check out all the business people in your town. Ask them to give you a job.

"If they can't help you maybe they know somebody who can. But here's the hip thing to do. Check with your school counselors. Your youth opportunity center and your local state employment service. These cats got a whole bag of jobs they can turn you on to. They can tell you what you need to get a job and they can turn you on to jobs where you can do your own thing plus they make the contacts for you. They will set up interviews with employers that have job openings. Remember, check these cats out first: Your school counselors, your youth opportunity center and your local state employment office. You can't lose.

"The interview this is here you start to turn on before you go to the interview, find out what the company is doing. It's simple: The more you know about the company the better your chances of a good interview. But don't blow the gig before you get to the interview. Be sure like be positive that you know: Where the interview is and what time to be there would you hire somebody that showed up for an interview a day late? Go on time!

"Go alone! Don't take your friends and by all means, don't take Mom! What does an employer need with somebody that can't stand on his two feet? Another thing, dress neat save your micro minis and your tight bright green slacks for parties dress like a businessman.

"How else? Okay, so you're neat and clean when you're talking to the man. Be cool. Think before you answer any questions. Give it to him straight if you've got talents, skills, special hobbies, tell him about them but don't make up any. These cats can spot a phony right off. If you don't get the first gig, don't be a jerk. Keep lookin. There are hundreds of jobs out here and you can get one.

"After you get your first job hang in there if you goof off and be late all of the time your employer won't dig it and he may ask you to get your hat. But if you do your best you will be helping the employer and he will look out for you with: A raise, a permanent job offer, or a job next summer."

There you are, young America. If that bit doesn't turn you on so you fly to the outside and cop a gig, someone somewhere has really blown the bit. (Isn't government creativity wonderful?)

Appoint or Elect

Minnesota legislators rejected during the past session a proposed amendment to the state constitution which would have made appointive rather than elective the offices of state auditor, state treasurer, secretary of state and attorney general. We thank them for their wise decision.

Government is already becoming too far removed from the people, and bureaus and agencies of government are becoming too independent of the people's representatives which created those bureaus and agencies. Departments are created for specific purposes with limited powers, but by regulations which have the effect of law, they grow and increase their power and soon become the masters of their creators.

When residing in public offices where they are safe from direct public reaction through the ballot box, public officials too frequently act unwisely. The U.S. supreme court—politically appointed for life terms—is a good example, recently over-ruling a Congressional action in disciplining an errant member. Another example is Duane Mattheis, commissioner of education in Minnesota, who defied state legislative ruling and advised local school districts to go slow in implementing the busing of non-public school students.

On the latter question, there is a decided difference of opinion among members of the public. Be that as it may, any reaction to legislative action should be relfected in the general public's protest—not by the appointed public official whose job it is merely to carry out the directions of the legislature.

Americans—and specifically Minnesotans—should not be too willing to give up the responsibility of electing to public office people who are qualified to handle the tasks given them and yet responsive to the public voice.

The Side of Safety

From the Richmond, Va., Times-Dispatch comes this editorial:

"Some people say it is wrong to say that we could be stronger; that it's dangerous to say that we could be more secure. But in times such as this, I say it is wrong and dangerous for any American to keep silent about our future if he is not satisfied with what is being done to preserve that future."

Who said that?

Richard Nixon? Defense Secretary Melvin Laird? No. It was the late John F. Kennedy. The time was September, 1960, and Kennedy was campaigning for the Presidency. . .

It is ironic that his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, seems to be campaigning for the White House today on a very similar issue—but with virtually the opposite point of view.

While one Kennedy (John) worried that we were falling behind the Russians and charged that a Republican administration wasn't doing enough to protect us from the danger, the other (Edward) now says that it is foolish to fret about recent Soviet missile advances, and charges that a Republican administration plan to provide the country with protection, via an ABM defense system, is "highly provocative," and "false security". . .

For several years, we've neglected our strategic weapons, while the Soviets have been adding to their arsenal. There is a danger now that a genuine "missile gap" is developing. But that doesn't seem to worry Edward Kennedy. Unlike his brother, his concern is not that we could be militarily stronger, but that in protecting ourselves with a defensive missile system we will provoke the Russians.

If JFK was wrong in 1960 about the "missile gap", at least he erred on the side of safety. For surely it is better to find out that you've exaggerated the power and hostile intentions of an enemy than to discover—perhaps too late—that you've underestimated them.

Too Materialistic?

The main fault of the U.S. in the eyes of many of its detractors is that it is too materialistic. Apparently, they are saying that too many people have too much. What they are talking about is the unique phenomenon of a nation that has broken the chains that have bound men through all of human history to systems where a great majority of the people lived in slavery and want. Under these systems, materialism and rampant and brutal. It consisted of living under the lash and grubbing for a living.

In the words of The Wall Street Journal, "Our materialism in this age is highly visible because for the first time the average man is not condemned to back-breaking labor but instead has the means to indulge his tastes. Certainly it is a good, not an evil, development that people have been able to pull themselves out of abject poverty and serfdom or actual enslavement and reach a stage where they can lead a more decent and civilized life."

As The Journal concludes, critics of the American society ". . .fail to realize the grim irony: That their determination to destroy a materialistic society could only lead to the worst kind of materialism, the chains of material poverty and of political authoritarianism."

How much longer will it last? This is the big question at this time on feeder pig prices. Are we in for a repeat of what happened 4 years ago or will the normal price break in feeder pig prices occur again this year.

We're still looking for someone to be our buyer in the Winger area. If you are interested give me a call or stop in while we're at the Joppru Livestock Market on Tuesday morning between 8:00 A.M. and Noon to buy feeder pigs.

Right now it looks like a steady market again this coming week.
